NEW TRIAL DENIED BIRGER AND AIDS; MEN SENTENCED

Hyland Joins Newman in Accepting Life Sentences, but Appeal Is Made as Legal Formality.

DATE OF HANGING SET BY JUDGE FOR OCT. 15

Gangsters to Start for Prison Tomorrow or Friday—"Might Be Worse Next Time," Says One.

By a Post-Dispatch Staff Correspondent.

BENTON, Ill., July 27.—New trials for Charlie Birger, condemned to death and for Art Newman and Ray Hyland, sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City, were denied today by Circuit Judge Miller, after counsel for Birger alone had presented arguments.

Birger then was formally sentenced by Judge Miller to die on the gallows Oct. 15, and Hyland and Newman received their formal sentences to the penitentiary. They had presented motions for a new trial as a mere formality(both having announced their decision to accept the jury's verdict. Their counsel, H. R. Dial and W. F. Dillon, did not argue on the motions.

Charles Karch and Robert Smith, representing Birger, presented arguments which followed closely the allegations set forth in the motion. State's Attorney Martin opposed the motion in a brief speech.

Birger's only recourse now is an appeal to the Supreme Court to reverse the death sentence.

Hyland and Newman will leave for prison tomorrow or Friday.

"I am going ahead and take my jolt and make the best of it," Hyland said. "It might be worse next time."

Newman Still Has Hope.

Hyland was linked by strong, direct testimony as the driver of the car used by Harry and Elmo Thomasson in assassinating Adams at the order of Charlie Birger, condemned leader of the gang. Had Hyland got a new trial he might be sentenced to the gallows by another jury. As for Newman, he places his trust in friends who will seek clemency for him as a reward for his services to the State.

In discussing his decision Hyland expressed regret that he must desert Birger, who is making an appeal from a death sentence. Birger hired Hyland's lawyer for him and offered to pay for Newman's lawyer. Newman chose to have the court appoint him counsel as a poor person rather than accept aid from Birger.

The motions for a new trial were based on allegations of prejudice and errors in the record. Most of the defense complaints were against Judge Miller's rulings on motions for severance, challenge of the jury array, bill of particulars and change of venue presented during the trial. The Judge had denied all these motions.

Federal Warrant for Aviator Who Admitted Bombing Cabin.

Department of Justice agents today obtained warrants at East St. Louis charging Elmer Kane, Waterloo, Ia., aviator, and Henry Mondale, not described, with the transportation of a stolen automobile from Illinois to Memphis, Tenn.

The informations state that Kane and Mondale received the stolen car from the late Mayor Joe Adams of West City in part payment for their work in bombing "Shady Rest," Charlie Birger's fortified cabin, from an airplane, last Nov. 12.

Kane was arrested at Waterloo July 16 and admitted he was the man who bombed Birger's cabin after being hired by Adams. He said he got an automobile and $1000 for the job. State's Attorney Arlie Boswell of Williamson County informed Waterloo authorities there were no charges against Kane and he was released.

TRAIN FIREMAN SAVES BOY

Runs to Pilot of Moving Engine and Pushes Him Aside.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BUNCETON, Mo., July 27.—Verne Lee, 18-month-old son of Virgil Oswald, Bunceton farmer, was saved from death Saturday by Charles G. Schmidt, fireman on a local freight between Tipton and Boonville. The boy had wandered onto the track. When the mother heard the whistle she saw the train just rounding the curve 30 feet away.

Engineer F. M. Roberts applied the brakes. Schmidt, realizing it would be impossible for the train to stop, raced along the running board of the engine, dropped down on the pilot and pushed the boy aside. The engine passed two car lengths past the place before stopping.

U. S. MARINES AND AIRPLANES TO HUNT DOWN SANDINO BAND

Detachment Expected to Encounter Nicaraguan Irregulars at San Fernando, Near Ocotal, Following Ambush.

By the Associated Press.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, July 27.—United States Marines and the Nicaraguan constabulary today were awaiting orders to run down Gen. Sandino's band of irregulars which on Monday tried to ambush a column of Marines and constabulary under Maj. Oliver Floyd at San Fernando. A number of shots were fired, a Marine and several constabularymen being wounded, but the irregulars were routed with the loss of several killed and many wounded.

Military circles expect that an action will soon take place between the irregulars and the Marines, in which airplanes will have a part, just as they did in the fight at Ocotal, when Sandino's men tried to capture that town from a handful of Marines and constabulary. At Ocotal Sandino lost 300 men. The Marines lost one man killed and another was wounded.

Ocotal and San Fernando, north of Managua, are 20 miles apart.

Maj. Floyd was sent to this district with a detachment of Marines after the Ocotal fight to prevent reorganization of Sandino's forces.

HENRY WHITE'S $1,000,000 GOES TO HIS TWO CHILDREN

Nothing for Widow; Ex-Ambassador Said He Couldn't Compensate Her for Love.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—From an estate estimated at more than $1,000,000, Henry White, former United States ambassador to France and Italy and a delegate to the Versailles peace conference, left nothing to his widow in his will, probated here yesterday.

"There is nothing that I could leave her that would adequately compensate her for my love and affection for her," the will said, adding that she had been provided for during his lifetime.

The bulk of the estate was divided between White's daughter, Countess Scherr Thoss, and his son, John Campbell White.

2 CONDEMNED MEN GET STAY

U. S. Supreme Court Will Pass on Petition of Kentuckians.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The death sentence imposed upon Nathan Bard and Bunyan Fleming in Kentucky for rape has been stayed by Justice Holmes until the Supreme Court can pass upon their petition for a review at its next term, beginning in October.

The order by Justice Holmes, announced by the clerk of the Court today, was issued July 14, the day prior to the expiration of a stay of execution granted July 9 by Justice Brandeis. Justice Holmes in granting a stay to the two men, who are Negroes, filed an opinion saying it was granted because human lives were involved and that he thought it proper that the Supreme Court should have an opportunity to decide whether it would review the case.

PHIL BALL BUYS PLANE LIKE COL. LINDBERGH'S

Owner of Browns Will Use $11,000 Machine for Business and Pleasure.

Phil DeC. Ball, owner of the Browns' baseball club, has bought for $11,000 an airplane of the same model as the "Spirit of St. Louis" which Col. Lindbergh flew across the Atlantic, and intends to use it for business and pleasure trips.

Ball, who has made only occasional airplane flights heretofore, said today that he and Lieut. Frank Dunn, his pilot, will leave St. Louis within a few days for San Diego, where they will take charge of the plane and fly it back to St. Louis.

"I feel that flying is perfectly safe," Ball said, "and I am going to try out the airplane for business trips as well as for pleasure. The ship is a Ryan brougham, and carries four passengers and a pilot."

Lindbergh's plane carried gasoline for more than 40 hours of cruising. In Ball's plane gasoline for eight hours' flying is carried and the additional weight lifting capacity of the plane is devoted to carrying passengers and baggage. The cabin of the plane is entirely enclosed. The Ryan brougham is powered with a 220-horsepower Whirlwind motor and is capable of a cruising speed of more than 100 miles an hour.

FORD DEALERS QUIT TAKING 'INDEPENDENT' SUBSCRIPTIONS

Detroit Agencies Admit Letter From Company Ordered Discontinuance.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, July 27.—A canvass of Detroit automobile agencies today showed that letters had been received from the Ford Motor Co. ordering the discontinuance of taking subscriptions for the Dearborn Independent, the Ford-owned magazine. Several of the dealers also said the letters directed them to return money recently received on subscriptions.

Officers of the Ford Motor Co. would neither confirm nor deny the report. Assistants in the office of the circulation department of the Dearborn Independent, while intimating that such orders had been issued, stated that they were unable to give out details. At the office of W. J. Cameron, editor of the publication, secretaries reported that the matter lay "entirely in the hands of the circulation department."

A statement was made by the Ford company some weeks ago that the Dearborn Independent would be converted into a house organ.

1000 REPORTED DROWNED IN BRITISH INDIA FLOOD

Reservoir, 15 Square Miles in Area, Said to Have Burst Banks, Inundating Villages.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 27.—An unconfirmed report from Ahmedabad, Bombay Presidency, British India, states that 1000 deaths occurred in the native State of Baroda when a reservoir, 15 square miles in area, burst its banks and flooded surrounding villages.

Communications between Bombay and Baroda are cut off.

PLANE KILLS MAN ON HORSE

Missouri Cavalryman Is Decapitated by Low Flying Ship.

By the Associated Press.

EL PASO, Tex., July 27.—Robert E. Griffin of Bucklin, Mo., a private in Troop E, Seventh Cavalry, was killed yesterday when a low flying airplane struck him in joint air and land maneuvers near Fort Bliss.

Griffin was galloping his horse over the mesa when he was struck by the landing gear of a plane piloted by Cadet E. P. Rose. He was decapitated.

ALDERMAN URGES CITY TO BUY U. R. FOR $52,000,000

Wimer to Offer Resolution for Appointment of Commission to Investigate Purchase.

WILL SUBMIT PLAN TO BOARD SEPT. 30

Chairman of Rapid Transit Committee Would Accept Valuation as Already Fixed by State Hearings.

Purchase of the United Railways properties by the city, for the approximate valuation of $52,000,000 placed upon them by the State Public Service Commission, is the plan now advocated by Alderman Samuel L. Wimer of the Twenty-seventh Ward, chairman of the Board of Aldermen Special Committee on Rapid Transit.

Alderman Wimer today announced his decision to introduce a resolution, when the board reconvenes Sept. 30, proposing that a commission of seven be named, to investigate the question of purchase of the United Railways property.

His suggestion is that the commission should consist of the Mayor, Comptroller, President of the Board of Public Service, one Alderman, and three citizens named by the Mayor. The Mayor and Comptroller would have no votes. The commission, as he plans it, would serve four years, and members would be irremovable, to prevent political pressure.

"I would favor a bond issue of $100,000,000" Alderman Wimer said, "of which $52,000,000 would provide for purchase of the street car lines and equipment, and the other $48,000,000 would start the new rapid transit system. With $48,000,000, some eight miles of downtown subway lines could be constructed.

"There would be a saving to the city, as I figure it, of 3 per cent annually, for a 30-year period, on the $52,000,000 valuation. If the street car lines remain in private ownership, and a service-at-cost plan is adopted, with a 7 per cent return to the company, it would mean that the people would have to pay 7 per cent on the $52,000,000, as the company's return. Service-at-cost is really a cost-plus plan.

"If the city issued bonds for the purchase of the lines, the cost to the people would be 4 per cent on the $52,000,000, or a saving of 3 per cent on this large amount annually."

City Ownership Best Plan,

Wimer said he had come to believe in municipal ownership as the best solution of the street car problem, though formerly he was opposed to the idea. He cited the Water Department as an instance of a public utility economically operated and giving satisfaction to the public.

"With municipal ownership," he said, "I believe the service could be co-ordinated, some useless lines eliminated, bus feeder service extended, and transportation generally co-ordinated."

LINDBERGH REACHES ALBANY AFTER VISIT TO NEW ENGLAND

Thousands Crowd Roofs and Windows in Capital of New York to Greet Flyer.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 27.—Charles A. Lindbergh and his "Spirit of St. Louis" landed at the Albany airport at 2:06 o'clock, daylight time, this afternoon.

The flying Colonel arrived from Springfield, Vt., where he spent last night, exactly on schedule. He was greeted by an official reception committee of 200 persons, headed by Major John Boyd Thacher. Before alighting, Lindbergh made several wide circles over the city and was cheered by thousands who crowded roofs and windows.

Col. Lindbergh completed his visit to New England by a flight this morning over President Coolidge's home town.

"We" Insured for $150,000.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 27.—"We" are insured for $150,000, E. P. Veitch, a broker, revealed yesterday, policies have been placed on the life of Charles Lindbergh and on his plane, "The Spirit of St. Louis," for the duration of the trans-Atlantic flyer's present country-wide tour.. A policy for $25,000 was written on Lindbergh's life, a public liability policy for $10,000 to $100,000 and a property damage policy for $10,000. A $15,000 policy covering damage to the plane by fire taken out on Lindbergh's return from France is still in force.

MARIE DISCLAIMS AMBITION TO RULE, NOW KING IS DEAD

Denies She Wanted Regency in Rumania — Says Ferdinand Would Have Named Her if She Had.

DECLARES SHE LOVES DAUGHTER-IN-LAW

After Mourning She Hopes to Travel Again — Willing That Ileana Should Wed American.

By JAMES A. MILLS,
Associated Press Staff Correspondent

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 27.—A plea to the people of America not to forget her in her sorrow was made by Queen Marie when she received the correspondent at Cotroceni Palace while King Ferdinand lay dead in an adjoining room.

"Death has torn my heart and seared my soul," she said. "It has taken from me my dear husband and the gentlest and most dutiful of kings. It reduced me from a reigning Queen to a lonely widow. I shall sit cloistered and alone in this little room to bear the agony which God has thrust upon me.

"Let not the people of America forget me in my sorrow. Let the women especially give me their sisterly love and consolation. I am only a widow now. My throne is gone. I need the support of my dear American friends to bear the slings and arrows which even in death are directed against me by the outside world."

Black-Veiled, White Mantled.

With a huge crucifix resting on the wall just above her head, and with her face enveloped in deep black veil relieved by a mantle of white, Marie resembled a mother superior in a convent more than a Queen.

Only the muffled shuffling of peasants' footsteps passing the King's coffin in the adjacent death chamber could be heard. Burning incense and flickering candles cast an eerie pall over the room. At her side were a Bible and other religious books, and in front of her was an illuminated Ikon.

"My critics and adversaries say I am an ambitious woman, that I wanted the regency, that I wanted to be a modern Cleopatra, that I wished to be Queen," she went on. "This is cruelly false. I wish to be allowed to carry on the King's work for the good of all Rumania.

"In any station of life when a husband dies, it is the duty of the widow to stay at home and look after the children. The King was the father of the Rumanian people. I am their mother. Surely they still want me to guide them, not only as Queen, but as mother. With the King gone, I shall have a twofold duty to perform for my country—his own and mine.

Could Have Had Power.

"Throughout the King's long and recurring illnesses, his mind was perfectly clear and normal. Had I wanted to succeed him upon his death as absolute ruler of Rumania, I need only have asked him and his choice would have been supreme. But as a matter of fact, we never once discussed the question in spite of the fact that from time to time various persons and political groups urged me insistently to become sole regent.

"Those who think evil things of me say I dislike my daughter-in-law Helen (Carol's wife); that I am jealous of her; that I even begrudge little Mihai inheriting the legal right to the throne. These accusations are heartlessly false. I love Helen and her child with all my heart. They have been deserted by their husband and father. Shall I forsake them in this solemn, trying hour when Mihai (Michael) is about to ascend to the throne? No, a Queen's heart has greater love than that."

Ferdinand's Last Hours.

From this subject, Queen Marie turned to Ferdinand's last hours on earth.

"He was like a child in his simplicity and faith," she continued. "When the King of all Kings sat on his invisible throne beckoning Ferdinand to come, he clung to me pathetically and said, 'How can I leave you and the children and the country?' He begged me to stand between him and Eternity. But God knew better and took him from me. His dying words were: 'I am tired; I want to rest.'

"Only a few weeks ago I obtained some catalogues and flower seeds from the United States Department of Agriculture and discussed with the King the planting of them in our gardens, which he now is never to see. The poor

LITTLE PROSPECT OF SOLUTION IN COAL DEADLOCK

Illinois Operators' Association, at Close of St. Louis Meeting, Say Wages Must Be Reduced.

The Illinois Coal Operators' Association met at Hotel Statler today to discuss the deadlock between the operators and miners existing since the Illinois soft coal mines shut down April 1, but nothing to indicate early resumption of production came of the meeting.

After the meeting, which ended at noon, Rice Miller of Hillsboro, Ill., head of the association, issued a statement that "the operators acnnot renew the Jacksonville terms and live." When the Jacksonville wage agreement, signed in 1924, expired March 31, last, miners and operators prepared for a long siege of idleness.

"An unnecessarily high cost of producing coal without commensurate benefit to the worker has progressively cut Illinois coal out of its natural markets in favor of coal from greater distances but mined under more elastic and sensible conditions of wage structure," said Miller in his formal statement.

No Hint as to Plans.

Coal operators from Chicago and other sections of Illinois were here for the meeting, the first the association has held in a month. While there is a general belief that the Illinois mines will reopen in the fall, Miller gave no hint as to when the operators expected to resume production.

No adjustments have been made in wage contracts in the unionized Illinois coal fields for seven years, according to Miller's statement. The Jacksonville agreement, it stated, "carried the highest wages and many unnecessarily expensive working rules that had grown up during the war and post-war periods. Changes in the industry since then, he argued, have made the old wage scale obsolete.

Less Union Control.

"Union production," his statement continued, "has constantly shrunk and nonunion expanded until, taking the annual basis without considering the present strike, today less than one-third of the country's bituminous coal is from union territory. The union's control of the industry has shrunk from more than two-thirds to less than one-third in course of a few years.

"The operators have done everything in their power to convince union leaders of the fallacy of this inflexible policy, and to persuade these leaders to win back the natural prosperity of the union fields by constructive co-operation and wise adjustments of outgrown conditions. No progress was made. Meanwhile more and more union mines have been forced out of the markets, or whole districts—such as Northern West Virginia, Western Pennsylvania and parts of Ohio—have been forced to break

2 KILLED AT SEA IN FIGHT WITH U. S. DRY AGENTS

Shot When Prohibition Officers Are Denied Right to Board Dutch Schooner Off Porto Rico.

By the Associated Press.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, July 27.—The prohibition enforcement unit here reported it had received advices from Curacao, Dutch West Indies, that the captain and one member of the crew of the Dutch schooner Elana have died from wounds received last week during a fight between the ship and United States prohibition officers.

A message states the Elana refused to permit the prohibition enforcement officers to board her while she was in Porto Rican waters. The officers reported the Elana fired on a patrol boat, whereupon they exhausted their entire ammunition in trying to stop the schooner, but she escaped.

The captain of the Johanna, a sister ship of the Elana, was brought into port Monday on a charge of having liquor aboard. The captain says he was 45 miles from the coast when he was captured. The prohibition officials say that he was only eight miles out.

GIRL THROWN FROM HORSE SUFFERS SERIOUS INJURIES

Miss Teddy Hodgdon, Daughter of Probate Judge, Was Riding With Sister.

Miss Teddy Hodgdon, daughter of Probate Judge Hodgdon of St. Louis County, is in the Bethesda-Dilworth Memorial Hospital at Webster Groves with serious injuries suffered last Saturday morning when she was thrown from her father's horse.

She was riding with her sister, Sarah, when her mount shied at a red flag posted at an excavation in the street, backed against a telegraph pole, and then bolted, flinging her to the paved street. She suffered a fractured vertebra and three broken ribs and was taken immediately to the hospital.

She is 27 years old, a social worker in Chicago, and was on vacation visiting her parents.

Judge Hodgdon has two riding horses for himself and family. It was he who found, when out on a Sunday morning canter, the bullet-riddled body of Clifford M. Hicks, murdered young attorney, by the side of a St. Louis County road several weeks ago.

French Cabinet Refuses Authority to Dieudonne Coste.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 27.—The French Cabinet today formally declared itself against authorizing the proposed Paris-New York flight of Dieudonne Coste, at the same time laying down the principle that no such flights in military planes would be sanctioned unless the planes are equipped with pontoons for a safe descent in the sea.

BRITISH SAY TEMPORARY CRUISER PLAN IS POSSIBLE

Foreign Secretary Chamberlain Gives Government's View of Geneva Parley to House of Commons.

DELEGATES SENT BACK TO GENEVA

Indicate Conference Will Be Brought to Close With a Decision Reached One Way or Another.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 27. — Great Britain has no desire to destroy equality of sea power as between herself and the United States, Sir Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Minister, told the House of Commons in an eagerly awaited statement defending the proposals set forth by the British delegates at the tripartite naval conference at Geneva.

"Despite the efforts of our delegates at Geneva," he said, "serious misapprehensions of the aims of the British Government still prevail in some quarters. His Majesty's government even has been charged with the desire to destroy that equality of sea power as between the United States and the British Empire, which the Washington conference contemplated—a suspicion for which there is no foundation."

Sir Austen told the House that the British plenipotentiaries, who have been consulting the Cabinet in London, were returning to Geneva to continue the negotiations, which, it was trusted, would reach a successful conclusion.

Temporary Basis Possible.

In the opinion of the British Government, he said, there need be no difficulty in reaching a temporary arrangement regarding the immediate future of the difficult question of cruiser building.

Answering a question regarding a statement said to have been widely repeated abroad that 600,000 tons in cruisers was demanded by the chief British delegate at the beginning of the conference, Sir Austen said that W. C. Bridgeman, chief of the British delegation, never had mentioned the figure 600,000.

Discussing the essential purpose of the Geneva conference which was called on the invitation of President Coolidge, Sir Austen said:

"The basis of the conference, as we understand it, and in the President's own intention, is to reconcile the limitation of armament with national security, and that is the only basis for the limitation of armament that ever can be brought to a successful issue."

Withholds Detailed Plans.

Sir Austen said that it would be improper at this stage to make any detailed explanation of the British proposals or those of the other interested powers.

"The statement I am going to read is therefore designed only to remove a misunderstanding which if continued uncorrected, could not but impede the prospects of success," he said.

"The invitation of the President of the United States to take part in the disarmament conference was understood by His Majesty's Government to be based on the desire to develop the policy of the Washington conference by diminishing yet further labor and expenditure while maintaining national security," said the secretary. "With this two-fold aim His Majesty's Government is in complete agreement, and they desire to measure the merits of every proposal by the degree to which it furthers this two-fold purpose."

"It is with this principle that they propose to diminish the size and armament of battleships but leaving unaltered the numbers fixed at Washington," Chamberlain continued.

"It is for this reason also that they suggest limitation in the number and armament of large fighting cruisers on principles similar to those adopted at Washington for battleships. This proposal, like the first, would greatly diminish national expenditures without endangering national security.

Complications to Be Untangled.

"The questions connected with smaller cruisers are of a more complicated character. The strength of the fleets can be stated in figures and prepared with precision. Their primary function is to fight other fleets and, speaking broadly, they can easily be compared with each other. No such similar way of looking at the subject is possible

GOVERNOR VISITS SACCO - VANZETTI MURDER SCENE

Fuller Goes to South Braintree, Measures Distances to Check Up on Witnesses' Testimony.

ADVISORY BOARD SILENT ON REPORT

Massachusetts Executive Makes Second Visit to Prison Where Condemned Radicals Are Held.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, July 27. — Gov. Fuller last night paid his second visit to State prison, where Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti await his decision. He was entirely unobserved.

Reporters today checking up on his visit to the scene of the condemned radicals' alleged crime in South Braintree ran into rumors that he also had visited the prison. Prison officers reluctantly admitted that the Governor called there last night, but refused to tell how long he stayed or with whom he talked.

Besides Sacco and Vanzetti, it was thought that he might have wished to further question Celestino F. Madeiros, who has asserted that a Providence gang of which he was a member murdered the paymaster and his guard and not the two men who have been convicted.

Both prisoners continued their hunger strike today, although Vanzetti drank some coffee at breakfast time.

Visits Murder Scene.

The Governor slipped quietly out a side door of the Statehouse yesterday, and, accompanied only by two State policemen, went to South Braintree where in 1920 the paymaster and guard of the Slater & Morrill shoe factory were shot down in a holdup. This was the crime for which Sacco and Vanzetti were convicted and sentenced to death.

Their execution, originally set for July 10, has been stayed until Aug. 10, to permit the Governor and a special advisory committee to review the case.

The Governor personally measured the distance from the factory to that of another building nearby from which a State's witness testified he had seen the two convicted men in an automobile. He also measured the distance from the factory to a railroad crossing on which, as testified at the trial, in the face of an approaching train, the holdup killers sped and were lost to view.

Advisory Board Silent.

While the advisory committee studied its report in seclusion yesterday, Sacco and Vanzetti waited in their cells at the State prison with varied emotions. Visitors reported Sacco was vigorous and still hopeful, Vanzetti depressed and weak.

Sacco's wife, Rose, who has been a regular visitor to her husband since his arrest seven years ago, took their two children to see their father. Vanzetti has been preparing an argument to be presented to Gov. Fuller.

The Governor yesterday interviewed a number of witnesses.

The advisory committee, the members of which are President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard, President Samuel Stratton of Massachusetts Institute of Technology and former Judge Robert Grant of the Probate Court, has given no intimation as to when its report will be ready.

Dreyfus Joins French Committee To Plead for Radicals.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 27.—Maj. Alfred Dreyfus, central figure in one of the world's most famous criminal prosecutions in 1903, serving four years in the French penal colony of Devil's Island for treason only to be exonerated later, has accepted an invitation to be a member of a committee to go to the United States to plead for Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti.

The committee, being organized by the newspaper L'Oeuvre, is to be made up of eminent persons like Countess De Noailles, George Lecomte, Prof. Langevin, Louis Loucheur and Louis Malvy.

Venice Paving Contract Awarded.

The Concord Construction Co., of East St. Louis, received the contract for paving a one-mile section of Broadway and Main street from the Venice Board of Local Improvements yesterday. The contract price is $107,039, two-thirds of which will be paid by the Illinois Traction Co. Work on the section, which serves as the Illinois approach to the McKinley Bridge, will begin next week.

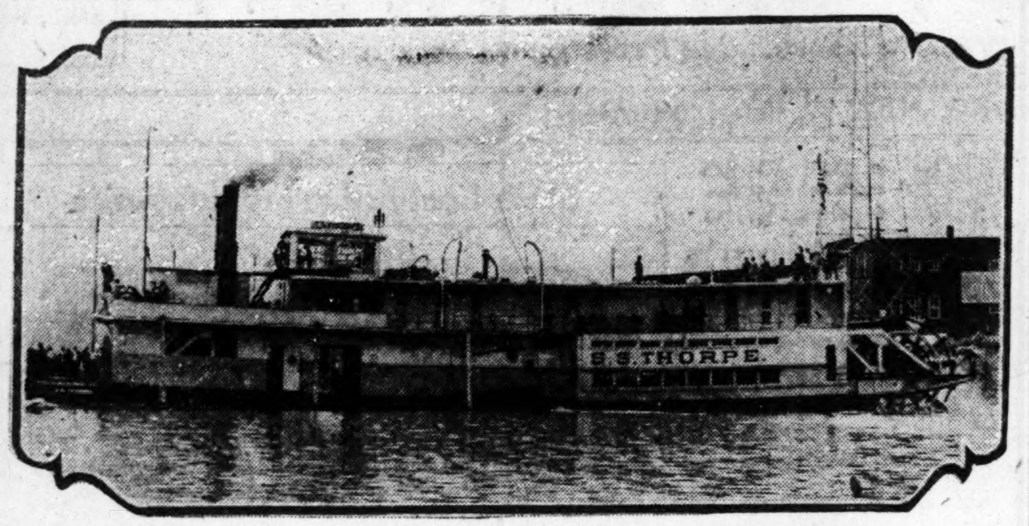
New Type River Boat Passes Tests



DUBUQUE, Ia., July 27.

THE S. S. Thorpe, first of four new type towboats which are to revive freight traffic on the upper Mississippi, is ready for service. It cost $165,000. Officials of the Upper Mississippi Barge Line accepted it after exacting tests made in the last few days.

The Thorpe and three sister boats now being built are 160 feet long, have a 35-foot beam and draw 3½ feet of water. The gross weight of each is about 300 tons. They are stern-wheelers and oil-burners, capable of developing 600 to 1000 horsepower, and of a speed of 16 miles an hour. From below the water-line to the top of the boiler deck they are steel, the upper structures being of wood. Each requires a crew of 19 men.

Dubuque, which voted bonds last fall for the building of a barge terminal, is rushing the work on the terminal, and expects to have it in use, for interchange of rail and river shipments, by Sept. 1.

man thought he would recover, but the doctors knew otherwise."

The Queen wept bitterly. She said the King would have liked as a father to have seen Carol before he died, but he could not with propriety and legality see him in view of his conduct and renunciation. With true maternal indulgence and forgiveness, she was eager to have Carol at the bedside, but the King's illness took such a sudden turn, there was no time to arrange even a deathbed truce between father and son.

The conversation drifted to the members of the family. She declared there was no prospect for a year or more of Ileana or Nicholas (who accompanied her to America last year) marrying, if even then.

Hopes to Travel Again.

"After our period of mourning terminates," she said, "I hope we will be able to travel. Then, perhaps, we will meet a suitable husband for Ileana and an appropriate wife for Nicholas.

"In any case, they are both very young. I am in no hurry for either of them to marry nor are they. Besides, Ileana in some ways is my favorite child, and, now I am left a widow, I shall need her companionship more than ever."

When it was suggested that Ileana's marriage to King Boris of Bulgaria might make for peace and solidarity in the Balkans, the queen said:

"I admire Boris in many ways, but then it might be awkward if Ileana became Queen of Bulgaria whose relations with Jugoslavia and Greece and Rumania are so uncertain. It might mean that Ileana as Queen would be in conflict with her sisters, Queens of Jugoslavia and Greece. We must first be able to get along politically before we can get along in a family way."

"It has been said Ileana formed an admiration for American youths when she visited the United States with your majesty," the correspondent remarked. "Would you favor her marrying an American?"

Would Like U. S. Son-in-Law.

Without a moment's hesitation, the Queen responded:

"Yes. Ileana liked the way American boys danced and conducted themselves. She liked their great deference and reverence toward womankind, too. I would have no objection to her marrying a nice young American, if she really loved him and I thought they would get along well together.

"Ileana is an exceptional girl. She is bright and intelligent, has much poise, dignity and sweetness and is much above the average girl. As regards her marrying an American, do you think an American who strives so much for democracy and simplicity could easily adapt himself to the new social status which marriage to a Princess would bring, and do you think a Princess so accustomed to honors, titles and attentions could conform without difficulty to the new life?

"I make no distinction between classes. I only ask whether two persons who have lived such different lives and have such different ideas and customs could really reconcile themselves to one common standard."

Helen Not Likely to Rewed.

"Is there any likelihood of the Princess mother, Helen, remarrying?" Queen Marie was asked.

"Certainly not for some time," was Marie's reply, "but we shall see how matters shape themselves during the coming year. Everything is too uncertain now to make any predictions. M. Bratiano offered to secure a legal divorce for Helen, but she said her religion and moral principles never would allow her to take another husband while Carol lived."

Discussing the plans for the erection of a memorial to Ferdinand, the Queen asserted she wished he might have been buried at Alba Julia, ancient capital of Rumania, where he and she were crowned in 1922, but that the state and church authorities believed he should be interred at Curtea de Arges, with his uncle and aunt who preceded him on the throne.

"It is possible that some day all of us will be removed from Curtea to prettier and more romantic Alba Julia," she said.

At this point a huge wreath of flowers from the President of the United States arrived, which seemed to touch the Queen intensely. She ordered it be placed in a conspicuous position.

After asking the correspondent to thank the American people for their sympathy and thoughtfulness, the Queen left the room.

To Visit U. S. Again.

Queen Marie said today she had decided to visit the United States again. She hopes to start soon after her period of mourning for King Ferdinand is over.

She said that she wished to travel next time as a private person so that she could go where she pleased, do as she wanted, not be a burden to the state and municipal authorities and avoid quarrels among her followers.

"There are a thousand and one things I omitted seeing on my last journey and legions of people I failed to meet," Queen Marie said. "I want to see one of your great national political conventions and if time and my duties permit next summer, it is possible that I shall be able to leave here in time to see such a gathering."

The Queen also told the correspondent that she hoped to find time to write a book of her impressions of the United States and the American people.

"I carried back a thousand pleasant memories of my stay in your country," said the Queen, "but there were also some mistakes made which can be rectified on the next trip."

BRITISH DECLARE TEMPORARY CRUISER PLAN IS POSSIBLE

in the case of small cruisers employed for police purposes in time of peace and necessary for the protection of lines of communication in time of war. Geographical consideration cannot be rationally ignored.

"It is to be noted that the sea routes on which Great Britain depends for existence lie largely in narrow waters bordered by other states.

"This is not the case with the United States whose most important lines of communication lie either on land within her own frontiers, by sea along her own coasts, or in great oceans."

Denies Any Attempt to Dictate.

Sir Austen asserted that Britain was far from claiming the least right to dictate any smaller cruiser policy to other Powers, but argued that anything resembling the permanent formula adopted at Washington for battleships was quite inapplicable for vessels designed for purposes which vary with the geographical and economic position of the Powers concerned.

"It becomes more inapplicable when the strength is estimated in terms of gross tonnage without reference to numbers or armament," he said.

The Foreign Minister said that a country which for any reason was obliged to distribute its available tonnage among smaller units probably would be considered by naval experts to be at a permanent disadvantage compared with one able to adopt a different scheme. "There would be nominal parity," he asserted, "but real inequality."

Delegates Return to Geneva.

W. C. Bridgeman, first Lord of the British Admiralty, and Viscount Cecil, departed for Geneva this morning.

They had been in London a week, having come from Geneva to place before the Cabinet a report on the status of the naval parleys and to receive further instructions for their continuance.

Rear-Admiral Alfred D. Pound returned with them, he having been appointed a delegate to succeed Vice-Admiral Fields, who is too ill to resume his duties.

Before entraining Bridgeman said:

"We shall finish our work this time, one way or the other. We are going back after long discussions with the cabinet, and I think the position is clear. The Government thoroughly discussed the whole situation, and the position of Great Britain remains fundamentally unchanged. I can only say I have just as good hope for a settlement as we had when we came back."

Lord Cecil remarked: "I am always hopeful, but I regard the position as unquestionably critical."

The delegates are due in Geneva tomorrow morning.

Situation Discussed at Dinner.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, New York, and the Earl of Birkenhead, Secretary for India, both referred to the differences between Great Britain and the United States at the Geneva conference in speeches last night at a dinner given by the Pilgrims to American editors visiting England as guests of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

"Don't listen to the big noises; listen for the silences," Dr. Butler warned his hearers. He explained that it was the opinion of the quiet, thoughtful persons scattered throughout American which really counted. He declared that advanced nations must cease thinking in terms of war, and abandon war as a weapon in their international negotiations.

Lord Birkenhead said that war was unthinkable between the nations which have lived peacefully with 4000 miles of an undefended common boundary, until bootleggers started a war, but he argued that England, with a food supply for seven weeks, must have adequate small cruisers to protect her arteries of commerce. He personally was firm in his stand for more cruiser tonnage, which he believed to be indespensable to the welfare of the empire.

Chamberlain's Views Discourage Washington.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—On the basis of press reports as to the statement made by the British Foreign Secretary in the House of Commons today, Washington officials saw little prospect for a successful outcome at Geneva.

They refused to comment for publication however, in the absence of the complete text of the speech. The statement made by the Minister as to the inapplicability of the Washington formula for battleships to the cruiser difficulty apparently convinced them that American and British viewpoints as to what constituted naval parity between the two countries were far apart.

There is no question that many State Department officials feel that the British declaration today virtually spells the early adjournment of the Geneva conference without any agreement for further naval limitation. The suggestion of the Foreign Minister that Great Britain was prepared to consider some form of "temporary" agreement brought no official reaction, although some officials could see no advantage in an agreement of so short a duration that it could involve only building programs already mapped out.

away from all dealings with the union and for self preservation adopt open shop.

"The operators of Illinois believe without question that a continuation of the Jacksonville contract would in a short time simply put Illinois mines out of business altogether. The only immediate alternative is for operators and mine workers to co-operate to bring about a practical and workable wage relationship.

Calls Situation Absurd.

At Miami in February, and at Chicago in June, the mine workers of Illinois were not in position to consider anything but a renewal of the Jacksonville terms. They were, and, as far as we know still are, tied hand and foot by instructions from the International Union to consider only the Jacksonville terms.

"That is the meat of the deadlock. The operators cannot renew the Jacksonville terms and live; the Illinois miners are not in position to consider anything but the Jacksonville terms until the international policy instruction is released. With the whole thing so well known and understood by everyone concerned, and the basic facts as to the disastrous effects of the deadlock freely admitted, truly it is an almost unbelievably absurd situation."

$314,552 LOW BID ON PAVING OLIVE ST.

Work on Widened Part of Thoroughfare Expected to Begin Next Week.

Work of paving widened Olive street, between Twelfth boulevard and Channing avenue with asphalt, is expected to start next week. Although it had been thought there would be time to pave only the south side, where the 40-foot strip for the widening was taken, this year, city engineers now hope it will be possible to pave the whole thoroughfare before winter, if weather is favorable.

The Board of Public Service yesterday received bids for the project. The low bid, from the Bridges Asphalt Paving Co., was $314,552, or 22 per cent below the city's estimate of cost, $402,000. The contract probably will be awarded to this company Friday, and while the contractor will be allowed 15 days in which to begin work, the city will urge that the improvement be started next week, at Twentieth street, heading eastward.

Bond issue funds will meet 45 per cent of the contract price and the remainder will be assessed against abutting property. The second new United Railways track in the widened street is nearing completion. The new eastbound track has been in use for 10 days and the last rails of the new westbound track are being laid today while the paving between the rails of this line has been finished for a dozen block at the west end.

The Trinidad Asphalt Manufacturing Co. was low bidder, well below city estimates, on the following other street paving jobs yesterday, and probably will receive contracts Friday; Leffingwell avenue, between Cass and St. Louis, $33,143; Spring avenue, between Osceola and O'Meara, $13,943; Carlsbad avenue, from Burgen and Dresden to Schoenlau and Kingshighway Southwest, $9435. The work will be started soon.

MARYLAND DRY AGENT KILLED FROM AMBUSH

Posse Hunting for Murderers Near Boonsboro, Where Victim Was Hunting for a Still.

By the Associated Press.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., July 27.—Ambushed by moonshiners last night, H. R. Stotler, 52 years old, of Keyser, W. Va., head of the dry agents in Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties, Maryland, was shot to death. His companion, R. E. Walters of Hagerstown, another dry investigator, escaped and notified authorities here.

A posse is hunting for the murderers, who fired from a dense wood near Boonsboro, where the agents had gone to look for a still.

One of the shots grazed Walters' wrist.

Stotler had been a federal government employe for 15 years. He is survived by a widow and a daughter.

POLICE RECOVER TWO FRAMES TAKEN BY MUSEUM ROBBERS

New York Pawnbrokers Tell of Lending $75 Each on Diamond-Studded Art Objects.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 27.—The diamond-studded frames of two of the seventeenth century miniatures recently stolen from the Metropolitan Museum of Art were recovered by police today from pawn shops, where a loan of $75 had been obtained on each of them.

The museum had reported the theft of only five miniatures, description and number of each of which were given police, but when one of the frames recovered today did not tally with the descriptions, it was learned that the missing portraits numbered at least six.

The Metropolitan listed the stones on the frames as rhinestones, but the pawnbrokers insisted they were diamonds. On one frame there were 85 small diamonds and on the other 47 of one-eighth carat each.

SENATE WET VOTE SET AT 30

Senator Edwards Estimates Number in Favor of Modification.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 27. — Senator Edwards (Dem.) of New Jersey said in a statement here today that at least 30 Senators were prepared to vote for any wise, constructive modification of the Volstead law.

He made this assertion in denouncing as "murder" the killing of a lieutenant of the Washington Fire Department yesterday by a rum car fleeing from the police.

PAIR HOLD UP GROCER AND FLEE WITH $462

After Robbery in Garage, Louis Brodsky Discovers Store Has Been Ransacked.

As Louis Brodsky, a grocer at 4281 Maffitt avenue, was putting his automobile in the garage in the rear of his store last midnight, two Negroes with revolvers walked out of the yard into the garage and held up Brodsky. From his pockets they took $462 and escaped in an alley.

Brodsky, going into his store, found the stock disarranged and other indications that burglars had forced their way in. It is assumed the Negroes were in the store when Brodsky came home and that, hearing him, they decided to rob him.

Two young men last night entered the drug store of Robert R. Peek, 3867 Kennerly avenue. While one of the men pointed a revolver at Peek, the other took $109.65 from the cash register. Three youths of the neighborhood, passing at the time, witnessed the robbery.

Three men, one of them armed with a revolver, obtained $300 in a holdup of the cigar store of John Howard at 410 North Tenth street, yesterday afternoon. Nick Costello and Fred Gunselman, clerks, were on duty in the store at the time. While one of the men pointed a revolver at the clerks, another robbed the cash register of $140 and the third robber took $60 from Costello's pockets. The clerks were forced to lie on the floor.

FINED $20 FOR NOT COVERING GROCERY STOCK ON SUNDAY

Orville Young, Owner of Store and Lunch Room, Fails to Appear in Court.

Because he failed to cover up canned goods in his grocery and restaurant last Sunday, Orville Young, 3141 South Grand boulevard, was fined $20 by Provisional Police Judge Blaine today.

The Sunday closing law, enforcement of which was begun recently, permits restaurants, but not groceries to be open on Sundays, and requires that where combination stores are open, groceries must not be exposed to the public.

PROTESTS AGAINST SHOOTING OF NEGROES

Legal Aid Society Charges Police Use Firearms on Scantiest Pretext.

A protest against reckless shooting of Negro suspects by policemen has been sent to Chief of Police Gerk by S. E. Garner, president of the Mound City Legal Aid Society, a Negro organization.

"The Negroes are more interested than their passive disposition may indicate," he wrote. "You no doubt have noticed your police officers are recklessly shooting and killing Negro people upon the scantiest pretext of resisting arrest, etc. This has been going on for some time."

Policemen lack proper respect for Negro life and limb, the letter continued. It admitted that it was proper for a policeman to shoot in defense when menaced by a desperate character, but objected to shooting in the case of "a helpless Negro woman and a fleeing Negro boy." The communication concluded: "We try to go out of our way to be called good citizens."

It referred to four recent cases —the killing of a Negro woman, and of a man who had stolen a trolley conductor's money box and was running away with it, and the wounding of a youth and another man, who fled when officers sought to question them. Each of these cases has been investigated by police executives and the detectives and policemen involved were held to be justified in their actions.

The woman had been known as a fighter and had been sent home by a policeman who stopped her in a brawl. She returned and took his night stick, beating him with it. He drew his revolver and when she disregarded a command to stop the officer shot. The robber who was killed was ordered to halt in his flight and the first shots were fired over his head.

Chief Gerk is attending a conference in the East about prohibition of importation of firearms.

Woman Robbed of $250 Bonds.

While Miss Helen Hundhausen of Grays Summit, Mo., was shopping downtown yesterday afternoon, someone opened her purse and took Liberty bonds valued at $250, she reported to police. She saw her purse had been opened when she started to pay for some goods she had bought.

MRS. STILLMAN HURLS DISHES AT SON'S WEDDING

Routs Photographers After Hitting One on Ear With Crockery and Breaking a Window—Amuses Guests

MARRIAGE CEREMONY IS HELD OUTDOORS

New York Society Folk and Villagers Join in Old Square Dances — Honeymoon in Europe.

By the Associated Press.

GRAND ANSE, Que., July 27.—Married at a picturesque outdoor ceremony, enlivened by the hurling of crockery by Mrs. James A. Stillman at persistent news photographers, Bud Stillman and his woodland bride, the former Lena Wilson, today were on their honeymoon bound for New York and Europe.

The Stillmans plan to sail on the Olympic at midnight Sunday for a several months' tour of France, Scotland and Italy.

A colorful throng of river folk and well-groomed men and women of society witnessed the ceremony at which the young Princeton graduate and scion of one of New York's most wealthy and socially prominent families took as his bride the humble daughter of the Canadian woods who celebrated her eighteenth birthday on her wedding day.

Dish Attack Starts.

The marriage service had just been concluded and the ceremony of cutting the four-foot bridal cake was about to start when Mrs. Stillman, mother of the bridegroom, made her descent upon the luckless photographers.

The eight camera men, most of whom had journeyed from New York to record the ceremony for newspapers and motion picture news weeklies, had been assigned a place outside the lawn fronting the Stillman woodland lodge, but disregarding warnings had pressed closer.

Indignant, Mrs. Stillman reached over, soundly boxed the ear of the nearest photographer and pushed over another.

"This is for my friends, not for photographers," she cried. The victims of her attack were temporarily thrown into confusion and she then spied across a table three other cameramen who meanwhile had continued to grind the scene.

"Out you go, get out of here," she shouted and followed the order with a barrage of crockery and crystal from the well-laden table. A plate caught one of the camera men on the side of the head, but he succeeded in warding off the full force of the blow with his shoulder. Another piece crashed through a window.

The crockery barrage, however, proved effective warning for the photographers who beat a hasty retreat.

Attack Amuses Guests.

The attack was viewed by the assembled guests as part of the merriment that followed the marriage ceremony and was greeted with cheers and applause.

The ceremony itself was one of great beauty and solemnity. An altar had been erected on the wide lawn fronting the Stillman home and about it assembled several hundred guests, including the country people for miles around.

First in the wedding procession came the Rev. Ephriam Lamy, Catholic priest who had known both bride and groom since childhood. He was accompanied by the Rev. Mr. Normand and the Rev. Mr. Desilets, all attired in their church robes.

The Fifth Regiment Royal Highlanders' Band of 30 pieces from Montreal broke into the strains of "Lohengrin" as Mrs. Stillman and Mrs. John Wilson, mother of the bride, walked down a lane of ribbons. James A. Stillman Sr., the bridegroom's father, followed, and then came "Bud" with his best man, Fowler McCormick, of Chicago.

Then came Miss Belle Wilson, sister of the bride, followed by the bride on the arm of her brother, James Wilson, who gave her in marriage. Both girls wore Fifth avenue creations.

What Bride Wore.

The bride appeared sweetly charming in a gown of white chiffon. She wore a pearl and crystal ornament in her hair, and, as her only jewelry, wore a platinum chain, the gift of the bridegroom.

The marriage ceremony was that of the Roman Catholic Church. Prayers in English were intoned by Father Normand.

Following the ceremony, the guests formed a long line to shake hands with the bridegroom and many to kiss the bride. The party then moved to the rear of the house, where long tables had been set laden with punch and cakes.

It was just as the bride started to cut the three-decked cake that Mrs. Stillman made her descent upon the photographers.

After the cameramen had departed, Mrs. Stillman expressed regret over the episode.

"I did not like to be rough," she said, "but I had to, as it was necessary."

"I did not like to be rough," she said, "but I had to, as it was necessary."

Dancing on a specially erected pavilion to the music of the Kilties Band and to violins and accordians concluded the festivities. The old square dances in which the village men and women mingled with the society people from New York and other cities were the most popular.

Mrs. Stillman who had bustled about the grounds of the estate in the morning and early afternoon, with a bandana over her head and bright scarf knotted about her waist appeared on the lawn as the guests began to arrive, clad in a printed georgette of pink and black with a black hat, black pumps and biege hose.

She went from guest to guest bidding them welcome in cheery French with an American accent.

The guests presented a contrast. There were the men, women and children of the countryside, called "habitants," the men apparently the least bit uncomfortable in stiff starched collars and the women bright colored dresses. Many of the children had new and striking hair-cuts for the occasion, half a dozen chefs in their caps, chauffeurs, and starchy aproned waitresses stood near half a dozen guests from New York.

Among the New Yorker were: Mrs. H. P. Davison Sr., Mrs. H. P. Davison Jr., sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Ward Cheney.

Eight husky lads who are attached to the estate acted as ushers wearing lumberjack costumes.

JUNE MATHIS, WHO STARTED VALENTINO TO FAME, DIES

Noted Scenario Writer and Former Actress, Succumbs to Heart Attack in New York Theater.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 27.—June Mathis, one of the foremost motion picture scenario writers of America and discoverer of the screen possibilities of the late Rudolph Valentino, died last night in the Forty-eighth Street Theater of heart distase. She was 31 years old.

Miss Mathis was attending the performance of "The Squall" with her grandmother, Mrs. Emily Hawks. A few minutes before the final curtain Miss Mathis said loudly, "Mother, I'm dying, I'm dying!" and collapsed.

Wrote Feature Scenarios.

Miss Mathis, recently engaged by First National Pictures, had written more than 50 feature film scenarios. These included "Ben Hur," "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," "Sally," "The Desert Flower," "Irene" and "Camille."

She was the wife of Sylvano Balboni of Italy, whom she married in 1924. Their romance began in Rome when Miss Mathis was with a Metro-Goldwyn company. Mathis was her pen name. She was June Beulah Hughes before her marriage.

Miss Mathis was at work on the scenario of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" for Metro-Goldwyn in Hollywood when she set Valentino on the road to fame. The casting director had sought in vain for a young actor capable of playing the part of Julio. Miss Mathis, who was impressed by the grace and appearance of Valentino, suggested he be given the part. Her suggestion was met with strong opposition, but finally she won.

JUNE MATHIS.

Valentino's next appearance was in "Blood and Sand," another of Miss Mathis' scenarios from the book of Blasco Ibanez, and it was that film which truly won for Valentino stardom, it was said.

Miss Mathis made her first stage appearance in Los Angeles in song and dance imitations. She was with Julian Eltinge's company four years, and two years played the lead in a "Brewster's Millions" road company. Later she visited the Universal lot at Hollywood and was induced by Thomas Ince, then a leading producer, to try her hand at scenario writing. She was engaged on a scenario when called by the Metro-Goldwyn firm, with which she remained seven years.

HABIT OF DUMPING 'OLD FOLKS ON CITY CRITICIZED IN REPORT

Placing of "old folks" in city institutions by relatives desirous of escaping responsibility and expense is becoming "a very bad habit and needs correction," says Hospital Commissoner Shankland, in his annual report, today.

Criticism also is directed by Dr. Shankland at relatives who carry insurance on inmates of city institutions, but refuse to pay anything to the city for their care, or to settle with the city when the insurance money is paid.

"Thre is approximately $2,000,000 insurance being carried on patients at the Sanitarium," Dr. Shankland comments. "Some adjustment of this matter is advisable; an ordinance to cover same should be introduced, as it is unfair for the city to care for patients on the free list for years and not be able to recover expenses from an insurance policy.

"There are also housed in this institution numerous World War veterans whose guardians are paying the per capita cost of $20 per month, while the Government is allowing compensation as high as $250 a month. I believe the Government expects the soldier to have such care as the total of his allowance or compensation will purchase for him, and these cases should all be in private or Government institutions."

COUNT AND BEST MAN FIGHT BOTH REFUSE TO PROSECUTE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 7.—Wlademar von Kessler, who says he is a polo player and banker, appeared in South Clark street police court today with court plaster on his nose—the result, he said, of a blow of the fist by Count Carlo Chigi-Albani Filipponi. He struck the count, and the count was unable to appear before the magistrate. It developed, however, that neither wished to prosecute the other.

Kessler was the Count's best man at the Count's secret wedding two months ago to Mrs. Laurietta Ford Stresenreuter, divorced wife of Frank Stresenreuter, wealthy Chicago business man.

Kessler encountered his ertswhile friend on Michigan avenue. What they fought about no one would say.

MRS. M'PHERSON AND MOTHER STILL AT OUTS

Mrs. Kennedy Says Evangelist Hasn't Even Had Conference With Her.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 27.—Although Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, claims that the dove of peace has settled on Angelus Temple to calm its troubled affairs, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, today indicated the peace bird was absolutely dumb. Mrs. Kennedy, who was ousted last week from the business management of the temple and served an ultimatum by Mrs. McPherson to leave, said that her daughter would not even speak to her.

The evangelist has not even held a conference with her, Mrs. Kennedy asserted, adding that she made known that she will communicate with her mother only through a lawyer.

"I can't bring myself to hire a lawyer through whom to talk to my daughter," Mrs. Kennedy said. "I can't understand why she should say these cruel things about her old mother who has sacrificed her life for her. I can't believe she is doing it of her own accord. It is bad advice she is receiving from interested people. But no matter what she does to me, I will always defend her."

The two acts of the evangelist which Mrs. Kennedy said had hurt her most included a pulpit statement Monday night accusing Mrs. Kennedy of refusing to sign Temple pay checks. The other was the asserted fact that while Mrs. McPherson was sending her messages of love from the East she also was sending orders to Temple insurrectionists to seize the finances and control from her, when she was business manager

Mrs. McPherson, in her office yesterday, gave her a few opening words, Mrs. Kennedy said, then turned her back on her, leaving her alone.

"I lost my daughter, but I can't remain quiet when she has told me to get my attorney and she would gets hers and we would settle matters in court," said Mrs. Kennedy.

The evangelist last night declared peace had been declared by her mother accepting a place in the Temple in the capacity of advisor of spiritual affairs. This, she explained, did not include any control over finances. Mrs. McPherson was said by her secretary, Ann Waldron, to be prostrated at her home today by her mother's unexpected statements, but said through her secretary that her mother's charges came as a complete surprise.

SANITARIUM SUPERVISOR DIES

Sterling Price Fish, 71 years old, night supervisor of the City Sanitarium, died last night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Edward J. Snowden, 6125 Waterman avenue. He had been ill two weeks with pleurisy. He became night supervisor of the sanitarium in 1915 after having been with the Iron Mountain railroad for 13 years. He was born in Martinsburg, Mo.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a. m. Friday at an undertaking chapel at 6175 Delmar boulevard. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Julia Adams Fish; three sons, Dr. Drury L. Fish, assistant superintendent of the State Hospital at Anna, Ill., William A. and Allen B. Fish, both of St. Louis, and Mrs. Snowden.

BRENTWOOD ENDS FINE FEE SYSTEM; OUSTS 16 DEPUTIES

William Skow, Who Was Fined for Shooting Student Among Those Discharged by Town Board.

The fee system of arrest and trials in Brentwood, St. Louis County, long the delight of some of the community's officials and the bane of motorists forced to drive through the town, was abolished at a meeting of the Brentwood Board of Trustees last night.

Along with the passing of the fee system in Brentwood, 16 deputy marshals who have patroled the 10 blocks of the town's main thoroughfare and watched over the boulevard stop at North and South road zealously, must turn in their badges and be relieved of their duties.

Among the deputies is William Skow, convicted recently of shooting Austin W. Kaercher, a Washington University student, Oct. 24 last, while pursuing a machine in which Kaercher was riding to arrest the driver for a traffic law violation. Kaercher was shot in the back as he, with several friends, was attempting to escape from the pursuing automobile. They thought holdup men were after them, they testified.

Action by Trustees.

Adoption of the motion by the Board of Trustees followed an executive session in a rear room which lasted more than an hour. At its conclusion, the trustees came into the room where their open meetings are held and found gathered there about 50 county residents, anticipating a somewhat bitter meeting.

At the conclusion of routine matters, Edward J. Burke read the motion, which was adopted without dissent. The motion provided that the 16 deputies will be replaced by two deputies, one of whom will patrol the city at night. They will receive salaries of $150 a month each.

The motion provided also that the fee system should be abolished by Brentwood's Police Judge. This office has been held by Mayor Withrow, who said he is willing to remain in the feeless job as ex-officio Police Judge, if this is found to comply with legal requirements.

Will Name Two Deputies.

Another meeting of the Board of Trustees will be held next Wednesday evening in the Catholic school hall, on the north side of Manchester road just east of the North and South road. Officials of the Automobile Club of Missouri, members of the State Highway Commission and the press will be invited. At this meeting it is expected the two deputies will be appointed.

Meanwhile, John Bryant, Marshal of Brentwood, will patrol the town alone, but the speed limit through the town of 20 miles an hour and the North and South road boulevard stop, known as one of the worst "speed traps" in the county, will be retained and enforced.

URGES VARE BALLOTS DEMAND

Senator Watson of Indiana Seeks Elections Committee Support.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Members of the Senate Election Committee have been asked by Senator Watson (Rep.), of Indiana, to approve a plan to direct the Senate Sergeant-at-Arms to demand the ballots used in the last Pennsylvania Senatorial election outside of Philadelphia and Allegheny Counties.

The ballots in those two counties are in the hands of the Senate Campaign Funds Committee, headed by Senator Reed (Dem.), of Missouri.

MAYOR'S WORD AVERTS NEW YORK TRACTION STRIKE

Both Sides Make Concessions Pending Completion of Unification Plan.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Mayor James J. Walker yesterday afternoon averted the strike on the Interborough Rapid Transit and Brooklyn Motor Transit lines set for this morning.

Under an arrangement worked out by him, the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, agreed not to call any strike on either system pending the working out of the transit unification plans now in the making. In return, the Interborough system agreed to reinstate, without prejudice or discrimination, 13 motormen and switchmen, discharged for attending a union meeting or for declining to assist and instruct strike breakers.

The Amalgamated further has the understanding that in any unification scheme, in contracts for the operation of new subways or in the modification of existing contracts, provision will be made for recognition of union labor.

RECAPTURED DEVIL'S ISLAND PRISONER TO BE PARDONED

Eugene Dieudonne, Who Escaped From French Penal Colony, Is Under Arrest in Brazil.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 27.—Eugene Dieudonne, who has been recaptured in Brazil after escaping from the French penal colony on Devil's Island, French Guiana, will be pardoned, it was announced today by Minister of Justice Barthou, following a Cabinet meeting. Barthou said a pardon would be issued as soon as the necessary formalities could be completed.

The report was current yesterday that Dieudonne would be pardoned on condition that he surrender to the French authorities without the formality of extradition. Dieudonne was convicted with members of the pre-war band of Apaches led by Jules Bonnet.

He escaped from the penal colony with six others last December and was recaptured after suffering great hardships in wild regions of French Guiana and Brazil.

NEBRASKA PARENTS CANNOT TEACH CHILDREN IN HOMES

Pastor Informed Personal Tutoring Is No Substitute for Public School Instruction.

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 27.—The Rev. Aage Moller, Danish pastor of Nysted, a small community in Howard County, has been informed by the State Department of Education that he cannot teach his 8-year-old daughter as a substitute for public or private school instruction.

Moller was told the law required compulsory attendance at school of every child from 7 to 16 years of age.

The clergyman explained that he was a believer in a system of individual instruction which has come into vogue in parts of Europe.

THREE DIE IN AIRPLANE WRECK

Two Others Hurt in German Passenger Line Accident.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, July 27.—Three persons were killed and two injured this afternoon when a passenger airplane of Lufthansa, the German air service, met with an accident and was damaged by fire.

The accident occurred between Cassel and Giessen.

The accident was the result of a forced landing.

Priest, 61, Flies Plane Over City With Passenger

The Rev. Henry Hussmann Received First Flying Instructions Two Years Ago From Col. Lindbergh.

The Rev. Henry Hussmann, Catholic priest who had his first lesson at the controls of an airplane two years ago when he was 59 years old, yesterday afternoon took his first flight over the city as a pilot, carrying Lieut. Frank T. Dunn of the 110th Observation Squadron as a passenger.

Father Hussmann, the rector of St. Henry's Church at California avenue and Rutger street, has had little time to give to flying because of his pastoral duties, but he has managed to get in a few minutes in the air now and then with Lieut. Dunn and other pilots at the field as his instructors. He has been an apt pupil.

Lindbergh First Teacher.

When the Post-Dispatch on July 1, 1925, published that he was learning to fly, Father Hussmann already had reached the point where he could take off and land a plane. His teacher at that time was Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, then an obscure flying instructor just out of the army air school.

Yesterday afternoon Lieut. Dunn arranged the most extended flight that Father Hussmann had ever taken. Climbing into the cockpit with the helmet of his chin strap buckled snugly above his Roman collar, Father Hussmann took the plane off and headed it southward over Maplewood and then to Carondelet.

Circles Over Own Church.

Swinging northward the flying priest circled over his own church, banking his plane in workmanlike manner, and also turned out of his path to pass over the Church of the Immaculate Conception at 1701 Longfellow place and St. Francis de Sales' Church at Ohio avenue and Lynch street.

A few minutes later he was spiraling easily over St. Catherine's Church in Riverview Gardens on the North side. Then came another trip back over town and a flight westward to a neat landing on the flying field.

Father Hussmann has been "soloing"—flying alone—for a year. One of his regrets is that he was not able to make his first trip alone under the supervision of Lindbergh, who started him on his flying career. Unfortunately, the flying pastor is unable to get a pilot's license under the rigid Department of Commerce air laws, because of a slight defect in vision. He has shown the ability to perform the aerial maneuvers required of applicants for license.

Admires Stringent Regulations.

"It is a real disappointment that I cannot have a license," he said today, "but while I don't like to be without it, I cannot but admire the stringent regulations that the Government has placed on flyers and airplanes. An aviator who carries passengers must now be physically fit and able to handle a plane competently and he can fly only inspected and licensed planes. That means safety for passengers."

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

THE REV. HENRY HUSSMANN

As for the trip over town—

"It was delightful," he said. "I was flying one of the new Eaglerocks, and it was a wonderful plane, and Lieut. Dunn let me have the controls every minute of the flight."

OFF FOR ALASKA TOMORROW

118 St. Louisans Join C. of C. Good Will Tour.

A party of 118 St. Louisans will depart tomorrow afternoon on the 21-day St. Louis Chamber of Commerce Good Will trip to Alaska. Traveling by special train and steamer, the tourists will visit St. Paul, Moose Jaw, Medicine Hat, Banff Springs, Lake Louise, Vancouver, Victoria, Seattle, Portland, Salt Lake and other places, returning home Aug. 19. The tour will cover about 7300 miles.

ROADHOUSE OWNER KIDNAPED AND KILLED

Burnham, Ill., Man and Wife Robbed of $1000 in Jewelry Before Murder.

CHICAGO, July 27.—Frank Hitchcock, owner of a roadhouse in Burnham, Ill., was found dead in the south part of the city shot through the back of the head.

Hitchcock was kidnaped in front of his home last night after he and his wife had been robbed of jewelry worth $1000 and a small amount of money. They had just put their automobile in the garage when four men pounced on them, Mrs. Hitchcock said. They pushed Hitchcock into their own car and sped away.

Hitchcock was soon to have reopened his roadhouse closed for a year for violation of the prohibition law.

"There was some talk that Hitchcock gypped some of the gang in an alcohol deal, and this may be the answer," said Detective-Sergeant Fair.

Hitchcock was indicted in 1925 with Al Wingo, former police lieutenant, and others in connection with a huge syndicate of beer-runners.

REED URGED FOR SENATE AGAIN

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 27.—Despite announcement he would not be a candidate for return to the Senate, friends of Senator James A. Reed are urging him to file again, pending the Democratic national convention. While Senator Reed's friends are hoping the party's presidential nomination will go to him, they are taking the position the Senator should file for re-election. Then if the "lightning" should hit, the Senator could withdraw from the senatorial race.

However, Senator Reed is said to have informed friends and supporters emphatically in recent days he intended to abide by his previous announcement that he would not be a candidate again. It was stated recently that Congressman Ralph F. Lozier had announced his candidacy for the Senate. In a message received here today Lozier said he had made no decision. "I am wholeheartedly for Senator Reed for President," the message states. "But, pending the national convention, he should file for Senator."

ECZEMA IN DRY PATCHES

On Arms, Hands and Face. Cuticura Healed.

"From the time I was a child I was bothered with eczema. It broke out in little dry patches on my arms, hands and face. It had an itching, burning feeling, and I could not put my hands in water. My clothing aggravated the breaking out, and I lost my rest many nights on account of it.

"I used other remedies but they did not help me. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and after using five cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Avis Holmes, Rt. 10, Kalamazoo, Mich.

138TH INFANTRY TO GO TO CAMP SATURDAY

St. Louis Guardsmen to Be Joined at Nevada, Mo., by Hannibal Battalion.

Seven hundred and fifty members of the 138th Infantry will depart from St. Louis Saturday night for the annual Missouri National Guard encampment at Nevada, Mo.

They will travel in two trains over the Missouri Pacific Railroad, the first leaving the Compton avenue yards at 7:30 p. m. and the second section following 15 minutes later. At Nevada the two St. Louis battalions will be joined by 300 members of the third battalion of the 138th with headquarters at Hannibal, giving the regiment an encampment enrollment of more than 1000 men, the largest group reporting at camp in years.

Discussing the large turnout for camp, Col. Stephen E. Lowe, commander of the 138th, today said: "A little more than a year ago the regiment was badly disorganized. It is now in splendid shape and I feel safe in saying there is no better National Guard organization in the country. The people of St. Louis can be proud of their regiment and may rest assured that it will take its share of honors in the competition with the other Missouri units."

The training program, which closes Aug. 14, will include military drill in the morning and officers' school and athletics in the afternoons. A number of trophies, donated by local service clubs, will be awarded at the end of camp.

Two former members of the 138th are now enrolled at the United States Military Academy. They are Joseph F. Carroll, formerly a esrgeant in Co. "A," and Nat T. Davis, a former private in Co. "M." Both passed the required entrance examination and reported at West Point July 1.

PLEADS GUILTY, GETS 5 YEARS FOR $1,000,000 MAIL FRAUD

D. W. Nichols, Sentenced At Atlanta, Ga., For Operating Farm Produce Swindle.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 27.—David W. Nichols was sentenced yesterday to five years in the Federal penitentiary for a nation-wide swindle in which hundreds of persons were fleeced of more than $1,000,000. He pleaded guilty to using the mails to defraud.

With H. D. Gaines and J. G. Grimes, Nichols was accused of maintaining headquarters offices here for several non-existent firms, which, through a wide-spread system of advertising, offered farm produce, poultry and fruit for sale at prices lower than the prevailing market quotations.

1770 CITIZEN SOLDIERS PARADE LIKE VETERANS

Gen. Lassiter Praises Youths, In Training Three Weeks, After Review.

The 1770 Missouri, Arkansas and Illinois youths in training at Jefferson Barracks as members of the Citizens' Military Training Camp "did their stuff" before Major-General William Lassiter, commander of the Sixth Corps Area, yesterday.

For most of the youths it was their first glimpse of a general officer and some show of "nerves" would have been excusable. The citizen-soldiers performed like veterans, however, and the General and the two inspecting officers accompanying him, Colonels William E. Hunt and David Stone, were high in their praise of what has been accomplished in the brief training period.

Gen. Lassiter and Cols. Stone and Hunt arrived at camp at 9:30 a. m. and watched the youths in drill formation on the Barracks' parade grounds. A visit was then made to the rifle and machine gun ranges, where three companies of the student soldiers were firing for record. Later the General and his aids reviewed a parade of the four remain companies, the youths passing in review in platoon formation. The correct lines maintained by the youths, the majority of whom had never participated in a military formation prior to three weeks ago, brought praise from the inspecting officers.

In an address before the assembled students, Gen. Lassiter declared the purpose of the annual training camps was to supplement the training they get in their homes, schools and churches.

"The camps are also part of our country's program to be prepared for an emergency," Gen. Lassiter said. "We all hope no emergency will arise, but anyone summing up the situation knows that we are facing an uneasy and disgruntled world. I have visited a number of camps this summer and am highly pleased with the training program conducted in the Sixth Corps Area."

Because of the excellent showing at this year's camp Gen. Lassiter said he planned to raise the Jefferson Barracks quota from 1750 to 2000 students for the 1928 encampment. The General and his aides sat down to noonday mess with the students before returning to the Sixth Corps Headquarters at Chicago.

The visit of Gen. Lassiter was the first of a series of important events incident to the closing of the training period. Next Friday there will be an inter-company athletic meet at Washington University stadium. The public is invited to attend the meet which will open at 1 p. m. with a parade of the student battalions. Admission will be free.

Next Saturday about 900 of the youths will be the guests of the Cardinals at Sportsman's Park, and next Monday athletic prizes and marksmanship awards will be made. Monday has been designated "Visitors Day" and the public is invited to inspect the camp the entire day.

Next Wednesday, following an overnight hike and the experience of sleeping in "pup tents" the citizen-soldiers will maneuver for Gen. Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff of the United States Army. This will be the final training event and on Thursday the youths will turn in their equipment, receive their civilian clothes and start for home.

MANY ST. LOUISANS ON SHIP WHICH RAMMED AN ICEBERG

Tourists, Now in Various Parts of Europe, Write Home of Their Experiences.

Several St. Louisans, aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Montcalm, which rammed an iceberg July 3 and seemed for several minutes to be about to capsize before she righted herself, have communicated with friends here. They are now in various parts of Europe. The accident occurred two days out of Montreal, in the Straits of Belle Isle.

The Montcalm had aboard 1088 passengers and was running through a fog. Considerable excitement prevailed when the big vessel was jarred from stem to stern by the impact, and then heeled far over on her side, swinging back to even keel only after several seconds. The liner then hove to, and examination showed she had only a broken propeller, so the vessel took up her journey to Scotland, arriving two days late.

St. Louisans aboard were Mrs. J. Van S. Barrett, 4495 West Pine boulevard; Mrs. Lucille Drew, her daughter, Dorothy, 470 Lake avenue; Mrs. Joseph S. Dickson, her daughter, Miss Mary Frances Dickson, 414 Union boulevard; Miss Ida Lee Sharp, 5554 Waterman avenue, and Miss Sarah and Miss Anna Boyd, of 5330 Pershing avenue.

CARRIED ALCOHOL IN AUTO

Frank Feigenbutz who gave his address as 2301 South Broadway was arrested near there yesterday afternoon when police found two five-gallon cans of alcohol in his automobile. He made no statement.

Police chased an automobile driven by his brother, Joseph, and a truck driven by Frank Dischbein, 905 Lami street, July 4, and when they refused to halt, shot and killed Dischbein. Six five-gallon cans of alcohol were found in the truck.

MAN FIRED UPON WHEN SITTING IN HIS HOME

Motorists Shot 3 Times at Peter Gentile of Overland, Wife Reports.

Mrs. Emma Gentile, of Overland, last night reported to police an attempt made to kill her husband, Peter, Monday when at 9:30 p. m., five men in an automobile drove by their home and fired three shots into the room in which her husband was seated. Gentile is employed at the Hamill Drayage & Transfer Co., 809 North Main street, the drivers of which are on a strike.

Two other acts of violence have been attributed recently to the striking drivers. Last week two shots were fired at P. J. Hamill, president of the company, and previous to that a bomb was discovered in the company's garage.

ABANDON BULLET-RIDDLED AUTO

Four Men Arrested, Escape When Police Step Out of Car.

A sedan with nine bullet holes in it was found abandoned in the 2000 block of Howard street at 2 p. m. yesterday. At noon police had arrested four men in the car at 3000 North Market street when they found a stolen license plate on the car.

As the police got out of the car in front of the Dayton Street Police Station, the four men sped away. The police pursued in another car, and fired 12 shots, but the sedan disappeared in the vicinity of Fifteenth and Montgomery streets. The sedan had been rented at 9 a. m. from an automobile rental agency by a man who gave a fictitious address.

Killed After Slapping Daughter.

By the Associated Press.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., July 27.—Fullen Queen, Hart's Creek farmer, was killed yesterday by John Gardner, after slapping his daughter, who is Gardner's wife, according to reports to the Lincoln County Sheriff's office.

Make Bed-Bug, Ant and Roach Killer —Quick—Easy

You can easily make at home a quart of the strongest bug killer for 35c—enough to kill a million bed-bugs, roaches, ants and fleas. This recipe, known as P.D.Q., can do no damage to your springs or furniture; won't rot or stain clothing. P.D.Q. is used and recommended by leading hotels, hospitals and railroads as the quickest and safest way of getting rid of pesky insects. Instantly it smothers and kills the living creatures; coats their eggs, and stops them from hatching and multiplying. P.D.Q. can also be had in double-strength liquid form—ready for use. Free patent spout enables you to reach hard-to-get-at places with ease. Get P.D.Q. at your druggist's today. Your money back if the bugs are not gone tomorrow.

NEGRO SLAYER USED EX-WARDEN'S PISTOL

White Man Arrested as Accessory in Murder Near Milan, Ga.

By the Associated Press.

MACON, Ga., July 27.—W. M. Phillips, former warden of the Dodge County prison camp, is in Bibb county jail here today as an accessory after the fact in the killing of W. T. Andrews and the wounding of his wife of Alamo, Ga., early Sunday by two Negroes near Milan, Ga.

The arresting officers said, grew out of the discovery that the pistol used by the Negro, Wilbur Galloway, in killing Andrews was the property of Phillips and that Galloway used Philips' razor to remove his mustache after the crime. Aside from this use of his property there is no explanation of Phillips supposed connection with the murder.

Phillips was a supervisor of highway construction near Milan, and recently employed Galloway as a laborer.

Andrews and his wife, who is only 15 years old, driving an automobile, gave a lift to the Negroes who a little later killed Andrews and shot his wife. Three Negroes Galloway, William Rountree and Moses Banks are under arrest charged with the crime. Rountree confessed, but said Galloway did the killing.

A special session of the Dodge County Superior Court is planned for the trial of the Negroes and Phillips.

RS-1 PREPARED FOR FLIGHT OVER LONG ISLAND TODAY

Col. Paegelow Cancels Proposed Tour From Lakehurst to Boston Because of Weather.

By the Associated Press.

LAKEHURST, N. J., July 27.—The RS-1, semi-rigid Army airship, was fueled today in preparation for a flight which Lieut.-Col. John E. Paegelow, commander, said would take the vessel over Long Island.

The airship, the largest in the Army service, arrived here last night from Bolling Field, Washington, with a crew of 15 men and five passengers. Reports of unfavorable weather conditions along the New England Coast caused Col. Paegelow to call off a proposed flight to Boston today.

POLICE SEEK MAN AND WIFE OF HIS FRIEND

Husband Says Mrs. Carrie Keener Took Child, 2, and $2000.

Howard Keener, 1800 Kennett place, has asked police to assist in a search for his wife, Mrs. Carrie B. Keener, 23 years old, who, he said, left home last Monday, taking with her their 2-year-old son and $2000 and personal belongings. He was at work when they left.

Mrs. Marie Boice, 6315 Famous avenue, also asked police to look for her husband, Wilbur F. Boice, 31, superintendent of the Title Guaranty Building, who, she said, left home Monday in their automobile, taking $3000 and personal belongings with him.

The Keener and Boice families have been friendly for the past three years, Keener told police. Keener said he became acquainted with Boice when they were passengers on a train from Jersey City, N. J. to St. Louis.

Mrs. Keener is described by her husband as being 5 feet 1 inch tall, weighing 120 pounds and having fair complexion, black curly hair and large brown eyes.

Mrs. Boice said her husband, whose eyes were injured two weeks ago in an accident, told her last Sunday he was going away for his health. Neighbors have told her that Monday morning, after she went to work, her husband and a woman drove away in his automobile. She then discovered, she said, that Boice had taken their joint savings of $3000 from a bank, together with mortgages and other papers.

LIEUT. CHAMPION'S ALTITUDE RECORD PUT AT 38,599 FEET

Official Barograph Reading Disappoints Naval Flyer Who Descended in Flames.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The barograph which Lieut. C. C. Champion fought so valiantly to save in his spectacular altitude flight Monday morning, today registered for him a disappointing figure of 38,559 feet.

Champion, with an altimeter which he said showed a height of 47,000 feet, stuck to his blazing plane during a sensational descent, to save the instrument which he thought would yield him a world's record.

Today the Bureau of Standards, whose cold analysis must be the final word in such matters, announced through the National Aeronautic Association, that so far as official records go, Champion must try again.

The recognized record is 40,820 feet, held by Callizo of France.

By climbing to 38,559 feet Lieut. Champion exceeded his previous high altitude record by 604 feet but failed to equal the American record of 38,704 feet, established by Lieut. MacReady of the Army Air Service on January 29, 1926, over McCook Field, O.

Canadian Flyers to Stick to Jobs.

By the Associated Press.

TORONTO, Ont., July 27.—Capts. W. Roy Maxwell and T. B. Tully of the Ontario Government Air Service, chosen from a large number of applicants for the London, Ontario, to London, England, nonstop flight, announced today they would accept the decision of the Government refusing them leave of absence to make the flight, and continue their forest patrol work.

Mrs. Lillian Moss of 2703A Geyer avenue, who caused the arrest of a man for disturbing her peace at Westminster place and Sarah street Sunday night, said today that she had no knowledge of the case in which the same man, Joseph E. Ballinger, was fined $100 for driving while intoxicated. Police Judge Rosecan Monday imposed on Ballinger both the $100 fine and a $50 fine for peace disturbance. Mrs. Moss said she was returning from church with a woman friend when the man accosted them and struck her, that she caused his arrest for that reason only, and that she did not know anything about his actions as a driver.

EXTRA SALESPEOPLE FOR SERVICE

$1,150,000 FRAUD CHARGED IN CRASH OF ATLANTA FIRM

New York Capitalist and Allied Companies Accused of Concealing Assets of Insolvent House.

TRUSTEE FILES COURT ACTION

Declares Two Dummy Corporations Were Organized for Purpose of Defrauding Creditors.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 27.—Representatives of S. A. Lynch, New York capitalist, and S. A. Lynch Enterprises Finance Corporation and allied companies, have been ordered to appear in Fulton County Superior Court here Aug. 6 to show cause why a permanent receiver should not be appointed for them. The order resulted from proceedings instituted here by the trustee in bankruptcy for Adair and Senter, Inc., seeking to recover $1,150,000 in assets of the Atlanta firm which the petition said were illegally held by Lynch and the Lynch interests.

Two Receivers Appointed.

Judge G. H. Howard last night signed an order appointing temporary receivers for Lynch and the Lynch companies insofar as their holdings of property of the bankrupt firm of Adair and Senter, Inc., of Atlanta. The suit was based on the application of W. D. Ofman as trustee in bankruptcy for Adair and Senter, the construction branch of the insolvent Adair Realty & Trust Co. of Atlanta. The order granted last night also temporarily enjoined Lynch and his companies from disposing in any way of the stock, bonds, mortgages or any property of the Adair and Senter corporation for which suit for recovery is being made.

The petition charges fraud and illegal concealment of assets were practiced in an involved scheme whereby Adair and Senter, Inc., was made totally insolvent when its assets were transferred to the Lynch interests as security for a loan to the Adair Realty & Trust Co., at a time when the parent company was in financial straits.

Use of Dummy Firms Charged.

The assets of the Adair & Senter Co., consisting partly of equities in apartment houses and hotels in Atlanta, Knoxville, Miami, Jacksonville, Tampa and Lakeland were used to partly cover the loan which amounted to $2,500,000. The equities were valued at $1,500,000. The petition alleges that officials of the Lynch company and of the parent Adair company were placed on the Board of Directors of the Adair & Senter corporation and that the major offices of the company were likewise filled and "two dummy companies organized and chartered for the purpose of carrying out a scheme to gain the assets of Adair & Senter, Inc., and for the purpose of delaying and hindering and defrauding the creditors of Adair & Senter, Inc.

Written demand was made of Lynch and the Lynch Enterprises Finance Corporation, says the petition asking that the assets of the Adair & Senter corporation be returned to the trustee in bankruptcy but this was refused.

TITLE GUARANTY TRUST PLANS NEW SUBSIDIARY

Because the Commonwealth Farm Loan Co., a subsidiary of the Title Guaranty Trust Co. has been forced to take in a large amount of real estate on delinquent farm loans and is not in a position to make further loans, a new company is to be organized to take over the loan function in its stead, and to issue title insurance policies

Stockholders of the trust company will meet tomorrow to vote on the proposal to form a new company, stock in which is to be held by the trust company. The business of the new company will be conducted in the building of the Title Guaranty Trust Co. at 810 Chestnut street.

Under a new State law, title companies may now give title insurance policies in lieu of guaranties of title and the new company will also perform that function.

The Commonwealth Farm Loan Co. was organized in 1911 with a capital stock of $250,000. Its officers are Mark M. Anderson, president; Frank Gottlieb, vice president; M. C. Moore, secretary, and M. Kroeger, assistant secretary.

128TH BREAKS CAMP AT FORT AND STARTS HOME IN TRUCKS

By the Associated Press.

JUNCTION CITY, Kan., July 27.—The 128th Field Artillery, Missouri National Guard, began breaking camp on the Fort Riley Military Reservation today following a week of intensive training. The regiment recently was motorized and now travels in huge trucks, the column being two and a quarter miles long.

Battery A of St. Louis, left early this morning and will camp tonight at Topeka. Battery B, Mexico, left later, with a night stop at Wamego in prospect. The remainder of the regiment leaves early Thursday morning. All units will reach home Sunday.

British Camouflage Artist Dies

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 27.—Solomon Joseph Solomon, noted British artist who called attention to the need of camouflage in modern warfare and initiated it in the British army at the outbreak of the World War, died in London today. He was born in London 67 years ago. Among his many works are the decorations in the Royal Exchange and the House of Parliament.

AUCTION BRIDGE

By MILTON C. WORK

I HAVE just received a most interesting and timely letter from a lady who occupies a prominent social position in one of our Western cities. She makes her points so clearly that I am going to publish a considerable portion of her letter. With a few deletions, it reads as follows:

"It seems to me the time has come for you to write a scathing denunciation of people who claim to play Bridge but do not observe the recognized conventions, or even the laws of the game. There are at least fifty of my personal friends who read your articles every day and for whom a vigorous protest from you should be most valuable. They play a game to suit themselves; they will not recognize any such penalties as those imposed for insufficient bids, exposed cards, misdeals or touching cards in Dummy, although they always claim revoke penalties even if the revoke has not gained anything for the offender. They pay no attention to recognized conventions, playing a sort of wildcat Bridge, and the favorite expression of most of them is 'Oh, I only play for the pleasure of the game.' They would not revoke intentionally under any circumstance—oh, why no! They will knowingly commit almost any other Auction crime. When I try to enforce any penalty, except for a revoke, there is generally a free-for-all; and if I insist, they act as if I had robbed them of their last penny—or worse. Another thing they do at 'card parties' is deliberately agree to double and redouble so as to increase each other's scores; and when I tell them they are cheating, they are shocked, consider me a pariah, and go right ahead. There should be a way to enforce the laws and to keep the game up to the standard. Can you give me any advice?"

I deeply sympathize with my suffering correspondent and can readily appreciate her situation. There is a certain stage in the Auction career of many people in which they feel that the only penalty they should claim is the one for the revoke, although it is generally conceded in expert circles that it, much more than any other penalty, is apt to be unduly severe. At that stage of Bridge advancement the idea obtains that it is smart to disregard recognized conventions, and that it is easy to get along very well without their use.

Of course, few of these players realize that the game they are playing is not Bridge, and is not nearly as good a game as Bridge. Two classes of players participate in the "imitation game," viz., (a) those who are incapable of mastering the fine points of the real game, or are too indolent to do so and who deliberately foster the practice of ignoring conventions and most of the penalties; (b) those who are ignorant of real Bridge and its possibilities and, following the line of least resistance, do as their friends do.

Those who enjoy the game played in that way have a wonderful opportunity ahead of them, because they have a chance for infinitely greater enjoyment when they really learn to play Bridge. They will doubtless appreciate all this some day, and will then regret the time they are now wasting.

None of the penalties has been created for any purpose but to make it fit the crime, and in the majority of cases it does so. To fail to impose penalties makes a game sloppy and detracts from the interest. Every convention has been determined upon after a long series of practical and mathematical tests, and is known to be a winner in the long run. The player who disregards a convention, no matter how clever he or she may be, is merely throwing away an advantage; but, what is more important than losing points, is losing a great part of the pleasure and thrills of the game. Playing the game conventionally, soundly and successfully, gives much greater enjoyment than playing at it in the foolish manner that my correspondent has described.

Upon the point of the doubles by agreement, implied or deliberately arranged, in a progressive game, I quite agree with my correspondent. Any such practice cheats the players at the other tables and causes a scientific game to degenerate into a catch-as-catch-can joke. This question is a vital one for all who play progressive, and indirectly also for all who play straight Bridge, because it is the one and only department of Bridge into which irregular practices have crept—practices against which the sensibilities of the progressive players as a whole have not reacted as they should: and a canker worm has thus found its way almost unrecognized into a game whose repute in all other respects would cause Caesar's wife to blush with envy.

Clubs in which local rules prohibiting doubling and redoubling are shamelessly posted, do not seem to appreciate that such action is equivalent to announcing: "We are obliged to rob the game of one of its most attractive and essential features, to keep our members from adopting unethical customs."

Space is not available today to give the subject the attention it deserves, so it will be made the text of next Sunday's article; and I urge every Progressive player and indeed every one to whom the game of Bridge is dear—to give it her most careful consideration.

Hints on the Management of Goiter

By CHARLES A. L. REED, M. D., Former President of the American Medical Association.

THE rapid increase in the prevalence of goiter in this country makes it possible either that you are a victim or are in touch with someone who is a victim of that disease.

In either case, there are certain hints that you may find useful. They come from the late Dr. A. J. Ochsner of Chicago, one of the most distinguished authorities on the disease. They were rules that he adopted in his own case and are applicable to all cases of goiter. I gave them because they may be not only helpful to you, but a convenience to your physician, under whose care you ought to remain until you have recovered.

Ochsner's rules were as follows:

Avoid all excitement or irritation, like attending receptions, shopping, church work and politics. If anything happens to annoy you, put it off for a week.

You should get an abundance of rest by going to bed early and taking a nap after luncheon.

You should have an abundance of fresh air at night; consequently, you should sleep with wide open windows, or on a sleeping porch.

You should take nothing that irritates the nervous system, like tea, coffee or alcohol. Of course, you should not use tobacco in any form.

You should eat very little meat. If you are fond of meat, take a little beef, mutton or breast of chicken, or fresh fish, two or three times a week.

You should drink a great deal of milk or eat things prepared with milk, such as milk toast, milk puddings, etc., also cream and buttermilk are especially good for you.

You should eat an abundance of cooked fruit and cooked vegetables or very ripe raw fruits, or drink juices prepared from ripe fruits.

You should eat eggs, bread, butter, toast, rice and cereals.

You should drink an abundance of good water, or, if this is not available, boil your drinking water for 20 minutes, or drink distilled water.

To these nine commandments I wish to add a tenth, thus making a veritable decalogue, as follows:

Be cheerful. If you can't be cheerful, be as cheerful as you can. You can do this best by having confidence in your doctor, by placing the whole responsibility on him, and by living in full hope of recovering.

Two Skirts Now Worn.

NEW YORK.—Skirts are so abbreviated nowadays that any woman can afford to wear two and some of the smartest of them do. One is very tight and the other is very loose. The tight skirt is underneath and the loose skirt is cut exactly like a volant, with the fullness gathered about the waist.

Gold Shoes Are Slipping.

The bootmakers of the three fashion centers, Paris, London and New York, declare the vogue for gold and silver kid evening shoes is over. Who knows? But the shoemakers lay special stress upon the satin slippers for evening, in colors to match or contrast with the gown, but on no account to match the stockings.

Children's Bedtime Story

Black Pussy Is Put Out

Of course it never can be right;
Yet lots of noise may win a fight.
—Little Chuck.

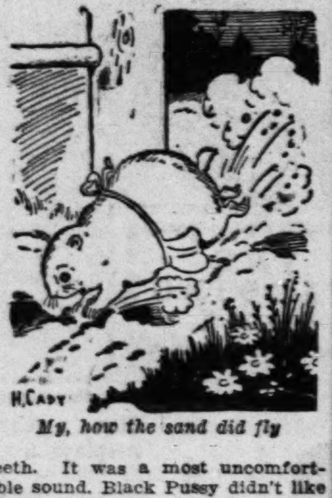
LITTLE MISS CURIOSITY, the young Chuck who had been taken home by Farmer Brown's Boy, had a mind of her own. There was no doubt about that; she had a mind of her own. She knew what she wanted and she intended to have it. She had gone exploring about the dooryard and she had discovered a hole under the back porch which Black Pussy was in the habit of using. Little Miss Curiosity went under. She explored all around underneath there. She was very well pleased with it.

"Here's where I'm going to dig a home," said she. "I have fairly ached for a good place to dig. It is no use to try to dig through boards. Now this looks like good digging around here. I believe I'll try it."

So just a little way back under the back porch Little Miss Curiosity began to dig. My, how the sand did fly! You know, a woodchuck can make the sand fly if anyone can. It was just after Little Miss Curiosity had started this hole that Black Pussy came across from the barn, headed toward the back porch. As she drew near it she heard a strange noise underneath it. Someone was under there. Could it be that one of the children of Robber the Rat had come over from the barn? Black Pussy poked her head underneath, her yellow eyes widening as she sought to see what was going on in the dark. Then she backed out so hastily that she bumped her head. She had received a lot of sand right in her face. Yes, sir, she had received a lot of sand right in her face. Someone had thrown it. The wonder was that it had not gone into her eyes. No wonder she backed out hastily! Her tail swelled up to about three times its natural size. She growled. She was upset. She was angry, yet she didn't quite dare put her head in there again. You see, she hadn't found out who it was that was in there.

Meanwhile Little Miss Curiosity went on with her digging. She had discovered that it was a fine place to dig. It was sandy soil and that meant easy digging. It also meant that it was nice and dry. My, my, how those little forepaws of that young Chuck did fly, and how those hind feet did kick the sand out that was shoved back by her forefeet! In less time than it takes to tell, there was a good-sized hole there.

But Little Miss Curiosity was, after all, only a young Chuck. After a bit she grew tired. So she went up to rest. She poked her head out from under the porch and she poked it almost into the face of Black Pussy, who was still crouched close to that opening. Black Pussy snarled and spit, as only Black Pussy can, though she backed away. Little Miss Curiosity was so startled that she withdrew her head for a moment. But it was only for a moment. Then she poked her head out again and such a racket as she made with her teeth. It was a most uncomfortable sound. Black Pussy didn't like it. She didn't like it at all. Those teeth sounded as if they could hurt. To add to the sound of her teeth, Little Miss Curiosity began to chatter and scold. Very plainly she was telling Black Pussy to go away from there and stay away.



My, how the sand did fly

Now Black Pussy was very much put out. As long as she could remember she had regarded as her very own that retreat under the back porch. Once or twice she had had visitors who had forced her to get out. Jimmy Skunk was one. But these visitors never had remained. Now here was this young upstart of a Chuck digging a hole under there. No wonder Black Pussy was upset. But being upset didn't help her any. The truth is she really didn't dare go back there and put the intruder out.

The Homemaker —Her Earnings

THE American homemaker averages earnings of $1751.34 a year, according to Miriam Rapp, assistant in the department of household administration, Iowa State College, who discusses the worth of the homemaker in dollars and cents in August McCall's.

Says Miss Rapp:

"The task which seems to take the greatest amount of their time is that of planning and preparing three meals a day. Alice, who is an average homemaker, spends 14 hours a week in the cooking of food. A cook in a restaurant receives $5 a day. At the same rate the value of the time Alice spends in cooking for her family will amount to $455 in one year.

"Dishwashing follows meals as unfailingly as Tuesday follows Monday! A hired dishwasher receives only 40 cents an hour. Her task, although not as skilled as that of a cook, must be done, nevertheless, and paid for. Alice finds that while she is washing dishes she can be doing other things, such as cooking apple sauce for lunch or planning the menus for next week's company dinner. In addition, she must always have an ear alert for Jimmy and Betty at play. Alice spends about 10 hours a week washing dishes and the time spent is worth $208 a year.

"Adding up the amounts she contributes by doing her various household tasks will show that Alice adds $1751.34 to the family income in a year. This is just slightly more than the average income of employed persons in the United States.

"If we consider the 20,000,000 'Alices' who 'keep house' in the United States, it is easy to realize that their combined incomes might add $18,000,000,000 to our national income."

LAUGHING AROUND THE WORLD

Merely the Advance Guard.

IT was not my good fortune to know the greatest natural liar that the old West produced. But I was so favored as to enjoy the friendship of one who had known that celebrity in the very height of his powers and fame; and from this source I secured a characteristic sample of the champion's gifts.

A group of tenderfeet in Montana were wondering if there had ever been on the plain as many buffaloes as the old-timers claimed, or were the tales of the countless herds exaggerated? At this juncture the inspired fictionist strolled into the group.

"Here," said a native, "now we'll find out the facts. Bill, what was the most buffaloes you ever seen in one bunch?"

"Lemme see?" reflected the veteran. "Oh, yes, now I remember. Well, one time down in the Yellowstone I was scoutin' along when I run into quite a sizeable gang of buffaloes. I counted them—there was just a few over three trillion head. I had plenty of time to count 'em because it took 'em nine days to go by me.

"And when the last million was going past, I happened to look over the hill and here was the main herd comin'."

Pride Over Small Feet Has Passed

THE pride of woman no longer is dependent upon a small foot, says the Kentucky College of Agriculture in a bulletin on "The relation of clothes to health" issued to warn the women that when high heeled shoes are necessary to comfort a structural defect of the foot is bound to be present and should receive medical attention. The bulletin strongly advocates the low heel, advising women accustomed to high heels to "make a gradual change," going first to the medium high heels.

The woman of today first of all demands comfort, says the bulletin in pointing out that the day of pride over small feet has passed. High heels and short shoes, with narrow pointed toes, are blamed for much of the foot trouble experienced by women.

Incorrect walking also may cause foot trouble, says the bulletin, which continues:

"The first point to be considered in seeking relief from foot trouble is to be sure that the shoes worn are made on the right lines. Then, if they have been properly fitted and the trouble remains, it may come from incorrect walking.

"Pointing the toe out or in throws the weight on the inner or outer part of the foot, respectively, which tends to weaken the arch. Savage races who walk for hours without tiring, walk with the feet pointed straight ahead.

"If a child's shoes are sufficiently long and wide the undesirable habit of toeing in or out seldom will be formed."

Candlesticks of Wax.

Very beautiful are the new candlesticks made of wax. Out of the center of the flower rises a tall pasted tinted candle. The pond lily ones are particularly beautiful.

Tonight-This
If "That Schoolgirl Complexion" is your aim
By NORMA SHEARER

THERE are both proved and unproved rules in skin care.

The following is credited with more beautiful complexions than any other known—the rule that sums up modern beauty culture, both in Europe and America.

Follow it for one week—especially before bed. Then note the improvement in your skin. Use powder, rouge or make-up all you wish. But do not let them remain over night.

Wash the face gently with Palmolive. Massage its balmy olive and palm oil lather into the skin. Rinse with warm water; then with cold. That is all—it's nature's rule for keeping that schoolgirl complexion.

But be sure you get the real Palmolive. A soap made solely for one purpose: to safeguard your skin. Sixty years of soap study stand behind it.

Get 10c Palmolive now. Use no other on your face. Experimenting with unproved soaps is a folly. Good complexions are too priceless for that. The Palmolive-Peet Co., Chicago, U. S. A.

The Woman of It

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall.

Who's Who in Lady-Killers.

WHAT sort of man do women find irresistible? The question is of perennial interest to both men and women, but it gets a news fillip just now through the presence "in our midst" (and in the Tombs) of one Robert Whitman, who has called himself "Baron Beaverbrook," and to whom, if police charges are true, women all over America have given not only their hearts but the contents of their safety deposit boxes. The "Baron's" arrival in New York was preceded by the report that he had not only wooed but wed 47 females. When we talked with him in his present abiding place he indignantly denied this legend, but in the next breath, blandly admitted "50 or 60 romances."

"The secret is not your fatal gift of beauty," we reflected, as we gazed (through fine-mesh grating) upon a slight, short, gray-haired, sallow-cheeked Lothario, whose large, expressive, blue-gray eyes were the only feature which distinguished his appearance from that of many an elderly man behind the counter or across the subway aisle.

Nor is this hero of well-paying romance the caveman type in either appearance or manner. His voice is soft, slick, ingratiating. He smiles and bridles, instead of frowning and looking masterful. His success with the fair sex certainly gives the lie to the notion that what women fall for most easily is the he-man, the drag-'em around-by-the-hair gent. As a matter of fact, we have never believed in this rough diamonds' potentialities as a heart-breaker. He bores and annoys most women.

"BARON BEAVERBROOK" gave us his own theory of why he has made a hit with the ladies. "I put romance in their lives," he explained, blandly. "I am gentle, considerate, appreciative. I give them the devotion they enjoy."

The gift, according to the police of a dozen cities, was anything but free. They say that, whatever the "Baron" gave his girl-friends, the latter reciprocated with jewels or cold cash or both. The "Baron" himself admits that, in accepting the generosity of his feminine admirers, he may have been "weak." Most of us would substitute stronger and uglier adjectives.

Nevertheless, and however little other men may like the suggestion, some of them would make women happier and be more successful with them if these men would borrow from certain methods used by the confidence man. What makes him contemptible is not his technique but his insincerity, his exploitation of emotion for selfish and cruel and crooked ends.

He would be less the lady-killer if the decent, honest men were more gallant, more appreciative, more devoted. If you ask us, the sort of man whom most women find irresistible is all of these things. He strives to please. He looks and says and does the charming little devotions. He notices what women wear. He pays them compliments. He listens to them sympathetically and doesn't talk too much about himself. He remembers anniversaries, he sends flowers, he performs all the courteous services which even feminists still appreciate. When he is with a woman he acts as if he really enjoyed her society more than that of any one else. He is devoted. Of course, women are devoted to him!

WHY should not a man take these simple and inexpensive methods of recommending himself to the woman or women whom he likes and by whom he wants to be liked? Why should he think he has the license to appear brusque, prosaic, unregardful of courtesies and compliments, just because he is conscious of his solid worth? How does the "strong, silent" man get that way? Often, in our opinion, because he is self-absorbed, and either too lazy or too egotistical to try to please the other sex.

He professes contempt for "buttering up" women, for "kidding them along" with little courtesies and flatteries. He says it isn't his nature. Then our advice to him is to make it his art! No man is too good or too great to show gallantry, appreciation, charming manners in his relations with women. Their often monotonous and hard-working days are brightened by that sort of thing; if they could get it from decent men-folk they would be less often deluded by the shop-window stuff of the gay deceiver. Better men would "sell themselves" to women—if they did not so often leave to the other sort of male the graces of life which—whether the "strong, silent" ones like it or not—most recommend their sex to feminine favor.

A Little Dear.

Ann wants a little bungalow
Where little breezes softly blow,
A little nook to read a book
Beside a little babbling brook;
She'd like a little costly string
Of pearls, a little diamond ring,
A little wardrobe of fine clo'es,
A little car; but I suppose—
With the little I have, it's tough—
Poor Ann will get little enough.

Candlesticks of Wax.

Very beautiful are the new candlesticks made of wax. Out of the center of the flower rises a tall pasted tinted candle. The pond lily ones are particularly beautiful.

The Woman of It

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall.

Who's Who in Lady-Killers.

WHAT sort of man do women find irresistible? The question is of perennial interest to both men and women, but it gets a news fillip just now through the presence "in our midst" (and in the Tombs) of one Robert Whitman, who has called himself "Baron Beaverbrook," and to whom, if police charges are true, women all over America have given not only their hearts but the contents of their safety deposit boxes. The "Baron's" arrival in New York was preceded by the report that he had not only wooed but wed 47 females. When we talked with him in his present abiding place he indignantly denied this legend, but in the next breath, blandly admitted "50 or 60 romances."

"The secret is not your fatal gift of beauty," we reflected, as we gazed (through fine-mesh grating) upon a slight, short, gray-haired, sallow-cheeked Lothario, whose large, expressive, blue-gray eyes were the only feature which distinguished his appearance from that of many an elderly man behind the counter or across the subway aisle.

Nor is this hero of well-paying romance the caveman type in either appearance or manner. His voice is soft, slick, ingratiating. He smiles and bridles, instead of frowning and looking masterful. His success with the fair sex certainly gives the lie to the notion that what women fall for most easily is the he-man, the drag-'em around-by-the-hair gent. As a matter of fact, we have never believed in this rough diamonds' potentialities as a heart-breaker. He bores and annoys most women.

"BARON BEAVERBROOK" gave us his own theory of why he has made a hit with the ladies. "I put romance in their lives," he explained, blandly. "I am gentle, considerate, appreciative. I give them the devotion they enjoy."

The gift, according to the police of a dozen cities, was anything but free. They say that, whatever the "Baron" gave his girl-friends, the latter reciprocated with jewels or cold cash or both. The "Baron" himself admits that, in accepting the generosity of his feminine admirers, he may have been "weak." Most of us would substitute stronger and uglier adjectives.

Nevertheless, and however little other men may like the suggestion, some of them would make women happier and be more successful with them if these men would borrow from certain methods used by the confidence man. What makes him contemptible is not his technique but his insincerity, his exploitation of emotion for selfish and cruel and crooked ends.

He would be less the lady-killer if the decent, honest men were more gallant, more appreciative, more devoted. If you ask us, the sort of man whom most women find irresistible is all of these things. He strives to please. He looks and says and does the charming little devotions. He notices what women wear. He pays them compliments. He listens to them sympathetically and doesn't talk too much about himself. He remembers anniversaries, he sends flowers, he performs all the courteous services which even feminists still appreciate. When he is with a woman he acts as if he really enjoyed her society more than that of any one else. He is devoted. Of course, women are devoted to him!

WHY should not a man take these simple and inexpensive methods of recommending himself to the woman or women whom he likes and by whom he wants to be liked? Why should he think he has the license to appear brusque, prosaic, unregardful of courtesies and compliments, just because he is conscious of his solid worth? How does the "strong, silent" man get that way? Often, in our opinion, because he is self-absorbed, and either too lazy or too egotistical to try to please the other sex.

He professes contempt for "buttering up" women, for "kidding them along" with little courtesies and flatteries. He says it isn't his nature. Then our advice to him is to make it his art! No man is too good or too great to show gallantry, appreciation, charming manners in his relations with women. Their often monotonous and hard-working days are brightened by that sort of thing; if they could get it from decent men-folk they would be less often deluded by the shop-window stuff of the gay deceiver. Better men would "sell themselves" to women—if they did not so often leave to the other sort of male the graces of life which—whether the "strong, silent" ones like it or not—most recommend their sex to feminine favor.

Lament of an Aviator's Wife.

You have crossed the boundless ocean
In a winging aeroplane;
You've inspired with sweet emotion
Many a loving foreign "jane."

She admires you for your courage
As throughout the sky you roam—
I am left to pay demurrage
When your compass won't point

TRAAL THAISIS.

A Little Dear.

Ann wants a little bungalow
Where little breezes softly blow,
A little nook to read a book
Beside a little babbling brook;
She'd like a little costly string
Of pearls, a little diamond ring,
A little wardrobe of fine clo'es,
A little car; but I suppose—
With the little I have, it's tough—
Poor Ann will get little enough.

THE OTHER KIND OF "FIFTY-FIFTY" MARRIAGES

Heroic Women of the Literary Frontiers Who Are Not Above Toiling for and With Their Men.

Wives Who Find Their Best Careers Helping Their Husbands Make the Best of Themselves.

MRS. CHANNING POLLOCK — MRS. W. FRANKE HARLING — MRS. CHARLES G. NORRIS.

By SARAH M'DOUGALL.

NEW YORK.

ARE the wives of today reverting to type and becoming the old-fashioned helpmates their pioneer grandmothers were, modeling themselves after heroic women of the frontier who were not above fighting for and with their men?

Pronouncements by a number of prominent men indicate that instead of being self-centered individualists, wives in the most modern homes of the most modern city in the world are willing to spend their days defending their husbands from the 1927 counterpart of wild Indians who would steal a man's time, kill his brain children and otherwise interfere with his job.

A remark made by the authors of one of Broadway's most recent successful plays called attention to the activities a wife may be carrying on behind the scenes to promote the public success of her husband.

In a moment of gratitude for the good fortune that befell their mystery melodrama, Lowell Brentano and Fulton Oursler, authors of "The Spider," admitted that the play never would have been written had it not been for the help these writers received from their wives. Other prominent men picked up the cue and have been saying similar things about their work and their wives.

Not a man was found who complained that his wife did not understand him, that she hindered his self-expression, interfered with his art, or anything like that. Not a woman regretted that her soul development had to be sacrificed in order to focus the family energy on pushing the husband's career toward the goal.

Mrs. Oursler answered her husband's acknowledgment by saying she had to get him angry in order to get him to go to work and write his share of the popular and profitable play. After watching him spend unproductive weeks in his large and sunny study in their fifteenth floor apartment, she finally locked him out of that workroom. The storm that followed cleared the fog from his mind, and, she says, he has been working ever since.

Not Just Wife's Husband.

Charles G. Norris, who recently came on from California with the manuscript of his new novel, "Zelda Marsh," declared that he never would have written a line of fiction had it not been for the encouragement and support he received from his wife, Kathleen Norris. He was still on the staff of the American Magazine, when, partly through his efforts, his wife came into prominence as a novelist.

"The thing that got my goat was when some one introduced me as Mr. Kathleen Norris," he recalled. "We talked it over and decided that things could not go on like that. We left New York and went back to California. In six months I had written my first book."

His account of his wife supporting him through that period, paying the bills, protecting him against interruptions or annoyances, suggested a picture of the pioneer woman with a gun in her hand, bending over the prostrate form of a husband with an arrow in his side. Mr. Norris's "Bread" and "Brass" and other one-word titles had won him literary recognition on his own account. Now husband and wife take turns playing watchdog for each other, reading and criticising one another's work. He feels that some of his debt to his wife has been paid by his success as her business manager.

"I did the driving and put her stuff over," he said. "Soon after we were married I sat up most of a night piecing together the small scraps of a story manuscript she had torn to bits because she thought it was not good enough to read aloud to me. I sold it to the Atlantic Monthly after it had been rejected by twenty-five editors."

An Old-Fashioned Wife.

Frank Harling, composer of "Dec. River" and "A Light From St. Agnes," admits that he could not get his composing done were it not for the help he receives from his young and pretty wife, who for some reason he calls "Siwash," though her name is Lugarda. She had been a church and oratorio singer before she met Mr. Harling. Now she says the only reason she keeps up her singing is because by it she can help her husband in his work.

"I guess I'm just an old-fashioned wife," she said. "People tell me I'm crazy to give up my own career and that I'm sacrificing too much to help my husband. I have not thought of such a thing. I am doing what I like to do. I like to help him by keeping him from being disturbed by business things, by singing his themes as he works them out, and telling him what I think of them. His work fascinates me so much more than my own ever did. He is always doing something so interesting that I just couldn't go away on a singing tour and leave him. In spite of myself, doing what I am doing will probably be the greater thing for me, for I cannot imagine anything better than singing his compositions in public."

They first met in the Greenwich Theater in New York, where Mrs. Harling sang her husband's incidental music in "Sakuntala." Before "Deep River" was produced on Broadway this season it was she who sang all the parts from beginning to end for Arthur Hopkins, the producer. She did the same thing before "A Light From St. Agnes" was produced by the Chicago Opera Company. At a May festival of the Oakland Civic Opera Company, she sang Raisa's role in that opera, and on her way back to New York, she gave song recitals of her husband's compositions with the composer at the piano. Mrs. Harling finds it a satisfactory life.

Depends on His Wife.

On the brink of coming back to Broadway with three, and perhaps four, new plays, George Middleton disregarded productions and theaters long enough to acknowledge that his wife, Fola La Follette, is a very great help to her playwright husband.

"I depend absolutely on her judgment regarding any lines that relate to the emotions or the human side of life," he said. "She is a very keen critic, infallible on certain aspects of the drama. The experience of having been at one time on the stage is another factor that contributes to the value of her criticism."

Channing Pollock has so often borne testimony to the invaluable help he gets from his wife when his plays are in the making, and Mrs. Pollock's friends so often deplore the fact that she has sacrificed her own writing talent to help him, that she was induced to talk about it just before they sailed for Spain for the summer. The last thing they did before leaving New York was to win a lawsuit in which Mr. Pollock was defendant in a plagiarism complaint, and to spend in that contest a few thousand dollars of the fortune he made on "The Fool."

"I am what you might call a domestic pragmatist," said Mrs. Pollock. "I believe that when a woman marries she might as well make up her mind to do the most useful thing. One of the most useful things I do now is to protect my husband from reading manuscripts by other authors. He has not read a manuscript play in years and he never will if I can prevent it. Defending ourselves against the accusation of stealing ideas is an expensive annoyance and a terrific waste of time."

Mrs. Pollock said she never has had a moment of self-pity because she gave up her own career to help her husband.

Poet in the Kitchen.

"I did have some little talent for rhyming and I wrote some one-act plays for vaudeville, and I might have gone on doing that sort of thing. I have a particular detestation for the kind of female person who goes on ranting and writing about what she calls her career when she might better be making home comfortable for her husband and herself. Any great talent is bound to find the light and air. Genius will out. I have spent a good deal of my married life in the kitchen. But it never has occurred to me that a great poet was being buried there. A lot of poetry can be put into a lemon meringue pie. I rather fancy myself as a cook, and I still beam when my husband likes what I prepare. Human nature does not change very much. We are not so different from the wives of other times. It seems to me that husbands have less leisure than in the olden days. If I want to talk to mine for half an hour I have to make a date with him in advance."

Dr. Louis K. Anspacher, playwright, poet, lecturer, had just written the dedication of his new book of poems to his wife, Kathryn Kidder. It read:

"And by the strength of what you think I ought to be
I will become that which you thought I was."

He explained that what a writer needs from his wife is spiritual mothering. "There is always a woman in a man's work if he is a creative artist, and it is God's goodness if that woman is his wife," said Dr. Anspacher. "I am the luckiest being alive. I don't know any way in which my wife does not help me."

He recalled the stressful seven years when he was peddling his play "The Unchastened Woman" to every producer in New York and London, his wife's unflinching faith that it was a good play and that it would get the right production, her playing in vaudeville meanwhile to relieve their financial worries.

"A woman can be a great wife and continue to be a great artist in her own right," is Anspacher's belief.

Wife Guards the Door.

Dean Cornwell, busy on a rush job of illustrating an Irvin Cobb story, put aside his paints long enough to explain how important it is that an artist should have the right kind of wife. He knows artists whose wives hinder their work by insisting upon being the soul of the studio. He considers himself happy because his wife, once fashion editor of the Chicago Tribune, keeps watch at the studio door to make sure that not only household worries are kept out but also that no model gets in who does not know how to wear the right clothes.

"I'm like the models in one respect," Mr. Cornwell regretted. "I don't always know the difference between what they're wearing on Broadway and what they're wearing on Park Avenue. But my wife does. She has faultless taste. She is a genius at deciding what the models should leave off, which is quite as important as what they should put on. She is more interested in helping me and being a good mother to our children than in competing with me in the artificial creative world, and I guess that's the right kind of wife for me."

Don Marquis was quite brief, but he did say that he has the perfect wife for a writing man, one who shoos the worries away when she might invite them in. Said he:

"Whenever I call up to say I'm not coming home until very late she always says, 'All right, Don.' That's my idea of a perfect wife for a literary man!"

Model Workers' Homes.

In these days when one hears so much talk about doing away with slum tenements, it is of interest to recall that as far back as 53 years ago there was opened at the Shaftesbury Park estate, near Wandsworth, London S. W., the first "model city" for workmen. This was the first attempt to provide ideal cottage homes for laborers, artisans and clerks; also to relieve the crowded tenement congestion of London.

Removes Freckles and All Blemishes

When the skin becomes disfigured by freckles, tan, pimples or other blemishes, all beauty of the face is hidden. To remove these skin defects, it is best to peel them off with pure mercolized wax. Obtain an ounce at any drug store or beauty counter and use as directed. The wax peels off the thin outer skin, gently but surely, removing the ugly mask. With the removal of the outside scale, the underlying skin is revealed soft and smooth, clear and white, with the rosy bloom of girlhood on the cheeks. Mercolized wax brings out the hidden beauty.

THE BEAUTY SHOP

By Frances Olivier

Tiny, wavy lines of red from nose to cheek marred the otherwise flawless perfection of her skin.

VISITOR—I never noticed until the other day these funny little red lines alongside my nose. Instantly I became alarmed and ran to a woman friend of mine to ask her what they were and what they came from. All she could tell me was that this sort of blemish usually afflicts gourmands in middle age. Being neither a gourmand nor anywhere near to middle age, I decided to seek more expert opinion. Is there anything that can be done to rid me of this sudden unsightliness?

BEAUTY SPECIALIST—I can help you to greatly modify your troublesome little capillaries, and to prevent the appearance of more, but I cannot promise you that they will disappear altogether, unless you are inhumanly patient and persistent in treating them strictly according to directions.

This is one of the most stubborn sort of blemishes, please remember, and as much the wages of using ice on the face, as it of gourmandizing. Nor does it always affect people approaching their fifties. I have seen it on faces in their early twenties.

Avoid extremes of heat or cold when washing the face and use ice—never. Then you must exclude from your diet all stimulants such as tea and coffee, also hot foods and those that are highly seasoned. Meats, especially the red ones, I advise you to eat sparingly, if at all, during the summer months.

For the most part you must live according to the health book, eating as I have suggested, sleeping eight hours out of every 24 and taking some mild form of exercise for at least 15 minutes each day, preferably outdoors.

If you are given to explosions of temper—a not at all uncommon failing—try to remember the little wavy red lines on your face and keep cool. It is an unfailing method of getting the best of the battle anyway. Excitement of the unpleasant kind cannot be borne gracefully by capillaries as delicate as yours seem to be.

Now as to local treatment, you have not a wide choice of preparations. There are specially prepared vein lotions to be had at well stocked toilet goods counters, to be sure, and some of them excellent. If, however, you prefer a home corrective and one that cannot be called expensive, provide yourself with a little bottle of camphorated oil, yes, the sort that is used on "hurty" throats and sore muscles.

Apply the oil on bits of absorbent cotton or soft cloth to the "veiny" surface and let it remain on the skin to be absorbed. Do this night and morning and as often, in addition, as you find it convenient.

Abie's Irish Rose

by ANNE NICHOLS

AS THE STORY GOES.

When Solomon Levy, Bronx department store owner, is informed that his son, Abie, back from the war with a decoration for bravery, is bringing a girl home for supper, he naturally anticipated a "Nice Jewish goil" who will make a nice wife for his son. Instead he has been brought face to face with the colleen, Rose-Mary, a war-time nurse, daughter of Patrick Murphy, Irish contractor. Unable to overcome her father's prejudice against a Jew for a son-in-law, Rose-Mary has gone to New York and has just been married to Abie in New Jersey. The ceremony has been performed by a Methodist minister. Solomon, though his supicions are aroused, has no inkling of the blow which is to be dealt him.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

UNDER the critical gaze of Solomon Levy, Rose-Mary felt much as she thought a criminal must feel before detectives in a line-up.

Solomon had felt for his spectacles, and now, adjusting them on his nose, he scrutinized her closely. She felt that her Gaelic features must surely betray her, and behind her back she clasped and unclasped her hands; but she continued to smile bravely. She was afraid to speak.

There was a moment of total silence, while her lips grew dry and parched. Then Abie, trying in vain to read the expression on his father's face, said hurriedly: "Of course, Dad; this is—er—this is the young lady I phoned you about." And then as he saw Rose-Mary's smile fade, caught the look of bewilderment which spread across her face, he added quickly, "Dad, I want you to meet a—a very dear friend of mine."

He seized Rose-Mary's hand and led her toward his father.

But Solomon still gazed at the vision before him with an intentness hard to diagnose.

"Who's de name, blease?" he asked with a reluctant smile.

Abie ignored this question, tried to bury it under a quick avalanche of talk.

"I met her just before the armistice was signed," he began "In France, you know. When I was ill in the hospital, and she took care of me"—

This beginning seemed merely to cause his father more anxiety.

Abie saw in a flash what he was thinking: "Oi, oi—vun of dem French brides, eh?" And the response which followed showed that his father had not received this explanation in any too jubilant way.

"Iss dod so?" muttered Solomon.

"Yes—yes, in France."

Rose-Mary spoke this time, smiling sweetly up at him. She was beginning to regain her composure somewhat. But Solomon still scrutinized her critically.

Both she and Abie, exchanging glances, were at a loss what to say. Then Solomon's face lightened.

"A trained noize, perhaps. Dod's a pizziness!" he exclaimed.

"Well, I'm not exactly a trained nurse," responded Rose-Mary.

This answer, too, seemed only partly satisfactory.

"Vell, I had a trained noize vunce," said Solomon,' "Und she vus nod eggsactly vun, either."

Abie laid his hand on his father's shoulder. He wanted to break the tenseness of the situation.

"You don't understand, Dad," he began. "She was an entertainer. In other words, she was a volunteer whose work it was to keep the boys' minds off the war as much as possible"—

"Tsch—I can believe dod." Solomon smiled, appraised her beauty.

"No, no—she tried to make things easier for the boys"—

"I used to sing for the boys behind the lines"— said Rose-Mary.

"An actress. Oi"— And Solomon Levy nodded none too pleased.

"Actress? Mercy no!" cried Rose-Mary.

"Dad! ejaculated Abie.

But Solomon was not so easily to be distracted.

"Vell, you introduced me VONCE to an actress. Und, believe me, DOD girl could act"—

"Dad, please!"

"Oi, vhat a name she had!" His father ignored the interruption. "Vhat a name!" He paused to make his utterance more impressive. "O'Brien—Oi!"

Rose-Mary lost color again. She turned and moved towards the couch. And Abie moved after her, as Solomon followed up this outburst with: "I tot you vus an actress, too, py de dress!"

Rose-Mary halted and glanced hastily at her dress. She laughed a forced little laugh.

"You think this—this dress loud?" she asked him, hesitatingly.

Solomon cocked his head first on one side and then on the other.

"Vell, it ain'd so quiet. "Und," he hesitated, "Und it ain'd so long."

He made a gesture of bringing his two hands together, one from the top and one from the bottom.

"Oh!" exclaimed Rose-Mary, grasping at the front of her dress.

"Maybe it shrunk," continued Solomon Levy.

But Abie had regained his fortitude. He came forward.

"Of course it didn't shrink, Dad!" he said sharply. All the girls are wearing their dresses short this year, you know."

But dod's bad pizziness," argued Solomon.

"How's so, Dad?"

"Dey pay de same and get less." And as if to clinch the argument, he added: "Your mudder always wore long dresses."

He stared disapprovingly at Rose-Mary's shapely legs.

"I'll bet if mother were alive today she would be wearing short dresses, too!" insisted Abie, "Other fellows' mothers wear short dresses."

Rose-Mary said:

"It's ever so much more sanitary, Mr. Levy. Long dresses, trailing the ground, gather microbes."

Solomon Levy only shook his head.

"De microbes would have a high jump to make dod hem," he answered gloomily.

Abie, all too familiar with this mood, could not conceal his uneasiness.

"Don't mind him, Rose," he whispered to Rose-Mary

His father jumped at this name.

Tomorrow—Abie at the breach.

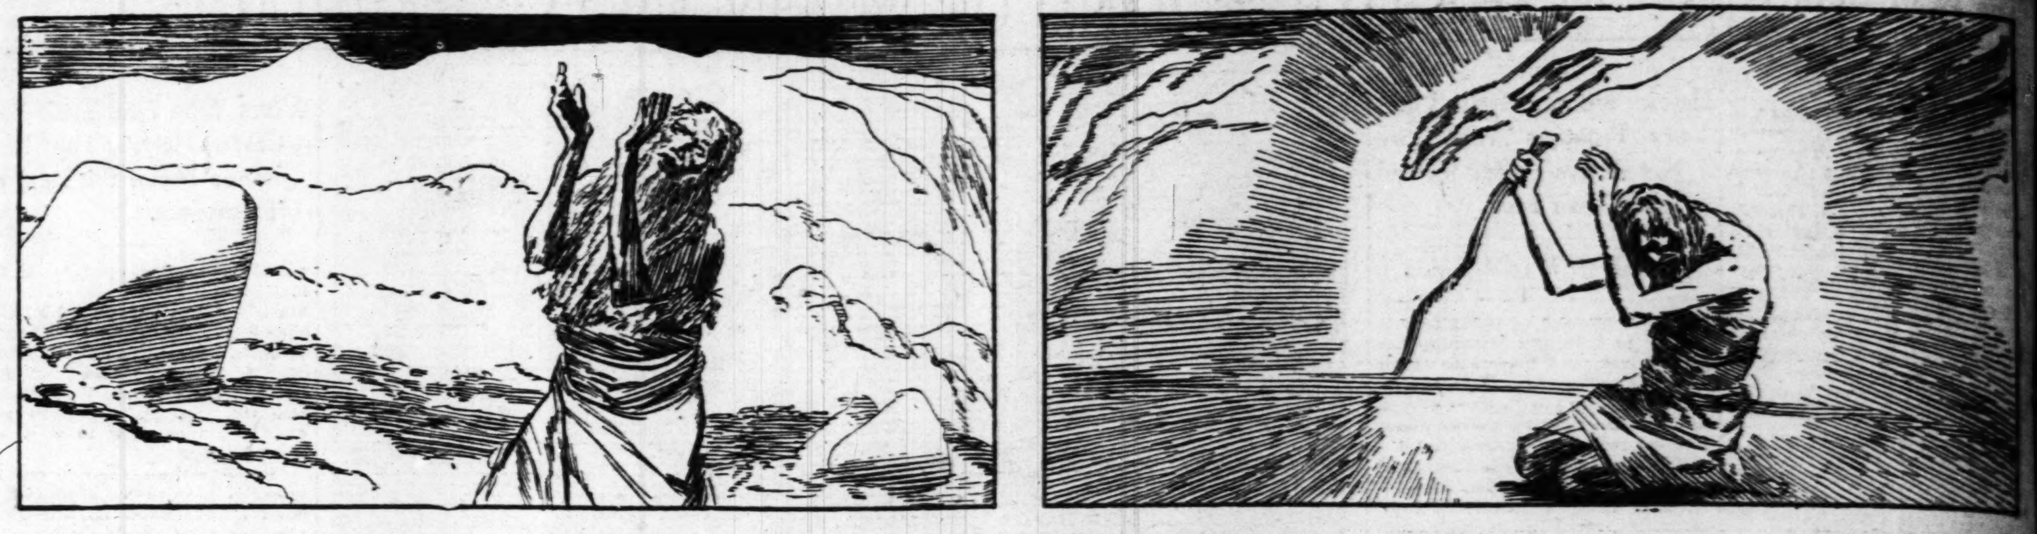
The Greatest Story in the World—By Kor

The Bible in Pictures



And Moses said unto the Lord, O my Lord, I am not eloquent, neither heretofore, nor since thou hast spoken unto thy servant: but I am slow of speech, and of a slow tongue. And the Lord said unto him, Who hath made man's mouth? or who maketh the dumb, or deaf, or the seeing, or the blind? have not I the Lord? Now therefore go, and I will be with thy mouth, and teach thee what thou shalt say. And he said, O my Lord, send, I pray thee, by the hand of him whom thou wilt send. And the anger of the Lord was kindled against Moses, and He said, Is not Aaron the Levite thy brother? I know that he can speak well. And also, behold, he cometh forth to meet thee: and when he seeth thee, he will be glad in his heart. And thou shalt speak unto him, and put words in his mouth: and I will be with thy mouth, and with his mouth, and will teach you what ye shall do. And he shall be thy spokesman unto the people: and he shall be, even he shall be to thee instead of a mouth, and thou shalt be to him instead of God. And thou shalt take this rod in thine hand, wherewith thou shalt do signs.

PRINTED COTTONS · · VERY SMART · VERY NEW

till the season's end

BIZARRE DESIGNS—brilliant colors—small patterns and sober shades—you find them all among the new printed cottons.

Very smart they are, just now. And so practical, too, if you take care of them the safe way. For they need the same special care that you give your cherished chiffons.

As soon as your printed cotton frock is the least bit dusty and soiled, just toss it into a bowlful of bubbling, sparkling Lux suds. Whisk it about, a minute or two. Out it comes, as clear and fresh and brilliant as the day you bought it! Washed in Lux, your new printed cottons or silks keep their beauty, their color to the end of the season.

The big package is so convenient!

NSWERS TO QUERIES

e Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. rsonal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be en attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubt- sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

—The names of the planets as follows: Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Earth, Venus, Mercury. Consult books on nomy at the Public Library complete information about planets.

E. L.—Plaster statuettes be cleaned by applying a thick coating of finely powdered white starch mixed into a paste with hot water. After coating dries thoroughly it crack and scale off. This does not detract from the of the model it cleans.

E.—Boston ferns should disturbed often. They be kept in a place where will not brush against them, the tender ends of the ferns easily bruised, and after they injured, the growth of the is arrested. In general the of the fern is the same as for other potted plants, but do not require as much sun- in fact, they should not be allowed to remain in the sun any th of time. A window on the side of the house is a good to keep them. The earth in which they are planted should con- of leaf mould and sand, and they should be kept moist. If the is turning brown and wither- there is not enough moisture the atmosphere, and the best to do is to put a glass over the fern, with a tray ining water also inside the Do not put the fern directly in the water. This will keep the proper moisture around the fern.

B. L. D.—Probably the best thing to do for the small red ants which have been bothering you in your apartment would be to prepare a small quantity of poison syrup according to the following directions: Dissolve 1 pound of sugar in a half pint of water in a double boiler. Add to this 1½ grams of sodium arsenate first dissolved in a little hot water. Thoroughly mix the syrup and then distribute it on bits rag, sponge and other handy material so that the ant will find it and feed on it. Some drop bits of rags moistened in the syrup into tin cans, partly close the cans and set them about the pantry and kitchen. This makes certain that the poison does not come into contact with food materials. Then, too, the ant has a fondness for prying into things and often will feed on bait concealed in this way when it would pass by bait exposed openly. Every few days renew the bait until you find most of the ants are killed. This is a very mild poison syrup, so mild that the ant, which has a very keen sense of taste, does not detect the poison, but carries it home in considerable quantities, feeds it to the queen and the rest of the colony before the poison is detected. If you put out a syrup that is rank poison the ants will leave it alone. Care must be taken, however, to keep the poison out of reach of the children and others, who might mistake it for sugar syrup.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

X. F.—A license is required house to house canvassing.

JAMES.—The tenant's wages be garnished for the back rent, only at rate of 10 per cent per th of tenant, if he is head of family.

S. B.—You do not have to a retaining wall, but you not fill your yard so as to w surface water on the neigh- 's lot. You do not have to a fence.

CONSTANT READER.—You do have to build a retaining wall cannot stop your neighbor's surface water draining on your place, but he has no right to let rubbish drain on your yard.

M. M.—You do not have to give the lady you are boarding with any notice before moving. It would be customary to pay her for the number of nights you stay, plus charge for the meals on the following days.

PUZZLED. — The half-brothers share one-half as much as the full brothers. Property can be sold through the Probate Court without the heirs signing. You should inquire of the Clerk of the Court where the estate is pending about the other questions.

READER.—Anyone may draw a will, but it must have two witnesses and comply with the State laws. The widow can sell the property without the children's signature, if, the property was willed direct to her.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be con- sidered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

SADIE.—Send stamped self-ad- dressed envelope for personal reply.

MARJORIE.—The only way you could tell positively whether you are still diseased would be to have a microscopic examination made of the discharge. This will be done free of charge by the City Bacteriologist, Room 29, Municipal Courts Building, Fourteenth and Market streets, provided it is sent in by a registered physician or a member of the City Health Department. Whether an operation is necessary must be determined by the test.

MRS. F. E.—You should have an mination made of the sputum this will be done free of charge by the City Bacteriologist, sent in by a physician or a member of the City Health Department. The taking of cod liver oil is right and proper, and, when taken should start with a small dose, a teaspoonful after meals and gradually increased to a tablespoonful at a dose three times daily after meals.

PAINS.—The trouble you are having is not pleurisy, as pleurisy is a more acute inflamed condition of the lining of the lungs and walls of the chest. An attack of pleurisy often results in a roughing and thickening of these membranes and that is the condition now causing your trouble. Such a condition is best relieved by a systematic strapping with adhesive plaster over the site of the trouble, thus stopping the motion and friction and giving these tissues opportunity to heal. This to be done properly must be done by a physician, nurse or someone skilled in such work. Swelling of the hands and feet result usually from poor circulation of the blood and may be due to some trouble with the heart, kidneys, liver and the like.

RECIPES FROM "My Old Virginia Cook Book"

Icing — Boiled

TAKE the whites of 2 eggs, 1 cup of sugar and 2 tablespoonsful of water. Boil the sugar and water together until it ropes. Have the whites of eggs well beaten and pour over them, stirring constantly, the syrup, and cook about 10 minutes longer. Stir well. Then add 1 cup of nut meats, ½ cup of raisins (chopped a little), and one teaspoonful of vanilla. This icing is nice either for a filling or for an icing.

Must Sell to Cut-Rate Jobbers.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The Federal Trade Commission has ordered the Dwinell-Wright Co. of Boston, makers of more than 30 brands of coffee, to cease an effort to control prices to the retail trade through co-operative agreements with jobbers. The order forbids refusal to sell to jobbers who cut resale prices below those designated by the company.

CALLS HOOVER'S FLOOD CONTROL PLAN INADEQUATE

Mayor Thompson of Chicago Tells Governors a Conference on Subject Should Be Held.

LEVEE POLICY HIT BY EX-GOV. PINCHOT

Calls Army Engineers' Policy Most Colossal Blunder in History — Urges Building of Spillways.

By the Associated Press.

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., July 27.—Secretary of Commerce Hoover's plan of Mississippi Valley flood control as reported outlined to President Coolidge is inadequate and the problem itself is too big for one man to solve, Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago told the Governors' conference here last night.

Mayor Thompson, speaking as chairman of the Flood Control conference held in Chicago, appealed to the Governors for wholehearted support in working out an adequate and permanent method to control the waters of the Mississippi and expressed the hope that the problem never would become "any ambitious man's political football."

The Federal Government has spent more than $100,000,000 and the states much more in a futile attempt to control Mississippi floods, he said, and the failure to solve the problem, resulting in the devastating flood of 1927, he termed "a national humiliation."

President Coolidge and Federal agencies have done splendid relief work, he said.

Favors Flood Conference.

While the flood control conference has advocated immediate assumption by the Government of all responsibility for flood control, he urged the calling of a conference by the President after a survey of the flood problem in order that proper legislation may be recommended to Congress.

Discussing Hoover's plan as reported outlined to the President, Mayor Thompson said:

"Mr. Hoover fixes the cost of flood control at $150,000,000 to be expended over a 10-year period. There is nothing with these figures to indicate just how Mr. Hoover has arrived at this figure but there is a hint that in the Hoover plan we would continue to follow largely the same policy which the Government has for some years now been pursuing."

The Mississippi River Commission now has authority to spend $10,000,000 a year for flood control. Mayor Thompson said the addition of another $5,000,000 a year would mean only "a continuance of our present policy with a slightly larger increase in money."

Pinchot Assails Levee Policy.

The Mississippi river situation is the "greatest single conservation problem ever before any nation," Gifford Pinchot, former governor of Pennsylvania, told the conference.

"It is my honest conviction," he said, "that the levees-only policy of the Army engineers who have been working on this plan since 1879 is the most colossal blunder in history."

Pinchot addressed the governors after Gov. Martineau of Arkansas had outlined the river situation.

"The answer to that policy," Pinchot continued, "is the disastrous flood of this year. A solution of this enormous problem must include a continuance of levee construction, construction of spillways, but more important, stoppage of the flood menace at its source. To deal with the Mississippi only in its lower regions would be a fatal mistake.

Opposes Army Supervision.

"We must adopt a plan to reverse the present swift course of water from the clouds to the ocean, which has been brought about by the destruction of forests in the upper reaches of the river, by uphill plowing on farm lands which permits rapid drainage and by all other drainage projects which tend to accelerate the movement of water."

He said a probable effort in the next Congress to continue the solution of the problem under the Army Engineer Corps ought not to be permitted in the face of years of failure.

"Army engineers are not trained in hydraulic work and West Point graduates receive only a fraction of the engineering training received by graduates of other engineering colleges," he said.

State's Right Body Urged.

State's Right Body Urged.

A proposal that the Governors of the 48 states band themselves together into a permanent cohesive organization to combat the increasing grasp of the Federal Government in the affairs of the ordinary citiden was advanced today by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland.

"We talk and talk of state's rights, but what do we do to preserve them?" asked the Maryland Governor. "We do very little. We might as well admit it. Centralization of power in the hands of the few in Washington is one of the greatest issues before the American people today, and it is one that must sooner or later be met."

100 PASSENGERS CAN RIDE IN NEW ATLANTIC AIRSHIP

All-Metal Plane Under Construction in Germany for Use in Trans-Oceanic Service.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 27.—A huge all-metal flying boat, capable of remaining aloft for 19 hours with 100 passengers, is under construction at Friedrickshafen, Germany, by Dornier Metallbauten for a trans-Atlantic flight.

Driven by 12 motors developing 7000 horsepower, the airplane will be the largest ever built, even by the Dornier concern, which is noted as a builder of large sea-going aircraft. It will weigh 50 tons, fully loaded, and with cost about $250,000.

It is probable that the engine units will be mounted in a series of tandem pairs above the wing after the manner of the engines in the Dornier "Wal," a successful flying boat. Final decision on the make of engines to be used has not yet been made but it is possible that American motors may be installed, it is announced by Alfred Verville, American representative for Dornier.

Definite plans have been made to fly the plane across the Atlantic to America with a large number of passengers. To increase the fuel-carrying capacity of the ship, however, it is probable that only a part of the capacity passenger load will be taken. The flight is to be made over the southern route with a stop at the Azores.

One of Dornier's flying boats is to be used by Capt. F. T. Courtney of the English Royal Air Corps in his forthcoming attempt to cross the Atlantic. In another Dornier 68 passengers were taken aloft in a single flight recently as a demonstration of the carrying capacity of the plane.

MAINE GOVERNOR RETURNS CIVIL WAR FLAGS TO SOUTH

Tattered Standards Captured in Battles Restored at State Executives' Banquet.

By the Associated Press.

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., July 27.—Symbolic of the "New Brotherhood of American Commonwealths" was the gesture by which Gov. Ralph O. Brewster of Maine returned to the Southland six tattered battle flags once carried by the troops of six Confederate States of America.

Maine's trophy cabinets were stripped bare of such relics so that Gov. Brewster on his last night as chairman of the nineteenth annual Governors' conference might make the presentation at the annual banquet last night. Into the hands of Gov. John Richards of South Carolina he handed the brittle silk remnants, symbolic, he said, of the "great good feeling and co-operation growing among states."

Twenty-two Governors, representatives of four other states and 700 banquet guests were silent and eyes filled with tears when marines bore in the stars and bars of Dixie's lost cause.

There was the battle emblem of the Twenty-first South Carolina Volunteers, captured by the Maine Infantry at Morris Island, S. C.; the flag of the Thirty-third Virginia captured by the Nineteenth Maine Infantry at Spottsylvania, Va., and four other flags, taken by the Fifteenth Maine Volunteers at Fort Hemmes, Tex., the First Maine at Aldie, Va., the Fifth Maine at Rappahannock Station, Va., and another taken by the Fifteenth Maine in Texas.

BUILDING OF ROADS IN ALASKA HEADED BY U. S. ARMY OFFICER

Brigadier-General James G. Steese Supervises River and Harbor Work as Extra Duty.

By the Associated Press.

SEWARD, Alaska, July 27.—An officer who once commanded large bodies of men on the battlefields of France, shoving lines of transportation into the enemy's territory, now commands a large peace time army in which the rank and file are for the most part civilians.

He is Brigadier-General James Gordon Steese, who was knighted by each of the Allied nations in the World War. His mission is providing Alaska with roads and trails, as president of the Alaska Road Commission.

During the 16 years of its existence, the Alaska Road Commission has built an aggregate of 4890 miles, consisting of 1031 miles of wagon road, 636 miles of sled road and 3223 miles of trails.

Gen. Steese also has found time for river and harbor work, engineering dredging operations and at times managing the Alaska Railroad. He has been "loaned" to the Interior Department by the War Department.

Cabaret Dancing Renewed in Italy.

ROME, JULY 27.—Some months ago the Fascist newspapers announced in their largest type that public dancing in the cabarets of Italy had been abolished. Public entertainers might continue to dance for the amusement of guests taking refreshments, but such guests might not themselves take the floor. This meant the virtual suppression of cabarets and of "night life" in general. The reasons given were the indecorous nature of modern dancing, the moral peril to youth and the serious character of Fascism. Now, without a word about it in the newspapers, dancing has come back. Licenses are again being isued, quietly, for cabarets of the old type, and "night life," so far as the state of the lira permits, is again in full swing.

COUNTY BOND ISSUE COMMITTEES NAMED

Citizens to Study Manner in Which $10,000,000 Should Be Spent.

Committees to make preliminary studies of the manner in which the proposed $10,000,000 bond isue in St. Louis County should be spent were appointed yesterday at a luncheon of the County Chamber of Commerce at the American Hotel. The committees are to report to the general body Aug. 9.

Committees concerning roads, a county hospital, a new county jail, proposed county parks and an advisory committee were appointed.

The Advisory Committee is conceived to be the most important of all. Its purpose is to arrange with the St. Louis County Court a method enabling a citizens' committee to confer with the court concerning the use of the bond issue in the event that it is passed. This committee also will nominate the members of the permanent advisory committee which will advise and confer with the County Court.

View of Head of Chamber.

"The success of the bond issue will depend upon the personnel of the permanent advisory committee" Joseph R. Matthews, president of the County Chamber of Commerce, who presided, declared.

Much interest also was shown in the work of the Hospital Committee, which will decide upon a site for a hospital's erection and the method of financing such an institution. A letter from Dr. A. E. Walters, County Health Commissioner, was read, which said in part: "We have had our eyes on a pieces of land about a stone's throw from the courthouse comprising 28 acres, which can be obtained under certain conditions at no cost. It is valued at $50,000. We know of a Protestant institution which has $1,000,000 to expend for a hospital and which is willing to make an arrangement concerning its construction and operation with the county."

A tentative apportionment has been made of the proposed bond issue as follows: Roads, $7,500,000; hospital, $1,500,000; parks, $500,000; jail, $500,000. While the last sum seams unusually large for a jail to meet county requirements, this building also will contain, according to Matthews, "offices for county officials." It was pointed out that the construction of such a building would be tantamount to building a new Courthouse, a proposition defeated at the last county bond issue election, and which many think would jeopardize the passage of the present proposed issue. Matthews, however, declared the building would not be a new Courthouse since the actual courtrooms would remain in the present structure.

Public Meetings Planned.

The committees are to hold public meetings in the offices of the Chamber of Commerce at Clayton for the next two weeks. Anyone interested is invited to attend. After Aug. 9, all questions concerning the proposed bond issue will be handled by a general committee yet to be appointed.

The bond issue election probably will be held in November, but this will not be definitely decided until the State Supreme Court passes on the validity of the county registration law of 1925.

Membership of the committees appointed yesterday follow: Roads, Ted Reichardt, Walter Wehrle, W. A. Rowe, R. P. Sargent, E. G. Curtis, Fred Vesper and August Trampe; Hospital, Dr. Phillips Davis, Dr. A. E. Walters, Dr. W. F. O'Malley, Dr. L. A. Will, Mrs. Thomas Durning, Mrs. Fred Stark, Mrs. Jasper Blackburn and B. Cordell Stephens; Jail, Edward Beecher; F. J. Hollocher, J. E. Meyer and J. R. Thursby; Parks, John E. Eggers and Albert Greensfelder; Advisory Committee, Mayor Eugene Ruth of University City, Edward Beecher, Ralph Bixby, George Pickles, A. F. L. Schmidt, D. C. Kerckhoff and Samuel D. Capen.

IRISH FREE STATE FORMALLY GREETS FIRST U. S. ENVOY

Minister Frederick A. Sterling Is Installed in Post in Dublin With Full Ceremonial.

CROWD ATTENDS PUBLIC WELCOME

Diplomat in Presenting His Credentials, Remarks on Happy Relations Between Countries.

By the Associated Press.

DUBLIN, July 27.—Frederick A. Sterling was formally installed today as the first United States Minister to the Irish Free State.

The installation was carried out with full ceremonial. The Minister's progress from the United States Consulate to the Vice Regal Lodge in Phoenix Park, accompanied by a troop of cavalry, was marked by enthusiastic greetings from the large crowd.

President Cosgrave, as external Minister, received the American envoy and introduced him to Governor-General Timothy Healy.

Sterling handed his credentials to the Governor-General with a speech in which he expressed gratification at his appointment as Minister and emphasized the happy relations existing between the two countries. Healy placed the letter of credence in the hands of President Cosgrave with an appropriate speech. Sterling then drove to the United States legation at the under Secretary's lodge.

Calls on President.

The new Minister made a formal call on President Cosgrave this afternoon, and later was received by the Free State Council.

In the course of his address to Governor-General Healy, the American Minister said:

"This new and important mission marks a happy development in the relations of two countries already bound closely together by ties of sympathy and kinship.

"I am proud to be the first American Minister to Dublin. I am also proud to reside in the land which has sent so many of her sons to my country where, in every walk of life, they have achieved distinction and have contributed to our advancement."

Sterling added that he would do everything in his power to strengthen still further the cordial relationship which has existed so long.

Address of Governor-General.

Governor-General Healy, in addressing the American Minister, said that the sending of Sterling to Dublin was taken "as a happy indication of the intention of your Government to promote the fostering by every means the close bonds of sympathy and kinship already uniting our two countries.

"We rejoice at the ever-growing prosperity of the United States and other great work in the cause of universal peace. We rejoice also in the share which has been taken by men and women of Irish blood in building up your nation, and we can never forget the close interests and sympathy with which the American people for many years have followed every phase of our history."

Sterling was born in St. Louis and studied law at Washington University there.

Eamon De Valera has received numerous threatening letters since the assassination of Vice-President O'Higgins, and the Irish Free State authorities have placed him under police protection, it was learned today.

A plainclothes man accompanies the Republican leader everywhere. Other Republican leaders also received threatening letters.

Cosgrave Says U. S. Has Recognized Ireland's Status Among Nations.

Copyright, 1927, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

DUBLIN, July 27.—President William T. Cosgrave of the Irish Free State in conversation with the correspondent re-emphasized the significance of Frederick A. Stirling's entrance into office as the first American Minister to Dublin.

President Coolidge's act in appointing a Minister to the Irish Free State," President Cosgrave said, "is not merely the adding of another stone to the great edifice of world peace and mutual understanding which he and his illustrious predecessors have built with such pride and care. It is a formal acknowledgement of a bond more than two centuries old which has joined our two peoples in kinship and close friendship. It is a full recognition of our co-equal status within the group to which we belong, as well as within the general community of nations.

"We are proud to receive such recognition from the American people."

Irish Laborites Leave Chamber When Safety Bill Is Read.

By the Associated Press.

DUBLIN, Ireland, July 27.—The Free State Government's drastic public safety bill introduced by President Cosgrave as an aftermath of the assassination of Vice President Kevin O'Higgins, was given a second reading in the Dail today by a vote of 60 to 11, the Labor party being absent.

The Laborites left the chamber during the afternoon after a heated scene that took place while debate on the measure was in progress.

President Cosgrave's positive declaration before the Dail Eirean yesterday fixing the responsibility for the murder of O'Higgins on the extreme wing of the irregular army, made sure the passage of his drastic public safety act. Some members, believing the murder was due to private vengeance had heistated to accord the Government the exceptional powers the new measure provides for. Particular objection was taken to empowering the police to search for documents, imprisonment for the possession of seditious documents and deportation of suspicious persons.

The possession of arms under the new bill is punishable by the death penalty.

MOVIE-MICROSCOPE RECORDS GROWTH OF MINUTE BACTERIA

Enlarges Photographs of Germs 3.25000 of an Inch Wide to Size of Sausage.

By the Associated Press.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 27.—The motion picture camera and the microscope got together here today to disclose to man the performance of a troupe of bacteria whose stage might have been the head of a pin.

The plot dealt with the growth of disease germs and other microscopic organisms, but man's devices lent speed to nature's process, showing on the screen in three minutes a development of life forms that actually requires 44 hours.

The motion pictures were produced by an apparatus perfected by Dr. Stanhope Bayne-Jones of the Department of Bacteriology of the University of Rochester's School of Medicine, and Clifton M. Tuttle of the Eastman Kodak Co.'s research laboratory after three years of experimentation.

Pictures were shown of germs which are only 1-25,000 of an inch wide and 3-25,000 of an inch long. Magnified on the screen to 2000 times their natural size, they were in appearance not unlike animated sausages.

UNION CITY, N. J., July 27.—Because his trans-Atlantic flight was "solely for commercial and scientific purposes," Clarence D. Chamberlin expressed himself as unwilling to join any of the nation's reserve forces in order to qualify for the Distinguished Flying Cross, which President Coolidge said would be awarded if possible.

MILAN, Italy, July 27.—The Catholic clergy of Lombardy will be instructed not to frequent the beaches or public spectacles without special permission. A collective pastoral letter to this effect has been decided on by the Bishops of Lombardy, meeting here under the presidency of the Archbishop of Milan. The letter also will erhort the faithful to dress modestly at summer resorts and beaches.

PROPOSES TREATY TO ABOLISH WAR AMONG PACIFIC NATIONS

American's Draft Containing Exception in Behalf of Monroe Doctrine Opposed by Japanese.

By the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, July 27.—The draft of a proposed treaty to abolish war among the nations of the Pacific was before the Institute of Pacific Relations here today, having been presented by an American delegate, Prof. James T. Shotwell, of the History Department of Columbia University.

Divergent views as to the applicability of the proposed "American Locarno" to the nations involved were expressed by the delegates, particularly those from Japan. Prof. Kenzo Takayaagi, head of the Japanese delegation, announced a clause in the proposed Shotwell treaty containing an exception in behalf of the Monroe Doctrine would not be acceptable to his country. The Japanese spokesman maintained the Monroe Doctrine was contrary to international law.

Dr. Stanley K. Hornbeck of Harvard University declared there was little chance of war between Japan and the United States short of "a brainstorm on the part of both Governments."

Prof. Shotwell explained the purposes of his treaty at length, declaring he believed it applicable to the Pacific since he had Japan in mind when he drew it up. He cited Poland and Germany as examples of nations which had abandoned war as a policy.

BARS COMMERCIALIZING NAME OF FASCIST PARTY

Mussolini Orders Seizure of All Funds Collected in That Manner.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, July 27.—"Thou shalt not use the name of the Fascist Government or party in vain." Premier Mussolini commanded yesterday in a circular to prefects.

The circular orders the immediate cessation of public and private subscriptions, invoking the name of the party or of the Government. The Duce declares that funds gathered in this fashion, must be seized, pending an inquiry.

The use of the name of the Government or of the party in inducing patronage for newspapers, books and other publications, as well as in bringing pressure of any other kind to bear upon the public, also must cease immediately.

REPORT HERRICK RECOVERING

Resting "Fairly Comfortably" After Second Operation.

CLEVELAND, O., July 27.—Myron T. Herrick, United States Ambassador to France, who underwent a major operation at Cleveland Clinic Hospital yesterday, was reported recovering today. While he was suffering considerable pain, physicians said that he rested "fairly comfortably." It will be several days before he is completely out of danger.

The operation was the Ambassador's second in 10 days. It was for the correction of an internal disorder that had troubled Herrick for some time. The first operation, minor in character, was a preliminary to the second.

To Cut Coal Carrying Rate.

By the Associated Press.

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., July 27.—The Chesepeake & Ohio, Norfolk and Western and Louisville & Nashville railroads will file rate reductions of 20 cents a ton on lake cargo coal with the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Pocahontas Operators' Association announced yesterday. Should the reductions be approved they will become effective Aug. 28. This would practically cancel the advantage which the central competitive field gained when the Interstate Commerce Commission recently ordered railroads serving that territory to reduce their rates 20 cents a ton. The reductions will affect southern West Virginia, Tennessee, Virginia and Kentucky.

FUND TO AID INDUSTRY NEARLY COMPLETED

Industrial Club Leaders Expect $1,000,000 Goal to Be Passed.

Prospects are good for the newly-formed Industrial Club starting work this fall with its desired $1,000,000 fund completed for the development of the St. Louis industrial district, although the club has made no announcement and is continuing its campaign among industrial groups for contributions to the fund.

Charles Rebstock, a director of the National Bank of Commerce, gave the campaign to raise the $1,000,000 fund its initial impetus last April by subscribing $50,000. Since then members of the club have gone quietly but effectively about the business of carrying the campaign over the goal.

With some of the most active members of the club out of the city, the campaign has slowed down somewhat for the summer, but a final spurt of activity to amass a heavy "war chest" is anticipated before the club starts work in earnest on its four-year industrial promotion program. Thomas N. Dysart, president of the club, is away on vacation until Aug. 15.

To Form Industrial Bureau.

By early autumn, the club also probably will have selected a director and operating staff for its projected Industrial Bureau. The bureau will be under supervision of an advisory committee of six from the membership of the club.

The first step planned by the club is an industrial survey of St. Louis and its environs. This will pave the way for specific proposals to industrialists.

The formation of the Industrial Club has attracted attention in the Southwest. While the club is formed primarily for he benefit of St. Louis, directors of the organization said no opportunity would be overlooked to develop the territory tributary to the city, including the Southwest.

Springfield, Mo., has turned an eye on the club in hope that it will bring Eastern capital into the Southwest.

"The East, the Northwest and much of the Southeast," say an editorial in the "Springfield Leader," "have been boomed to the limit. Those sections are overdone and overdeveloped. The Southwest, on the contrary, never has come into its own.

Capital Needed to Advance.

"It has lacked capital to push ahead. This could not last always. A section with resources so vast must come in for greater things. Capital is turned in this direction, the Southwest is understood and appreciated. It is considered a good risk by great financial interests which at one time could see little in this section. Conditions are changing and this should become evident more and more as time goes on."

The proposed scope of the club includes administration of the municipal advertising campaign heretofore jointly financed by the City and business interests.

The Industrial Club will enlist the energies of the younger men of St. Louis. A membership plan has been devised so that a preponderance of young men, with older men to guide them, will decide the destinies of the club if it will work in close co-operation with the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations interested in the development of the St. Louis industrial district.

GENERAL MOTORS PROFIT SETS MARK AT $129,250,207

Corporation Takes Undisputed Lead in World's Industries, Report for First Half of 1927 Shows.

GAIN $27,550,253 OVER LAST YEAR

Rumor of Combine With U. S. Steel Current, With Pierre Du Pont as Gary's Successor.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 27.—The General Motors Corporation, reporting record-breaking net earnings of $129,250,207 for the first half of 1927, an increase of $27,550,253 over the corresponding period of last year, has assumed undisputed leadership among industrial and railroad corporations of the world. The United States Steel Corporation, its nearest competitor, reported total earnings of $91,025,185 in the first six months, as against $92,875,390 in the same period of last year.

General Motors earnings in the first half of 1927, which include equities in undivided profits of subsidiary corporations not consolidated, were equivalent to $14.35 a share on 8,700,000 shares of common stock, outstanding on June 30, compared with $11.56 a share for the same period of 1926.

With the exception of the stupendous war-time profits of the United States Steel Corporation in 1916 and 1917, the current earnings of General Motors have never been surpassed. In 1916, U. S. Steel reported full year's earnings of $293,009,615, while 1927 earnings of General Motors, if the last half equals the first, will exceed $258,000,000.

Sensational Earnings Anticipated.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors, reported current business as satisfactory and stated both sales and earnings for the first six months exceeded those of any half year period. Quarterly earnings established a similar record.

The sensational eanings of the corporation were anticipated by General Motors common stock, which advanced more than 5 points to $225 a share.

A direct community of interest between the United States Steel and General Motors was visioned as a possibility by New York newspaper commentators.

The E. I. Du Pont de Nemours interests, already dominant in General Motors, are reported in Wall Street circles to have been quietly buying heavily of United States Steel common, their holdings acquired in the past few weeks alone being estimated at about 114,000 shares.

Du Pont's Next Move.

The Du Ponts, as their next move, it is understood by financial commentators, will seek representation on the Steel Corporation's board of directors.

Pierre du Pont, chairman of the General Motors board, is mentioned as the most probable representative on the Steel Corporation's directorate from the Du Pont interests. If Du Pont is seated as a director of United States Steel, rumors are that he will be elected chairman of the Steel Corporation's board on the retirement of Elbert H. Gary.

Other Wall Street rumors have Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors, leaving his present berth to take a post with the Steel Corporation, to put himself in training to succeed Gary. In the event that Sloan leaves General Motors, some financial writers suggest Walter P. Chrysler will become the executive head of the General Motors organization.

Earned $5.60 Per Share.

Directors of the United States Steel Corporation declared the regular quarterly dividends of $1.75 a share each on the common and preferred stocks. General Motors directors were not scheduled to take dividend action.

Earnings of U. S. Steel in the first six months of 1927 were equivalent to $5.60 a share on 7,116,235 shares of common stock, against $3.98 a share on 5,083,025 shares outstanding at the close of the first half of 1926, the increase being due to the recent 40 per cent stock dividend.

Gary, who had been confined to his home with illness for about a week, did not attend the meeting, one of the few which he has missed in the last quarter of a century. He is reported improving, however, and is expected back at his desk next week.

American to Quit Persian Post.

TEHERAN, Persia, July 27.—After having served as administrator general of Persian finances since 1922, Arthur C. Millspaugh has rejected a further term of five years and is likely to leave shortly for the United States. His rejection of the government's new offer was because of the clauses [illegible] unacceptable.

Brutality.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

SUNDAY a Negro woman, Elvira Toller, died of bullet wounds inflicted by a policeman. The offense consisted in beating the officer with his club. To me it savors of brutal law enforcement when a woman armed with only a stick is shot down by a man armed with an automatic revolver.

Delilah and Others.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A LETTER signed "A Woman" in your issue of July 24 says there were no woman spies. History tells us women were giving information to both sides during our Civil War as well as the wars before and after. And we all know the story of Samson and Delilah. Recently a New York woman had her husband killed with a sash weight. We hear of many cases where women show their gratitude by running off with their husbands' hard-earned savings. Can the kettle call the pot black?

A MAN.

A Disillusioned Property-Owner.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

EVERYWHERE you read: "Buy your own home," "Don't pay rent," etc. Well, I bought a home, paying my notes promptly. After living in it for a year, I find the cement in cellar cracked, brick work giving way, roof leaking, furnace smoking, smoke coming up through registers in rooms. Steps leading to basement collapsed with my wife on steps. "Own your own home" is all the bunk. Are there no city inspectors to look at these buildings before people get bunkoed into buying them? The entire row of bungalows of which my house is one is sinking and should be condemned. Can a contractor get by with such houses as this?

I-OWN-A-HOME.

Oil Burners.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IF, in the course of time, the use of oil burners becomes general, there is grave danger they will be more of a nuisance than the present use of soft coal.

The large hotel at the corner of Euclid and West Pine uses oil burners, with the result that the neighborhood for two blocks around suffers from a very offensive smell of burning oil every time they fire up. Some of the housewives within this vicinity complain that their windows have a coating of oil scum. This situation increased by thousands is going to prove more detrimental than soft coal. The oil burner people will probably be in for legislative regulation unless this situation is corrected.

LACLEDE AVENUE.

The Last Man's Glass of Wine.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

ONE member of a "Last Man Club" composed of veterans of the Civil War drinks a little wine in accord with an agreement of the club. Immediately one of the regional overlords of the Anti-Saloon League foresees red ruin or words to that effect. According to this supreme judge of right and wrong, those who defended their country should obey its laws.

The lone imbiber, who by this time is thoroughly damned in the eyes of all right-thinking people, did not violate any law. The wine in question was bought years before any one could think and say that a drink of wine is treason. As a veteran of the last war, I suggest that some of our various defense societies tackle the weighty problem of dry leagues, whose only equipment is bad taste, a yen for publicity and ignorance of even the wording of the saintly Eighteenth Amendment.

MADAME VAN BLANK.

Nicaragua and the Red Epidemic.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IT certainly is very amusing to read the letters of Jeff Mackay about "bolshevik epidemic" and anti-American propaganda in Latin-America.

I would like to ask him what proves the existence of a "bolshevik epidemic" in those countries.

Are the Nicaraguans influenced by the bolshevists because they don't want their country governed by the profit-hungry American capitalists? Is it a bolshevik epidemic when a small nation wants independence?

America should have no right whatever to do what it does now in Nicaragua even if they elected a devil for their president. Mr. Mackay likes to use big words and he seems to think his opinions are the holy and undisputed truth.

But he should remember that what an American capitalist calls a bolshevik epidemic may be the just protest of a helpless little nation trampled down and bullied by the government of the mightiest country in the world for the interests of profit-hungry American bankers.

JESSE HOUSER.

A NEW CARIBBEAN POLICY.

That our Caribbean policy has both outlived its usefulness and become an actual menace to our relations with Latin-America can no longer be doubted. In all the criticism of what happened in Nicaragua last week, there has been no disposition anywhere to criticise the marines. They have been dispatched to the mountains of Northern Nicaragua to hunt down Gen. Sandino's army, and this is what they are doing.

Nevertheless, the United States cannot afford to kill 300 Nicaraguans in defense of the slight business interests held in that country by American bankers and lumbermen. By so doing it convicts itself, as the Springfield (Mass.) Republican points out, of naked imperialism. It undoes every work that has been done to win the friendship of Latin America. It moreover closes to itself, by reason of fear of its designs and resentment of its brutal treatment of the natives, a market which it cannot well do without.

The Post-Dispatch is publishing today more press opinions of the Ocotal massacre. Like those which have been printed on other days, they reflect the deep disagreement of the press with our present Caribbean policy. There is scarcely a reputable publication in the country, or one that has an opinion beyond blind subserviency to the Coolidge administration, that does not disagree with the way in which we are conducting our affairs in the Caribbean states. Aside from its bad morals, they all fear, as the New York Times does, the effect upon Latin America.

Our Caribbean policy, in a word, is unpopular with the country. The country does not sanction all the things we are doing to promote American interests in the Caribbean. It disagrees that dollar diplomacy, in which the armed forces of the United States follow any and every financial adventure into the tropics, is a sound or politic public policy. The Post-Dispatch is convinced that it is not. It has disagreed with our Caribbean policy from the outset. Nor has its disagreement excepted the acts of Democratic administrations. It was in our opinion as wrong for us to kill the people of Haiti and San Domingo when Mr. Wilson was in the White House as it is now for us to kill the Nicaraguans when Mr. Coolidge is President. The thing has gone to a point where something must be done about it. Popular feeling in Nicaragua is plainly against us. The only reason why there is not a general uprising against the 1200 marines left in the country is that the people have no arms. They will, however, organize another army. It will be the same sort of army that attacked the marines at Ocotal, and the consequences will likely be even more terrible.

Before this happens, why not change our Caribbean policy? There is a way to do it. The Post-Dispatch has suggested it several times. If Nicaragua refuses to maintain a stable government, if the rights of foreign countries are imperiled by revolution, and we are obligated by the Monroe Doctrine to protect not only our own business ventures but those of Europe as well, why not ask the rest of Latin America to join with us in doing it? If we went to the Pan-American Union and proposed that policing the incorrigible states on the Caribbean become the duty of the union, as much the obligation of Argentina and Brazil as it is our own, does anyone doubt that the Latin American countries would welcome such an about-face upon our part and gladly co-operate with us?

The Post-Dispatch has no doubt of it. It believes that if Mr. Coolidge consulted in his own party such judicial minds as those of Elihu Root and Charles E. Hughes, both of whom made good-will tours of Latin America and must be in distress over the way things are going, they would unhesitatingly advise him to abandon the course we are so stubbornly pursuing. Mr. Coolidge has said that we have no imperialistic designs in the Caribbean. This we feel to be true, but the things we are doing cannot be calculated to convince Latin America that this is the case. We are playing too much of a lone hand in what is at bottom a very good cause. There is no reason why we should do that. We can avoid the necessity by asking the Latin Americans to join hands with us.

PUBLIC OPINION 1, BRENTWOOD 0.

Brentwood, smarting under public criticism of the methods of its law officers, has decided to turn over a new leaf. All of its 16 deputy marshals, including the notorious William Skow, are ordered by the town's Board of Trustees to turn in their badges. They will be replaced by two policemen, one to be on duty during the day and the other during the night, these officers to be paid salaries. But this is not all. While the trustees were at it, they determined to make a clean sweep of the old way of doing things by abolishing the fee system, whereby the whole caboodle, from Police Judge down, share in the costs assessed against motorists who violate Brentwood's peculiar traffic code.

In congratulating Brentwood for making these overtures, we must also felicitate public opinion for working its will on the trustees. Public opinion has been smoldering for a long time on the subject of Brentwood and the plug-uglies who cruise its highways and byways preying on motorists, but it became electric when William Skow chased a group of speeding university students clear into St. Louis and fired several shots into their car, one of them wounding seriously Austin W. Kaercher. And when a complacent jury let Skow off with a fine of $100, indignation rose to new heights.

Brentwood, we believe, has felt keenly the contumely in which it is held. It could hold out no longer. It approaches now with olive branches. If Brentwood is a small laboratory for the testing of public opinion, it is nevertheless a complete one. Now let's see what public opinion can do on the Nicaragua front.

LAY OFF McLEAN!

Association with Ned McLean of Washington seems to be fatal to one's amateur standing. Young Mr. Voigt, for example. A mediocre golfer, with occasional flashes of brilliancy, he never achieved his form until he became Ned McLean's secretary. After that there was no word for it but conquest. Voigt swept through tournaments like a meteor, and, in the judgment of Hagen, which is praise from Sir Hubert, was as good as the best.

Then suspicion focused on Secretary Voigt. This secretaryship is the bunk, was whispered. Voigt is McLean's personal golf instructor, exclusive tutor, roared suspicion, which roar has been translated into a formal decree by the District of Columbia Golf Association. In short, a golf professional whose amateur standing is prone, unconscious and in an advanced stage of decomposition.

There is another case—that of Albert B. Fall. You remember Al. He was never McLean's secretary. He was Mr. Harding's Secretary of the Interior. But he got to know McLean. They were pals. Previous to that camaraderie Albert B. Fall had no particular reputation as a grafter, but when his friendship with McLean was read into the records Fall's amateur standing as a collector was ruined and he emerged from Doheny's little black satchel a full blown professional crook.

Moral: If you want to preserve your amateur standing, lay off McLean!

HORSE-RACING IN MISSOURI.

It is too bad that horse-racing must return to the State through the back door. Its passport is a ruling from the Missouri Supreme Court that the certificate system of horse-racing betting (a mere adaptation of the pari-mutuel system) does not violate any existing statute, and particularly does not violate the 1905 law against booking and pooling of bets. Thus we will soon have the anomalous situation whereby one may bet freely at race tracks but may not bet on the same races at a bookmaking shop in town.

Several attempts have been made to get the Legislature to pass a law permitting horse-racing, but they have all failed because we in America prefer to deal with such things in a back-handed manner. The Legislature refuses to take positive steps toward the establishment and regulation of horse-racing because it is afraid of offending voters, but it is for racing negatively by not expressly forbidding it by statute.

Already the promoters are stirred to frenzied activity. It is rumored that St. Louis County will have three plants, and that others will be built throughout the State. As in the case of the dog track at Ramona Park, these plants will be without any regulation or supervision whatsoever. They will be able to deduct any amount from money wagered that the traffic will bear, and add to this a liberal amount in the form of "breakage," or odd pennies left over after the computation of the odds.

Illinois, after a few seasons of unregulated racing, finally has legalized horse-race betting and made provisions to protect the public. Under the new Illinois law, all jockey clubs are answerable to the State and must pay appropriate license fees. "Breakage" is abolished and bettors must be paid to the exact penny. Likewise, the jockey clubs' take-out is limited to a fixed percentage. After Missouri's unfortunate experience with horse-racing a quarter of a century ago, it should know better than to permit wildcat promoters to run the game, with no regulation whatsoever.

We hope the next Missouri Legislature will be manly enough to follow Illinois' example in legalizing and governing the tracks that will exist here by the time it meets, instead of burying its head in the sand.

BAD NEWS FOR NORDIC BLONDS.

The defenders of the theory of Nordic blond superiority will get anything but satisfaction from the report of living conditions in various districts of St. Louis, which has been compiled by the Community Council and the City Health Division. According to this, the district which excels all the others for "human well-being" is that which includes "Dago Hill." Judged by freedom from communicable disease, insanitary conditions, demand on free or part pay hospital care, dependency and delinquency, this district is superior to every other from Baden to Carondelet and from the county to the river.

We are wondering how the Nordics will react to this bombshell. It will, we fear, jar their self-assurance considerably. For some years they have been having things so much their own way that they have got it into their heads that their ethnic superiority was genuine, and that they were, therefore, getting only what they deserved by natural right. Thus they could, with a sublime assurance of moral justification, write a clause into the immigration law of 1924 which favors Nordics as against Mediterranean peoples. By such legislation, the Nordic blond fans assured us, the United States would be vastly uplifted in all those ways which contribute to national well-being.

Now, without warning, an investigation of the living conditions in one American city discloses that these despised Mediterraneans are not inferior, in these same ways, to the chosen peoples of Northern Europe. It is bad news for the professional Nordic blonds, and we extend to them our sincere commiseration.

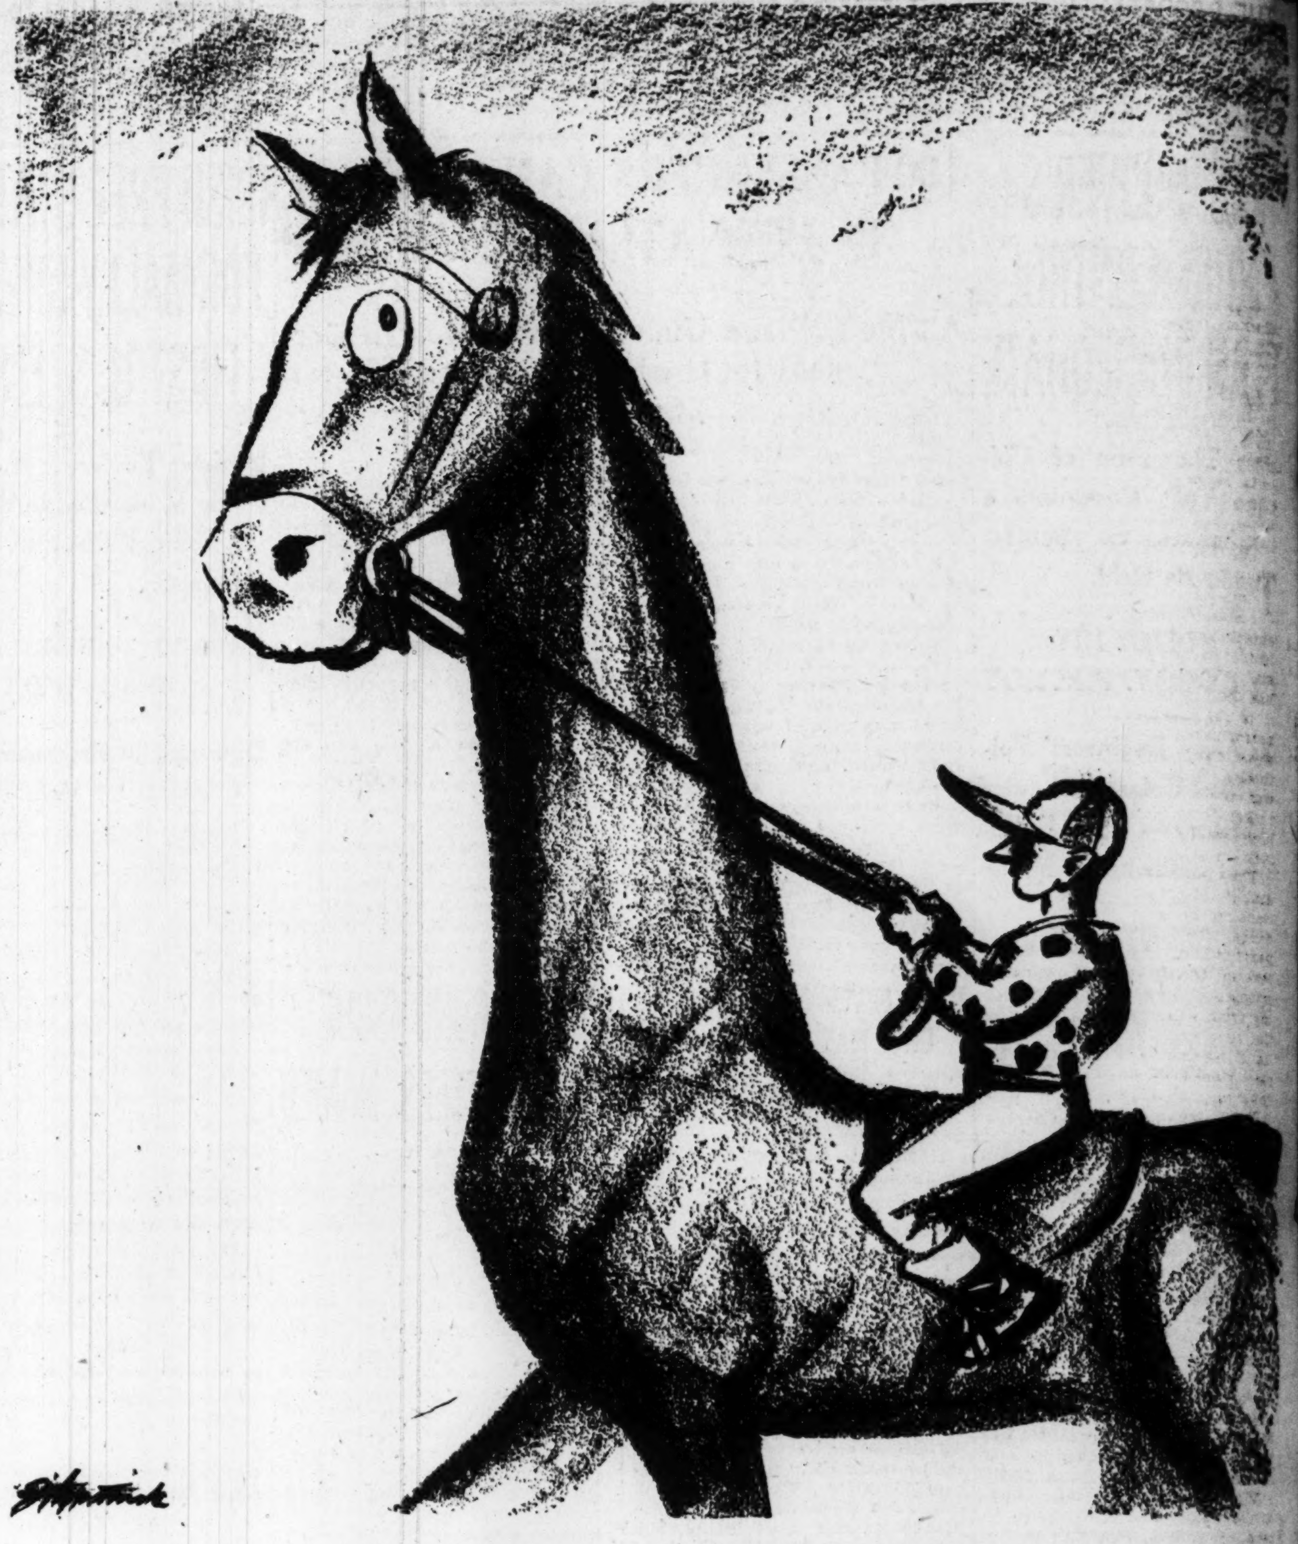
Gen. (Butcher) Weyler, whose atrocities in Cuba caused the Spanish-American War, is still living in Spain at an age of eighty-something-or-other. However, he will speedily die of envy when he learns that in the battle of Ocotal one of our bombing planes killed 28 bare-feet with a single bomb.

HOW TO SAVE THE PRESS.

The papers of the United States have been extraordinarily generous to Mr. Coolidge. Generous is hardly the word. Subservient were better. Rarely does an expression of serious criticism appear. Oh, a mild demurrer may now and then creep into the leaded type, a gentle remonstrance delicately phrased, but in all matters of pith and moment King Calvin can do no wrong. Such is the lowly status of the American press today, as appraised in an article in the Atlantic Monthly, which the Post-Dispatch reprinted on Tuesday.

What is to be done about it? Can a Medea be found to gather "the enchanted herbs" which will renew the critical faculties of the press that are being atrophied by the poison of commercialism? Can the press be redeemed, regenerated and reinvigorated into the alert, fearless and uncalculating instrumentality it once was? Can the American press recover its soul?

Perhaps not. But it can be jolted into action. How? By merely electing a Democratic President. Put a Democrat in the White House and this Lotus Land of tranquillity where it is always afternoon will become a terrain of trouble. As the Rev. Billy Sunday would put it, "Hell will pop." We know what Wilson got. Many of us remember what Grover Cleveland got. That is what any Democratic President would get. Flying bricks again, rhetorical bombs bursting in air, a wailing and wagging of tongues in every counting-room edited journal in the land. It might not be magnificent, but it would be a kind of war, and it would be relief from the dull servitude to the Washington administration which marks the fat, toady press of 1927.



"CONTRIBUTION" PASSES THE JUDGES.

MORE ECHOES OF OCOTAL.

GET OUT OF NICARAGUA.

From the St. Joseph News-Press.

ADMITTING that any measure of relief to save the handful of American marines who were marked as the victims of Sandino's army was justifiable as a measure of relief from a dire emergency, it was nevertheless unwelcome news that came from Nicaragua when the incident was related in the dispatches.

Incidentally some 300 Nicaraguans were killed and no one knows how many maimed by American bullets. Most of these Nicaraguans were killed in bunches by machine gun bullets pumped into them by American aviators who flew over the Nicaraguan troops. Americans raised quite a protest when the French butchered the Riffians who were fighting for independence in Morocco. French flyers killed the Riffs in great numbers, and America thought it was most unfair, for the Riffs had not even a gambler's chance. Now the American aviators are playing the same game against the Nicaraguans who are fighting quite as hopelessly as were the Riffs for what they deem their right to self-government.

This meddling with Latin-American affairs is sorry business, and full of grief and shame. It is easy enough to crush opposition in Nicaragua. We could destroy the entire population from the air as easily as we destroyed Sandino's men. But what good would that do? And the entire world would hate us for ages to come. In whatever course we pursue we alienate Latin-America and place ourselves in a lamentably disadvantageous light. Neither Diaz nor the American interests favored by him, and which, in turn, favor him, are worth the trouble they are giving. Let's get out as soon as possible. And then let's stay out.

SANDINO AND THE MARINES.

From the New Republic.

THE more we learn about the battle in Nicaragua, the worse it looks. The number of dead among the forces of the Nicaraguan Liberal General, Sandino, is officially estimated at 200 to 300, with many more wounded; the casualties among the Americans consist in one Marine killed, and another wounded. Most of the slaughter of the Liberals was done by five bombing planes against which the Liberals, whose heaviest artillery consisted of four machine guns, were all but helpless. The force sent against them is described as a joint expedition of the Nicaraguan Conservatives and the U. S. Marines; but it is a safe assumption that most of the casualties were inflicted by the American forces.

It is true that Sandino had received ample warning of the coming attack, and it is apparently true that he precipitated the conflict by his own aggression. He was the only leader of the Liberals who refused to yield up his arms after the intervention of Colonel Henry L. Stimson, two months ago. At that time it was announced that those who did not surrender would be disarmed by force; and Sandino not only declined to give up, but subsequently aggravated his offense by seizing an American-owned gold mine. The American military commander could not overlook such a defiance, and naturally used the most effective weapons he had, with the terrible results indicated.

The incident is not a reproach to him, but to the United States government, for interfering by force of arms in the internal politics of a supposedly independent country. What we are doing now is, on the whole, preferable to our previous action when we permitted the war to go on, but refused to permit a Liberal victory. It is easy to foresee, however, the articles which will now appear throughout the Latin-American press. An American-owned gold mine in Nicaragua is seized by a native patriot; whereupon American aeroplanes rain down death from the sky upon two hundred of his soldiers. And still we wonder at the wave of suspicion and resentment of the United States which has swept through the Latin-American republics!

MURDERING THE NICARAGUANS.

From the Nation.

MURDER is the fit word to describe the action of the United States marines in Nicaragua. The United States created the anarchy which it is now attempting to suppress. When the Liberals had substantially reconquered the country American marines retook it for the Conservatives, and today they are doing police work for a government which would collapse in sixty seconds if the American forces retired. When President Coolidge's personal envoy, Henry L. Stimson, threatened forcibly to disarm the Liberal troops in May, one Nicaraguan General, Sandino, retired to the hills and kept up the fight. Undoubtedly he has maintained himself by preying on the country; undoubtedly, too, he has the sympathy of the vast majority of his countrymen. And a General who, at the head of 500 barefoot Nicaraguans, defies the United States commands our respect. General Sandino even attacked an outpost of United States marines at Ocotal. Heavily outnumbered, but better armed and trained, the marines put up a brilliant resistance. They might, however, have lost but for the arrival of five American bombing planes which swept Sandino's ranks with machine guns—4000 rounds—and dropped twenty-seven bombs. They left 300 dead Nicaraguans (some, apparently, civilians) for the vultures to feed on, and no one knows how many wounded. The Americans lost one killed and two seriously wounded. And when William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, protested to Secretary Kellogg, that official replied that Sandino's men were "outlaws." What law excuses the presence of American marines on Nicaraguan battlefields or of American bombing planes for mass murder?

THE GOODMAN PLAYERS PRESENT "THE RIVALS"

Sheridan's Old Comedy Marks Final Week of Season at Garden Theater.

"THE RIVALS," by Richard Brinsley Sheridan, produced by the Goodman Players at the Garden Theater with the following cast:

Sir Anthony Absolute	Roman Bohnen
Captain Absolute	Jack Daniels
Faulkland	Neal Caldwell
Acres	Iden Payne
Sir Lucius O'Trigger	Whitford Kane
Fag	Hubbard Kirkpatrick
David	Art Smith
Coachman	Russell Spindler
Mrs. Malaprop	Alma Randall
Lydia Languish	Eula Guy
Julia	Ellen Root
Lucy	Bernard Ostertag
Maid	Helen Ouse

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN

THE Garden Theater's season of classic repertory is being closed this week with a presentation of Richard Brinsley Sheridan's hardy perennial "The Rivals." Though not a great play it has had great performances and it is regrettable that last night's performance, which began the week, can not be listed as one of those. But for the most part it was put through by main force rather than by the pressure of a high spirited and sustained attack.

The judicious casting which usually characterizes the productions of this group, was not in evidence. Several of the players had parts which didn't fit them and several of those who were not misplaced were evidently suffering from a lack of familiarity with the text and spirit of their roles. As a result the movement of the play was always a little off the rhythm.

Yet it was not an awkward nor an ugly performance and the greater part of the audience seemed pleased enough. Ordinary competence and brilliant costuming can go a long way.

But even if "The Rivals" had been as brilliantly executed as possible I believe I should have found it a little tedious. Nor am I thinking of the elementary humor involved in the character of Mrs. Malaprop. Although her verbal solecisms constitute the lowest of low comedy, respectable audiences still laugh at her and the Malaprop formula still flourishes in the vaudeville houses and comic strips.

What grew slightly monotonous to me was the ever recurring pattern of unconscious humor. Just as Mrs. Malaprop was unaware of her freakish vocabulary, so was Sir Anthony insensible of his towering passions, Acres of his cloddishness, Falkland of his meticulous sensibilities and Sir Lucius of his humorless adherence to the gentleman's punctilio. One character who can't see a joke on himself can be made very effective but a handful of them are unbelievable.

The most telling character portrayals of the evening were executed by Mr. Whitford Kane as Sir Lucius and Mr. Hubbard Kirkpatrick who did a really brilliant job of Mr. Fag, the high-hat "gentleman's gentleman." Iden Payne put his usual professional gloss on the role of Bob Acres, but one felt that he was doing it with his technique rather than his heart. Mr. Bohnen, who exhibits from time to time, an exceptional gift for make-up, was again very successful in counterfeiting an old man.

BODY OF FRANK M. SLATER WILL BE INTERRED IN OHIO

Funeral Services This Afternoon Attended by Republican Committeemen.

Members of the Republican City Central Committee attended funeral services this afternoon for Frank M. Slater, Committeeman from the Seventeenth Ward, who died of a fractured skull. He was injured Friday when he fell from a hallway window of his apartment at 3559A Lindell boulevard.

The services were held at an undertaker's chapel at 3621 Olive street. The body will be taken to Slater's boyhood home, Van Wert, O., for interment.

Oliver T. Remmers, chairman of the Republican Committee, said Slater's successor will be picked by the ward organization and elected by the committee at its first regular meeting next October.

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a Coroner's jury, after Martin Cole, who found Slater a moment after his fall, testified that he heard the screen in the window give way, and heard the falling man hit the ground.

THE LIMBO OF FORGOTTEN THINGS.

Where are the fads of yesteryear? More important still, where rest the paraphernalia of these fads? In the old days, these reminders of a rage that was forgotten and a foible that had passed could be stored in the attic. But we understand that the attic as well has trod the dusty way to silent death. And the cellar is given over to the furnace and to things whose swift, uncertain tenure of existence forbids their being classed as relics. Where rest the eye-shades, so prominent last year? Where are the pogo sticks, the Mah Joug tiles, the cross-word puzzle books? By the way, where are your golf clubs?

THE GOODMAN PLAYERS PRESENT "THE RIVALS"

Sheridan's Old Comedy Marks Final Week of Season at Garden Theater.

"THE RIVALS," by Richard Brinsley Sheridan, produced by the Goodman Players at the Garden Theater with the following cast:

Sir Anthony Absolute	Roman Bohnen
Captain Absolute	Jack Daniels
Faulkland	Neal Caldwell
Acres	Iden Payne
Sir Lucius O'Trigger	Whitford Kane
Fag	Hubbard Kirkpatrick
David	Art Smith
Coachman	Russell Spindler
Mrs. Malaprop	Alma Randall
Lydia Languish	Eula Guy
Julia	Ellen Root
Lucy	Bernard Ostertag
Maid	Helen Ouse

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN

THE Garden Theater's season of classic repertory is being closed this week with a presentation of Richard Brinsley Sheridan's hardy perennial "The Rivals." Though not a great play it has had great performances and it is regrettable that last night's performance, which began the week, can not be listed as one of those. But for the most part it was put through by main force rather than by the pressure of a high spirited and sustained attack.

The judicious casting which usually characterizes the productions of this group, was not in evidence. Several of the players had parts which didn't fit them and several of those who were not misplaced were evidently suffering from a lack of familiarity with the text and spirit of their roles. As a result the movement of the play was always a little off the rhythm.

Yet it was not an awkward nor an ugly performance and the greater part of the audience seemed pleased enough. Ordinary competence and brilliant costuming can go a long way.

But even if "The Rivals" had been as brilliantly executed as possible I believe I should have found it a little tedious. Nor am I thinking of the elementary humor involved in the character of Mrs. Malaprop. Although her verbal solecisms constitute the lowest of low comedy, respectable audiences still laugh at her and the Malaprop formula still flourishes in the vaudeville houses and comic strips.

What grew slightly monotonous to me was the ever recurring pattern of unconscious humor. Just as Mrs. Malaprop was unaware of her freakish vocabulary, so was Sir Anthony insensible of his towering passions, Acres of his cloddishness, Falkland of his meticulous sensibilities and Sir Lucius of his humorless adherence to the gentleman's punctilio. One character who can't see a joke on himself can be made very effective but a handful of them are unbelievable.

The most telling character portrayals of the evening were executed by Mr. Whitford Kane as Sir Lucius and Mr. Hubbard Kirkpatrick who did a really brilliant job of Mr. Fag, the high-hat "gentleman's gentleman." Iden Payne put his usual professional gloss on the role of Bob Acres, but one felt that he was doing it with his technique rather than his heart. Mr. Bohnen, who exhibits from time to time, an exceptional gift for make-up, was again very successful in counterfeiting an old man.

BODY OF FRANK M. SLATER WILL BE INTERRED IN OHIO

Funeral Services This Afternoon Attended by Republican Committeemen.

Members of the Republican City Central Committee attended funeral services this afternoon for Frank M. Slater, Committeeman from the Seventeenth Ward, who died of a fractured skull. He was injured Friday when he fell from a hallway window of his apartment at 3559A Lindell boulevard.

The services were held at an undertaker's chapel at 3621 Olive street. The body will be taken to Slater's boyhood home, Van Wert, O., for interment.

Oliver T. Remmers, chairman of the Republican Committee, said Slater's successor will be picked by the ward organization and elected by the committee at its first regular meeting next October.

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a Coroner's jury, after Martin Cole, who found Slater a moment after his fall, testified that he heard the screen in the window give way, and heard the falling man hit the ground.

SOCIAL ITEMS

MRS. MELLON-JONES of the Guild Hall apartments and her three children are spending the summer at Sea Girt, N. J. Last week she was the guest of Mrs. William Wallace Jr., of New York on her yacht "The Trail." They were at the Creek Country Club on Long Island where a number of parties were given.

Mrs. Horatio N. Davis, who spent the spring and early summer traveling in Europe with her daughter, Mrs. Robert Burkham, and the latter's daughter, Miss Margaret, is now in London at the Anglo-Catholic Congress. She will sail for home July 30 and will spend the month of August with cousins in Milton, Mass. The Burkhams are at Hyannisport, Mass., for the summer. Miss Burkahm will be one of the feted debutantes of next season.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Glogau of 5741 McPherson avenue and their small daughter, July Collins Glogau, will leave St. Louis next week for Hartland, Wis., to be the guests of Mr. Glogau's mother, Mrs. Emile Glogau of New York, at her cottage there. Mrs. Glogau has been visiting them in St. Louis and left a few days ago for her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Rolla Wells of 25 Westmoreland place, and Mrs. Wells' daughters, Miss Louise and Miss Eleanor Church will depart next week for Hot Springs, Va., to pass the remainder of the summer.

Mrs. Selwyn C. Edgar of 4915 Lindell boulevard, with her daughter, Mrs. Jerome Meyer of Argyle place, and the latter's small son, are in New York with Mrs. Edgar's mother, Mrs. Dula. Mr. Meyer accompanied them East and will return home today.

Mrs. H. C. Kirkpatrick of 6301 Washington boulevard, with their daughter, Miss Isabell, and her sons, Curry, Hugh and Tom, will depart Friday for Delavan Lake, Wis., where they have a cottage for the summer. Mr. Kirkpatrick will join them later. Miss Kirkpatrick was graduated in June from Mary Institute and will enter Ogontz School near Philadelphia in the fall.

A group of the younger social set from St. Louis is participating in the activities at Hotel del Coronado, Coronado Beach, Cal. Saturday night some of them presented dance numbers at the ball given at the hotel, the party including Miss Sally Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Leigh Green, who is with her mother in the West; Miss Kathleen Sheldon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Sheldon of 14 Kingsbury place, a prospective debutante of next season, and Miss Gladys Muckerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Muckerman of 4464 West Pine boulevard, who, with her family, is at Coronado for the summer.

Mrs. George Dunbar Fisher of 4401 McPherson avenue is at Provincetown, Mass., for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Obear of the Cella and Clayton roads are expected home today from Grand Haven, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Kurn of 5044 Westminster place have gone to Pensacola, Fla., for a visit. Mrs. Kurn will be the guest of her husband's sisters, and Mr. Kurn will go on a fishing trip with William B. Harbeson of Mobile, Ala., at Camp Walton. Mr. Kurn is president of the Frisco Railroad.

Dr. and Mrs. T. L. Penney of Hotel Coronado and Jules F. Valle of the Racquet Club will depart Sunday for a visit of several days in New York before sailing at San Francisco. They will stop at Havana and will return the first of September.

Harry Jr., and Edward A. Haeussler, young sons of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Haeussler of 7188 Kingsbury boulevard, have entered the camp at the Mt. Princeton Byrd Colonies near Beuna Vista, Col. They will be gone for 10 weeks. Mrs. Haeussler and Miss Louise Chetham have departed by motor for Denver, where they will join Mr. Haeussler.

Mrs. Robert Stanley Woodruff of Decatur, Ill., and her three children are visiting Mrs. Woodruff's mother, Mrs. L. L. Lindsey of 5316 Savoy court.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Murdock of Los Angeles, with Mrs. Murdock's small daughter, Dorothy McRee Smith, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Brown of 5379 Pershing avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Murdock are planning to make St Louis their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Marquard of 5540 Pershing avenue departed yesterday for Chicago from where they will cruise the Great Lakes. They expect to be gone about a month. Mrs. Marquard was formerly Miss Olga Hambuechen.

At Sportsman's Park tomorrow afternoon the Tuberculosis day celebration will be one of the largest social events of the midsummer season. A carnival will precede the ball game between the St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia. There will be drills, fencing exhibition, races, human pyramids, drum corps, junior marathon race and many other events in which 600 entertainers will participate. A grand march will be the opening feature. Hundreds of "flapper health gypsies" will distribute educational souvenir score card programs. The carnival will begin at 1 o'clock and continue until 4 o'clock, when the ball game will be called.

DUCHESS MADE U. S. CITIZEN

Former Elsie Moore Is Suing to Divorce Duke of Torlonia.

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 27.—The Duchess Torlonia, who was Elsie Moore of Greenwich, Conn., today renounced her Italian citizenship which came through her marriage to Duke Marino Torlonia, and was granted United States citizenship by Federal Judge Thomas of the District Court.

The Duchess has had a suit pending in the Superior Court at Bridgeport, Conn., for a divorce from the Duke since early last year and further hearings await argument among counsel because of international legal questions which have arisen. Miss Moore married the Duke at Greenwhich on Aug. 15, 1907, at a ceremony which drew to the home of her mother many from the most exclusive social circles in this country as well as representatives of titled families abroad. There were four children by the marriage and the three living are with their mother. A few weeks ago the Duke claimed that as his wife was not an American citizen she may not sue him in an American court.

Daniel P. Daugherty Dies.

Word of the death of Daniel P. Daugherty, former wholesale druggist in St. Louis, was received here yesterday. He died July 23 at his home in Clearwater, Fla., at the age of 76. Daugherty came to St. Louis from Indianapolis as general buyer for the old Richardson Drug Co., and later formed the Daugherty-Crouch Drug Co. which was absorbed by Moffitt-West Drug Co.

Traffic Cop Overcome by Heat.

Traffic Policeman Charles Bridwell was overcome by heat yesterday afternoon while directing traffic at Grand and West Pine boulevards. He was taken to City Hospital. Bridwell is 39 years old and lives at 2243 Gasconade street.

FUNERAL OF MRS. SOLDAN HELD FROM ALTENHEIM

School Principals Among Pallbearers; Burial at Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ottilie Soldan, 83 years old, widow of F. Louis Soldan, who was Superintendent of Public Schools, were held this afternoon at the Altenheim, 5408 South Broadway, where she died Monday of infirmities. Burial was in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Paul Miller, principal of Bryan Mullanphy School; Thomas E. Spencer, assistant superintendent of schools; A. J. Hart, assistant principal of Roosevelt High School; F. J. Steuber, principal of Rose Fanning School; H. H. Edmiston, principal of Laclede School, and L. J. Sexton, principal of Mason School.

The Board of Education was represented by Henry J. Gerling, assistant superintendent of instruction. Others attending included F. E. Andrews, principal of Glasgow School; A. R. Morgan, principal of Sherman School, and J. Leslie Purdom, principal of Harris Teachers' College.

MRS. ARMOUR'S PHILANTHROPY

Wide Range Included Swindler Who Posed as Preacher.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 27.—A wide scope of philanthropies has been disclosed with the death of Mrs. Philip D. Armour, widow of the founder of Armour & Co., meat packers.

The varied benefactions of the 85-year-old social leader have surprised even her relatives. Among the recipients of Mrs. Armour's kindnesses, an aged Negro received each month a check for $80. Mrs. Armour when she learned she had been sending money to a swindler posing as a preacher, said: "I'd much rather strike an unworthy case occasionally than overlook one that is needy without giving help."

Bequest of R. H. Hunstock to St. Louis Institution to Be Used for Scholarship Prizes.

A bequest of $7500 to be used for scholarship prizes is made the St. Louis College of Pharmacy in the will of a former student, Robert H. Hunstock of Los Angeles, Cal., wealthy hotel and apartment owner who died July 7. Hunstock formerly lived at Hannibal, Mo., and was graduated from the pharmacy school in 1876.

Under the will two brothers, William F. Hunstock of St. Louis and Albert W. Hunstock of Hannibal, receive $2000 each, a sister at Elgin, Ill., is given $20,000 and a trust fund is set up for another sister, Frances Hunstock of Hannibal. A contest is expected, according to dispatches from Los Angeles. An inventory of Hunstock's estate disclosed he was a millionaire.

COOLIDGES VIEW BLACK HILLS GOLD DAYS IN PAGEANT

President and Wife Are Guests at a Celebration in Frontier Town of Custer, S. D.

RUNAWAY HORSES ENLIVEN PROGRAM

Old-Time Miners Operate Sluice Boxes Again in Hunt for Nuggets—Legend Portrayed in Dance.

By the Associated Press.

CUSTER, S. D., July 27.—On a green slope of a hill overlooking this town, President Coolidge today witnessed a pageant portraying the gold discovery days of 1874. Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge looked down from the open car in which they had driven earlier in the day from the State game lodge. Before them in a natural clearing, the exciting frontier days were lived over by citizens of this city and Indians.

Beyond the clearing a thick growth of pine trees made a shelter for the actors, who took their turns picturing how Gen. Custer's soldiers discovered gold here and showing also a reproduction of the days of warfare which followed.

The noise of automobile horns greeted the President and Mrs. Coolidge when their car took its place alongside the clearing at 10 o'clock.

A runaway of a team of horses participating in the pageant enlivened the exercises. The team, which was drawing a covered wagon, broke loose almost in front of the automobile occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge, who were protected from the vehicle by a low fence.

Charging across the field, the horses, still attached to the tongue and double-trees of the wagon, headed straight for the crowd which had circled the clearing. Screaming women and children scurried for protection. The team miraculously dashed through the crowd without causing an injury.

Pageant Portrays Old Days.

The arranged pageant portrayed also the arrival during the gold rush of the Gordon party which came into the Hills at that time. With this party of 27 men was Annie Tallent, the first white woman to come into this area. Outside the town, the Gordon stockade, in which the party spent the winter, still stands.

Gen. Custer and his men spent considerable time here in the interest of the Government before proceeding to the Little Big Horn valley where all met death.

One of the features of the program was the dance of Miss Maybell Henry of Custer to portray the creation of the Black Hills by the Great Spirit and his counselling of the Indians not to go into their fastnesses because he reserved them for himself as a retreat from the sorrows of the world. This is the legend of the Indians and accounts for the fact that they never lived in the hills until the white man came, contenting themselves with building their huts and wigwams at the edge of the prairies.

Coolidge Favors Cities Building Their Own Airports.

By the Associated Press.

RAPID CITY, S. D., July 27.—Cities and towns are expected by President Coolidge to take the initiative in building their own airports while the Government devotes its attention to the development of aviation itself.

It is the hope of the President that every municipality will be able in the near future to establish an air base. With aviation going ahead as it is, he believes the airports will be a necessity. He is ready to permit the use of the Army and Navy flying fields in Washington for an airport there, but he thinks the capital city should have an air base of its own and in this respect he is ready to co-operate.

Despite threatening clouds, another pilgrimage made its way to the summer White House yesterday, the delegates to the Atlantic, Yellowstone, Pacific Highway Association calling on the President.

Will F. Muse, Mason City, Ia., publisher, one of the delegates, declared the farmers of Iowa were prosperous. He said the speculators were the complainers, and while some helpful legislation was needed for the farmers, he said he opposed the vetoed McNary-Haugen bill.

He added that Iowa would "undoubtedly" instruct its delegates to the next Republican convention to vote for Frank O. Lowden for the presidential nomination. He described the feeling for Lowden in Iowa as very strong and said the State was for Lowden rather than against Coolidge.

Mrs. Coolidge Attends Wedding.

One of the heaviest rains of the summer fell here shortly after Mrs. Coolidge had left the game lodge yesterday to motor to Newcastle, Wyo., nearly 70 miles over the mountains, to attend the wedding there of Dorothy Mondell and Alexander W. Gregg, chief counsel for the Internal Revenue Bureau. The rain kept Mr. Coolidge at home for the afternoon and he spent much of the time on the front porch getting acquainted with the new white collie received here yesterday.

If you are planning to trade-in your present car for a new car,
remember these facts:

1 When you trade-in your used car for a new car, you are after all making a purchase, not a sale. You are simply applying your present car as a credit toward the purchase price of the new car.

2 Your used car has only one fundamental basis of value; i. e., what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.

3 Your used car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new automobile.

4 The largest allowance offered is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; sometimes it is not.

5 An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.

6 First judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your used automobile.

Keep safe from perspiration odor

This gentle toilet soap purifies pores

THE offender seldom realizes he or she is guilty of perspiration odor. And those who notice it—won't tell.

Even if we don't seem to perspire, we must always guard against the danger of offending. For our pores continually give off odor-causing moisture—often a pound a day.

For safety's sake—use Lifebuoy! So refreshing that millions bathe with it every day! It purifies pores—gives freedom from perspiration odor.

Health for complexions

Lifebuoy's mild, antiseptic lather keeps complexions clear, fresh and glowing with health because it purifies the skin.

Better still, this same purifying lather helps protect against 27 germ diseases that hands may spread—it removes germs as well as dirt.

You'll learn to like Lifebuoy's clean, hygienic scent—so wholesome, so assuring of greater safety, yet so quickly vanishing.

Lifebuoy gives extra protection, yet costs no more than other soaps. "Use it a week and you'll use it for life." Get some today.

LINDBERGH'S BOOK "WE" APPEARS TODAY

Only 10 of 200 Odd Pages Are Devoted to Non-Stop Flight and Receptions.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 27.—A simple and intensely interesting personal narrative which devotes but 10 pages to the first nonstop flight from New York to Europe appears on the bookstands today under the title "We," and the name of Charles A. Lindbergh. Curiously enough, there is not a single reference in the entire volume—or the 200 odd pages that actually come from Lindbergh's hand—to the widely heralded duality of the youthful flyer and his trans-Atlantic airplane except as it appears on the cover of the book and at the top of every page.

Lindbergh's book—for that is the name by which the public will buy and read it—in reality is an autobiography of the young man who flew out of the West a few months ago and accomplished a feat that had tempted flying men for years.

Begins With Family History.

It begins with a little family history and moves swiftly through the rather disjointed school days of a boy whose father is in public life and who knows no home for more than a few months at a time. Though the pronoun "We" applied so frequently to Lindbergh and his plane, "The Spirit of St. Louis," is utterly lacking in his book, the story is full of the shorter "I," but always in a self-confident rather than an egotistical or boasting sense.

Lindbergh in school was a good shot with pistol and rifle, and knew it. Lindbergh, leaving college to take up a haphazard flying career which began so short a time ago as April 9, 1922, took to "barnstorming" about the country as assistant to a "gypsy" flyer and to the hazardous business of "wing-walking," with a frank belief in his own ability that bespoke little of over-modesty.

Evidence of Common Sense.

Lindbergh, essaying his first "solo" flight with the first plane he ever owned and without ever having been "turned loose" by a competent instructor, is the same, somewhat recklessly confident boy, who yet had enough sense to quit and accept a little gratuitous instruction from a chance flying acquaintance when things did not go so well as he had hoped.

A few days later, with only an hour or so of flying experience more to his credit, the story finds Lindbergh taking his first passenger for a ride and scraping over fences and tree tops with the same abandon and buoyant belief in himself and his plane that in a slightly different degree characterized his gauntlet with death at Roosevelt Field on the take-off for Paris.

The writer admits the terrible chances he took and that, unwittingly, his first passengers took with him, but is quick to point out, as the propagandist he is, that such conditions no longer would be tolerated in this country under regulations now enforced by the Department of Commerce.

Booster for Aviation.

He is an aviation booster at all times, praising the flying branches of the Government and preaching the safety of flying, but recounting in almost the same breath hair-raising and dangerous episodes in his own career, in which he barely escaped with his life. Yet it is plain everywhere that his experiences were hazardous because he took chances heedlessly.

Preparations for the flight and the 3600-mile air voyage itself Lindbergh disposes of summarily, his narrative having less of detail and color than the newspaper accounts which appeared over his name at the completion of the New York-Paris flight. Five pages more dispose of his tremendous receptions in Paris, Brussels and London, the trip back home and the ovations in Washington, New York and St. Louis.

Apparently Lindbergh himself was more impressed by his early training as a gypsy flyer, in the Army Air Corps flying schools at Ellington and Kelly Fields, Tex., and as an air mail pilot in the St. Louis-Chicago service. He gives credit freely to the men who taught him to fly and who were associated with him in the various ventures of his career. The book is dedicated to his mother and to the St. Louis group who financed the Paris flight. It is published by G. P. Putnam's Sons.

Plan Ireland-to-Canada Flight.

By the Associated Press.

DUBLIN, Ireland, July 27.—F. F. Minchin of the British Imperial Airways and Leslie Hamilton, British air taxi owner, who are in the midst of active preparations for a trans-Atlantic flight to Ottawa, Ont., flew from Dublin to Clifden, Galway, this morning to pick a definite point for their hopoff. They hope to leave about the middle of August in a Fokker monoplane, which is now being overhauled at Amsterdam. It will be driven by a British Jupiter air-cooled motor.

Can you do more for your teeth than keep them CLEAN?

What is the utmost you think can be done to make your teeth healthy, beautiful, bright? If you ask your dentist this question, his answer will surely be, "Keep them completely clean!"

Designed only to clean, Colgate's cleans so evidently you quickly taste, feel, see the healthy cleanness it brings.

Why Colgate's cleans better

The moment Colgate's is brushed on your teeth, two things happen:

1. It expands into a sparkling foam. In this foam is calcium carbonate to scrub off all bits of food, and polish each tooth to dazzling cleanness.

2. Then, in a detergent-washing wave, this foam sweeps through the entire mouth, washing away impurities, leaving teeth and mouth clean.

If you think you need more than cleanness, if you fear disease of teeth or gums, better go straight to a dentist for treatment. Rely on a dentist to cure. Rely on Colgate's to clean your teeth.

GREEN AND GARNER IN ACCORD ON TAX CUT

But G. O. P. and Democratic Congressmen Disagree Over Methods for Reduction.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—While in accord on the necessity for tax reduction, the Republican and Democratic leading members of the House Ways and Means Committee, Representatives Green of Iowa, its chairman, and Garner of Texas, ranking minority member, in published views show a divergence of opinion on the amount and methods of cutting the levies.

The two representatives, in an article in the "Nation's Business" magazine made public today, concurred that the corporation tax should be reduced, but Representative Green believed the most important cut should be for incomes under $500,000, while Garner stressed the repeal of the nuisance and automobile levies.

The Texan pointed out his claim of more accurately gauging the nation's surplus than President Coolidge and the Treasury officials. They estimated a surplus of $183,000,000 at the beginning of this fiscal year, he contends, while his figure at that time was $400,000,000, the recently announced surplus estimated by the treasury being $600,000,000.

Representative Green warned against too sharp reduction of the corporation taxes and opposed the repeal of the federal estate tax. Garner held that the corporation tax should be lessened 10 per cent, but Green viewed this cut as too great a drain on the government revenues.

The repeal of the estate tax, Green asserted, would lower the government revenue by approximately $45,000,000, but he maintained this amount "taken off of the income tax would be vastly better for business and the country at large" than the levy's abolition.

PREACHER TRAINING HIS SON FOR PUGILISM OR THE PULPIT

Outcome of Next Fight Determines Career of Bill Lamance of Mount Vernon, Ill.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich., July 27.—At his summer home on the shore of Crystal Lake, the Rev. W. M. Lamance of Mount Vernon, Ill., who quit pugilism for preaching 15 years ago, is training his 20-year-old son, Bill, for a fight to decide his career. On Aug. 13 at the annual resort carnival at Bueha, Bill Lamance, Central College athlete, who won the amateur light heavyweight championship of the Ohio Valley at Indianapolis in April, with his father in his corner, will box the best amateur of Northern Michigan, Dan A. Haswell, of Bueha.

The result will determine whether Bill becomes a preacher or a prize fighter, his father says.

SIX SUSPECTS ARRESTED IN WEST END HANDBOOK RAIDS

Men Taken on Suspicion of Gambling in Small Stores—Warrants Will Be Asked.

Police arrested six men on suspicion of operating handbooks in six West End stores yesterday afternoon. They are: John Peasley, 53 years old, of 1010 Hodiamont avenue; John Rovics and Benjamin Smuckler of 5872½ Delmar boulevard; Paul Fried, 582 De Baliviere avenue; Joseph M. Cody, 5023 Delmar, and John Linkman of 5015 Delmar.

In each of the places where arrests were made, police reported having found racing forms and tabulated bets. The Circuit Attorney will be requested to issue warrants charging gambling.

J. Ogden Armour Improves.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 27.—J. Ogden Armour passed a rather restless night but was better this morning, his son-in-law, John J. Mitchell, said. It is feared that it will be some time before Armour will be convalescent, although he has passed through the serious stage of typhoid from which he has been suffering.

Every Week Safety Week

During the last two years drivers of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) vehicles crossed more than 88,000,000 railroad crossings without a single fatality.

That record is the result of continuous concentrated work. The safety campaign of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been steady and persistent—carried on day after day and week after week and year after year.

By means of unceasing effort and the splendid cooperation of all employes, the impressive safety record of this company has been accomplished.

The driver of every Standard Oil Company (Indiana) vehicle is conscious of his own tremendous personal responsibility.

This realization of the responsibility involved is a necessary part of safety education. As motorists and pedestrians are made conscious that safety is their own daily responsibility, accidents will be reduced.

The situation is more serious than the average person realizes. Twenty-two thousand people are killed and 660,000 injured annually by automobiles, according to the News Tribune of Duluth. The quotation below is from an editorial of this paper for May 9th.

"There is still an imperative need of more systematic study of the means of preventing or gradually reducing automobile accidents.

"It has been shown that only a small percentage of the accidents which happen are due to defects in the cars or can rightly be called unavoidable. For that reason the situation is not hopeless nor incapable of control.

"But it requires vigorous and effective work throughout the entire country and the cooperation of all drivers and all pedestrians, and all factors of our national life, including schools, civic and public organizations, parents and children."

The Duluth News Tribune has vividly presented the safety problem that confronts this country and has made a sensible suggestion for its solution.

Each week during safety week automobile accidents are far less numerous in the United States than they are during any other week of the year, according to the report of the National Safety Council.

This shows what can be done by making people "safety conscious". Every week must be made safety week. The cooperation of "all factors of our national life" must be enlisted. Industry can help.

The conspicuous success of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) employes in keeping safety rules is not surprising, considering the fact that every day in their business they are trained to think of others.

This company is pledged to the promotion of safety by the very character of its organization.

This company exists to serve the people of the Middle West, and its active part in the humanitarian effort to reduce unnecessary loss of life is in accord with the spirit of the organization.

Something Really NEW In Home Ownership

LOT AND HOME FOR $50 DOWN!

$50 DOWN

3-Room Bungalow Garage, 60-Ft. Lot

HOW TO GET THERE

Take Manchester Road Bus at Maplewood loop and get off at Denny Road. Walk 3 blocks west, or drive out Manchester Road to property. Or call MAin 0878 and salesman will take you.

AN UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY

$50 cash will provide a home for you in restricted Ridgeview. Your own labor on your own home creates the value. Simply buy a 60x113 lot for $1675, by paying $50 cash and $25 monthly, plus 6% interest and we will build for you a 3-room bungalow garage, temporary home at no extra cost. You get the deed to property immediately. No red tape—no delay!

YOUNG PEOPLE

Come out and meet the class of home owners who are living in Ridgeview now—the young couples for whom we have built these temporary homes. They have solved the rent problem. For less than the rent you are probably paying, you can own your own home—and pay off a little each month. You owe it to yourself to at least come out and look into this remarkable offering.

$25 MONTHLY

Rocked Street
Sewers
Water
Granitoid Walks
Electricity

Sample bungalow open for inspection every day until dark. This model shows just what you can do with your home. The originality of the plan places it in a class by itself. A visit will convince you.

REAL ESTATE—EXCHANGE

FOR EXCHANGE

We have several pieces of clean, desirable improved St. Louis real estate, consisting of business, residence, flat and apartment buildings.

The majority of these pieces are held by the builders or the original owners—and, therefore, can be traded at a more reasonable figure than property which has been sold numerous times.

To those seeking a fair exchange and desiring good, clean property, we have something that will appeal.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Heavy profit-taking sales checked a promising rally in today's stock market during which the prices of leading industrials mounted to record high levels. Buying was influenced largely by the unusually favorable half yearly reports of the country's two leading industrial corporations—General Motors and U. S. Steel—and by the continued ease of credit conditions. Final quotations disclosed a rather long list of net gains ranging from 1 to 9 points, interspersed with a smaller number of losses running from 1 to 4½ points.

Recent strength of U. S. Steel common, which crossed 129 today for the first time since the distribution of the 40 per cent stock dividend, was explained by the report that Du Pont interests had acquired 114,000 shares for approximately $14,000,000, or slightly less than $123 a share. Du Pont common attained a new record high price at 271¾ and then settled back to 269¼ up ¼ net.

Although weekly steel trade reviews reported that recent changes in the industry have been on the side of betterment, the Iron Age composite pig iron price sank to the lowest level since March, 1922. Gulf states steel reported semiannual earnings of $2.41 a share, as against $2.77 in the first half of last year, but Inland steel earnings were larger. Bethlehem moved up to within a fraction of the year's high at 55½ in anticipation of a good quarterly report tomorrow.

Motors Lead in Trade.

Motor stocks again led in point of group activity, despite renewed talk of price cuts. General Motors attained a new peak at 227¼ and then lost all the day's gain. Nash was bid up 4½ points to a new top at 75 and then eased to 74 on realizing. Chrysler also fell back a point after touching a new high at 55⅝. Yellow Truck advanced to within a fraction of the peak and Mack Trucks made further recovery, but Pierce-Arrow preferred broke nearly 4 points to a new low at 49 and heaviness cropped out in Studebaker and Jordan.

Another flock of new high records was recorded among the specialties, the list including American Radiator, American Tobacco, American Writing Paper Certificates, Electric Auto Lite, General Electric, R. H. Macy & Co., Otis Elevator, Phillips Jones preferred, Radio Corporation, Simmons Co., United Fruit and Utah Copper.

First 34 Rail Reports.

Heaviness was most pronounced in such issues as U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, A. M. Buyers, By-Products Coke, National Tea, United Drug and Shell Transport, all off 2 points or more.

The first 34 railroads to report their June earnings show aggregate net operating income of $49,840,000, as against $58,879,000 in June, 1926, a drop of 15.4 per cent. Good buying was apparent, however, in several of the seasoned dividend paying issues, such as Atchison, Chesapeake & Ohio and Atlantic Coast Line. Kansas City Southern, Norfolk & Southern, Western Pacific preferred and Lackawanna were heavy.

Shading in Time Money.

Call money renewed at 3¾ and then dropped to 3½, with "outside" loans reported as low as 3¼. A further shading was apparent in time money rates, the shorter maturities being quoted at 4¼ to 4⅜ instead of on a flat 4⅜ per cent basis. Prime commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Commodity prices were heavy. Wheat futures lost part of their 1 to 2 cents a bushel gains of the day before, and cotton futures closed 6 to 9 points net lower. Coffee prices also eased slightly, but sugar prices held steady.

Japanese yen again sold above 47 cents, but the other foreign exchanges moved within narrow and irregular limits, demand sterling and French francs ruling around $4.85⅛ and 3.91¼ cents, respectively.

SHARES SOLD

FIRMER TONE IS SHOWN IN BOND MARKET TRADE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Easing money rates and a ready reception of new offerings helped materially in maintaining a firm undertone in the bond market today. Trading in listed bonds was in the largest volume in several days, and a large acceleration of the over-the-counter movement was reported.

New offerings of $20,000,000 Pure Oil Co. 10-year 5½ per cent notes is scheduled for tomorrow.

New York Traction bonds displayed considerable strength, reflecting successful efforts to avert the impending strike of subway and elevated workers. Interborough issues and Third Avenue adjustment 5s all scored gains of a point or more. Brooklyn Union Gas 5½s were in rather heavy demand and sold up more than 2 points to a new high of 203.

Erie refunding 5s were the most active of railway liens, but late in the day relinquished all of their fractional advance. "Frisco" income 6s were accumulated freely and New Haven convertible 3½s displayed strength.

Industrial mortgages were generally quiet, with Wickwire Spencer convertible 7s dropping 4 points to 20, a new minimum.

There was some irregularity in the foreign group, the most interest being manifested in French and a few Latin American issues.

Liberty 3½s changed hands to the extent of about half a million dollars and Treasury 3⅜s and 4s were moderately active. Prices held fairly steady.

Frisco Ry. June Better.

NEW YORK, July 27.—June surplus of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway was $458,565 after charges, an increase of $3313 over June last year, but the total of $2,426,240 for the half year was $82,986 less than the first half of 1926, equal to $3.33 a share on the common, against $4.57 a share a year ago.

Chicago Cotton Market.

CHICAGO, July 27.—Cotton futures closed as follows: Oct., 18.68c; Dec., 18.94c; Jan., 19c; March, 19.16c; May, 19.23c.

COTTON SELLS LOWER AFTER EARLY ADVANCE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 27.—The cotton market opened firm today at an advance of 9 to 14 points on covering and trade or commission house buying, stimulated by firm late cables from Liverpool and reports of rains in Southeast Texas.

December sold up to 19.24c and March to 19.50c on the opening demand, or within 15 points of yesterday's best levels, but there was a good deal of realizing and prices reacted 10 or 12 points from the best in early trading.

Private cables said there had been local and continental liquidation in Liverpool early, but an absence of pressure otherwise, and reported a fair business in cotton cloths for Calcutta with deliveries extending into December.

The early advance met heavy realizing and prices eased off later. The weekly report of the Weather Bureau evidently placed no greater emphasis on unfavorable features than had been expected and on the whole seemed to bring in a little more selling. Prices eased off to 19.01c for December and 19.30c for March or about 24 points from the early highs and eight to nine points below yesterday's closing figures.

Futures closed steady; 6 to 9 lower: October 18.77c to 18.79c; December 19.04c to 19.06c; January 19.12c to 19.15c; March 19.30c to 19.32c; May 19.46c to 19.48c.

Spot quiet; middling 18.70c.

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, July 27.—Cotton futures closed steady at a net decline of 9 to 12 points: January 19.01c; March 19.20c; May 19.23c; bid, 24 asked; October 18.68@70c; December 18.92@94c; spot steady, 13 points down; middling 18.38c.

SOME NEW HIGH MARKS MADE ON THE CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 27.—In the trading on the curb exchange today a number of stocks again lifted their high records and numerous issues moved over a wide range. Aluminum of American started with a gain of two points to 89, and after dropping to 85½ had a quick rally. American Arch rose six points to 87 but later lost part of the gain. American Rayon which has been moving up steadily every day for a long period lifted its maximum price. On an advance of 1⅝ to 18⅞. American water works also was in urgent demand, moving up a point to 47⅛. Grand stores entered new high territory at 95¼. Celanese new stock was another record breaker, moving up three points to 79⅝.

Consolidated Gas of Baltimore commanded most attention in the utility group reaching a new top on an advance of 1⅛ to 61⅞. Other utilities were firm. Electric Bond & Share recorded a fractional gain, but American Gas & Electric and United Gas Improvement showed a small loss.

Oil stocks displayed a steadier tone. Creole rallied after an early decline and there was a fair demand for Standard Oil of Indiana. Trading in those issues was not influenced by the further increased crude oil production.

Industrials were irregular. Durant which was a strong feature on the preceding two days of the week, when it sold above 11, fell back to 10, and Deere & Co., was in supply at a fractional decline. Royal Baking Powder gained five points to 243. General Baking which had shown strength for some time was in supply yielding about a point, the "A" stock selling at 67¼. Freshman Radio also was under pressure and had a fractional loss.

DAILY AVERAGE CRUDE OIL PRODUCTION SHOWS INCREASE

NEW YORK, July 27.—The daily average gross crude oil production in the United States increased 29,600 barrels for the week ended July 23, totaling 2,573,850 barrels, says the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute. The daily average production east of California was 1,953,150 barrels, an increase of 30,900 barrels.

†Hard; *red.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, July 27.—Wheat closed lower on the local market with corn lower to higher. Sept. corn being little better. Reported indications from forecast that heat in Northwest would quickly break up and slow export business were ascribed as late wheat influences.

In the local cash grain market the best grades of soft wheat were steady to 1c higher and off grades unchanged to 1c lower. Demand was fair. Corn was steady to 1c higher on yellow and white 1 to 1c lower. Demand was slow. Oats were steady to 1c higher. Demand was fair.

The early trade centered in September hard wheat which opened a shade higher, sold a fraction net lower and then recovered for net gain. Hot weather in Northwest and rust question were influences. Unfavorable European weather was called an early factor. Liverpool came 1 to 1⅛d higher. Winnipeg early was ¼ to 1c higher, July wheat showing the wide range. Corn was higher, September delivery showing advance of over cent. Hot and dry weather exerted influence on prices, it was stated.

Liverpool wheat closed ⅞d higher on July and 1⅝d higher on October and December.

September hard wheat opened at $1.39⅜ September corn $1.10¾ and December corn $1.11⅝.

Local wheat receipts, which were 274,400 bushels, compared with 159,600 bushels a week ago and 516,600 bushels a year ago, included 135 cars local and 61 through. Corn receipts, which were 49,000 bushels, compared with 32,200 bushels a week ago and 33,600 bushels a year ago, included 31 cars local and four through. Oats receipts which were 66,000 bushels, compared with 70,000 bushels a week ago and 20,000 bushels a year ago, included 27 cars local and six through. Hay receipts were 11 cars local and three through.

The three Northwestern markets combined had 326 cars of wheat, compared with 397 a week ago and 526 a year ago. Minneapolis receiving 142 cars. Duluth 40 and Winnipeg 144.

Grain stocks comprised 247,937 bushels of No. 1 red winter wheat, 104,227 bushels of No. 2 red winter wheat, 30,225 bushels of No. 1 hard winter wheat, 12,704 bushels of No. 2 hard winter wheat, 59,444 bushels of No. 2 corn, 611,511 bushels of No. 2 yellow corn, 139,650 bushels of No. 2 white corn, 12,553 bushels of No. 2 white oats, 32,057 bushels of No. 3 white oats.

Primary receipts of wheat were heavier than a week ago and heavier than year ago. Corn receipts were lighter than a week ago and heavier than a year ago. Oats receipts were heavier than a week ago and heavier than a year ago. Wheat shipments were heavier than a week ago and lighter than a year ago. Corn shipments were lighter than a week ago and heavier than a year ago. Oats shipments were lighter than a week ago and lighter than a year ago.

Primary receipts of wheat were 3,836,000 bushels, compared with 1,516,000 a week ago and 3,800,000 last year. Corn receipts were 519,000 bushels, compared with 560,000 a week ago and 436,000 last year. Oats receipts were 402,000 bushels, compared with 267,000 a week ago and 367,000 last year. Wheat shipments were 1,313,000 bushels, compared with 718,000 a week ago and 1,839,000 last year. Corn shipments were 553,000 bushels, compared with 617,000 a week ago and 459,000 last year. WHEAT CLOSES HEAVY ON CHICAGO MARKET

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 27.—Wheat prices turned downward today, after an early advance that was associated with hot weather Northwest and with reported spread of black rust. Forecasts, however, have indicated quick breaking up of the heat wave. Besides, export demand was slow, and sales of wheat into store here were large.

Wheat closed heavy, ⅛c to 1⅛c net lower. Corn: ⅝c off to 1½c up. Oats at ¼c decline to ⅜c advance, and provisions 2c to 25c down.

South Dakota advices today concerning black rust had a disturbing influence on the wheat market. A report from Rosholt, S. D., for example, said Burbank and Marquis wheat was affected. Dispatches from Minnesota, too, were of a disconcerting character.

Increasing need of rain in most sections of the corn belt led to a scarcity of corn offerings and to enlarged demand with attendant higher prices at times. Unfavorable crop news from sections of the leading corn states continued.

Steel Industry Situation.

NEW YORK, July 27.—What little change is discernible in the steel market is on the side of betterment, Iron Age says. With some companies bookings are now comparable to those of early May. Mill operations, if anything, have increased slightly for the industry as a whole. Since additions to unfilled tonnage are reported from other than rail mills, to which have come lately some sizable orders. Improvement is chiefly in the heavy tonnage products—plates, shapes and bars. Sales remain individually small, but numerically somewhat greater.

The Iron Age pig iron composite price has again fallen. It is now $18.42, the lowest since March, 1922. The composite price for finished steel remains at 2.367 cents a pound.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, July 27.—The raw sugar market was unchanged early today at 4.46 for Cuban, duty paid, with no sales reported. Changes in raw sugar futures were narrow and prices were a shade lower under liquidation and selling by trade and commission houses. The volume of business, however, was not very active, and there was enough covering and Cuban support of new crop deliveries to absorb the offerings, with prices at midday about net unchanged to one point lower.

No improvement was noted in the demand for refined sugar, but prices were steadily held at former levels of 5.90 for fine granulated.

Futures closed firm. Approximate sales 55,500 tons.

THE CHASE NATIONAL BANK OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK, TRUSTEE
BANK OF DANZIG, AGENT FOR THE TRUSTEE

The following information has been furnished by the Board in a letter signed by Colonel de Loes, President of the Danzig Port and Waterways Board, by Mr. Alfred Evert, Danziger member and by Mr. Henry K. Zarzycki, Polish member.

AUTHORIZATION: The Loan is issued pursuant to Resolutions of the Danzig Port and Waterways Board of the Free City of Danzig, and with the written approval of the governments of the Republic of Poland and the Free City of Danzig.

The council of the League of Nations at its sitting of March 10, 1927 expressed the desire that the issue of a loan by the Danzig Port and Waterways Board, such as is now contracted, might be made in the near future.

DANZIG PORT AND WATERWAYS BOARD: The Danzig Port and Waterways Board (herein called the Board) is an independent body corporate created by the Treaty between the Republic in Poland and the Free City of Danzig concluded in Paris, November 9th, 1920, in accordance with Article 104 of the Treaty of Versailles. By virtue of these treaties the League of Nations exercises certain supervisory functions over the Board. The Board is composed of an equal number of Commissioners of the Free City of Danzig and of the Republic of Poland with a President chosen by agreement between them or by the League of Nations. The present President, a Swiss citizen, was appointed by the League of Nations. Under the said treaty of Paris, the Board has received the ownership of all properties which belong to the former German Empire and German States and which formed part of the Port, consisting of lands, waterways, docks, warehouses, cranes, tugboats and other facilities and equipment and has the right to lease or acquire similar properties. The Board exercises the control, administration and exploitation of the port and waterways and collects all dues and taxes and receipts arising from the administration of such other properties. The Free City of Danzig and the Republic of Poland share equally in any profit or loss arising from the administration of the Port.

SECURITY: These Bonds are to be the direct obligation of the Board which grants as specific security for the Loan:

(1) A first mortgage on all property now owned and operated consisting of buildings, docks and lands (not including any railroad properties) valued at $7,240,000 (37,215,580 Danzig gulden) and all property to be acquired with the proceeds of this Loan. The Mortgage will be registered in terms of English gold sovereigns at gold parity of exchange for dollars equivalent in principal amount to 115 per cent of the principal amount of this issue.

(2) A first charge upon the total gross receipts of the Board (which do not include any railway earnings) which for the three years, 1924 to 1926, averaged $1,282,562 (6,592,400 gulden) per annum or 3.30 times the annual interest and sinking fund of this Loan. In 1926 such revenues amounted to $1,729,182 (8,888,000 gulden) or 4.45 times the annual service requirements of the Loan. From January 1 to July 18, 1927 such revenues amounted to $889,416 (4,571,600 gulden) as compared with $698,054 (3,588,000 gulden) for the same period in 1926.

By virtue of an agreement made pursuant to the Treaty of Paris the Republic of Poland and the Free City of Danzig are obligated to supply to the Board, each to the extent of 50% thereof, any deficiency in the revenues of the Board required to pay the service of the loan.

It is anticipated that the receipts from the Port revenues will be considerably augmented from the increased traffic resulting from the enlargement of the Port facilities, to be effected with the proceeds of this issue.

The Board covenants that all its gross revenues will be paid into the Bank of Danzig, as agent for the Trustee, which is to remit monthly to the Trustee in New York one-sixth of the semi-annual service charges of the Loan.

The Board further undertakes within two years to deposit with the Trust in New York, to be held as a Reserve Fund, an amount equal to one six months' interest and sinking fund payment, which fund pending use can be invested in bonds approved by the American Fiscal Agents and listed on the New York stock exchange.

PURPOSE: The proceeds of this issue are to be used in part for enlarging the Harbor and constructing additions and improvements thereto; the balance to refund an outstanding debt to the Municipality of Danzig amounting to 7,000,000 gulden (approximately $1,362,000) incurred in 1925 and used for similar purposes. The net proceeds of this issue will be deposited in a Special Account in the Bank of Danzig as agent for the Trustee, to be withdrawn only upon order of the Board, and a Certificate of the Board that it will be used to defray the cost of constructing harbor works and to refund said debt.

PORT OF DANZIG: The Port of Danzig is one of the most important Baltic ports, ranking second only to Copenhagen and is the chief outlet for the foreign trade of Poland consisting largely of timber, coal, petroleum, ores and fertilizer.

The following tabulation illustrates the growth of traffic as compared with the best pre-war year:

1912 (best pre-war year)	2,453,000	metric tons of cargo
1924	2,374,000	" " " "
1925	2,722,000	" " " "
1926	6,300,000	" " " "
1927 (first six months)	3,761,295	" " " "

The receipts of the Board have shown a steady increase since the reorganization of the finances of the Free City of Danzig by the League of Nations in 1923.

The Free City of Danzig has a population of approximately 385,000 inhabitants.

Varicose Veins
Reduced or Money Back

Simple Home Treatment That Is Giving Amazing Results.

The world progresses. Today ailments that took weeks to cure can now be ended in a few days. If you have varicose veins or bunches you can start today to bring them back to normal size, and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moon's Emerald Oil at any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning as directed to the enlarged veins. It is very powerful and penetrating, and only a little is required.

After a few days' treatment the veins will begin to grow smaller and by regular use will soon reduce to normal.

People who want to reduce varicose veins, or get rid of running sores and ulcers, should not hesitate to get a bottle at once. It is so powerful that a small bottle lasts a long time. Any pharmacy can supply you. Walgreen Drug Stores sell lots of it.

Tender feet germ found

Complete relief from stubborn foot ailments now assured, say doctors.

Announcement that the cause of their suffering has been discovered, will greatly interest the many persons who have foot trouble. Blisters, on the soles and between toes; itching, peeling, burning, swelling, and painful tenderness; with perspiration so excessive at times, that it comes thru the shoes.

These it is now known are just symptoms of what is really a disease. The cause is infection from the germ P. Vulgaris. So named because of the offensive odor often noticed where it is present. The failure of foot baths, powders or other surface treatments led to the discovery of the germ. Deep down in the pores beyond the reach of the ordinary remedy, it constantly irritates the oil and sweat glands; exciting them to excessive discharge. This with acid poisons from the germ is the cause of widespread foot troubles that have long baffled medical science.

Results obtained from a special cream appear to fully confirm the germ as the trouble maker. This new cream makes use of powerful antiseptic and tonic properties that penerate to the germ and destroy it. Healing starts at once. And in all cases treated so far, natural foot health and comfort have been restored in a few days.

Rights to marketing the new cream have been acquired by a St. Louis firm, The Dritone Pharmacal Co., which will fill orders by mail. Extensive manufacture is planned as druggists say the demand is large. An advance supply of the new cream has been obtained by Wolff-Wilson, who will sell it at popular prices under the name of DRITONE.

PROGRAM TO PRECEDE CHARITY BALL GAME

Running Race, Fencing Contest and Gymnastic Drill at Sportsman's Park.

Four hours of athletic exhibitions, music and fun making will precede tomorrow's ball game between the world champion Cardinals and Philadelphia, at Sportsman's Park. It will be the thirteenth annual "Tuberculosis Day" of the Tuberculosis & Health Society of St. Louis and the tenth in which the Cardinals have given their services. An attendance of 25,000 is expected.

This event is one of the chief sources of meeting the society's $125,000 annual budget for public health work and disease prevention, centering on tuberculosis. Profits from the game average $25,000 a year.

Three hundred St. Louis girls, dressed as "flapper health gypsies," will distribute "educational score cards" for donations and each purchaser will find an order for some sort of present, of which 43,000 have been supplied by 790 firms. Soda and other concessions will not benefit the society.

Gates Open At Noon.

Gates of the park will open at noon. Twenty minutes later the Madison School ball team, winner in the Public School League this year, and the Laclede team, runner up, will meet for an abbreviated contest on the diamond, lasting till 1:20. At 1 o'clock the Sixth Infantry and Letter Carriers' bands and the drum corps of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Alhambra Grotto, De Soto Council of Daughters of Isabella, Knights of Columbus and boys of St. Edward's school will go into action. At 1:30 a grand march of the musicians, athletes and others around the park will begin.

Following this, there will be a 75-yard dash for girls, the contestants being the winners of races at about 25 city playgrounds. Next will be a girls' 100-yard dash, open to all, with about 30 entrants. The big league teams will then have half an hour for practice, giving way at 2:30 o'clock to drill teams from Alhambra Grotto and the Knights of Columbus.

Girls' Fencing Match.

About 2:40 o'clock the annual marathon race for boys will finish in front of the stands. The course, starting in Fairgrounds Park, is 2.9 miles long, with the last half-mile in the park. About 350 boys will compete. When this is ended, girl gymnasts from Sherman Park, wearing red and white satin suits and masks, will give a demonstration of fencing.

Men and girl gymnasts from Sherman Park will follow them in an exhibition of pyramiding and horse vaulting. Meanwhile, officials of the society will present 25 cups and 100 medals to the winners and runners up in the marathon and girls' races. The big league players will return for practice at 3:35 o'clock and at 4 o'clock the umpire will cry "Batterrr up!"

COMPANY SUED FOR LEAVING RUBBISH ON VACATED PROPERTY

Owners Seek $10,000 Damages From Northwestern Terra Cotta Concern.

The Northwestern Terra Cotta Co., formerly the St. Louis Terra Cotta Co., was sued for $10,000 damages yesterday by the owners of property at Manchester and Pierce avenues, who claim this property, which was vacated by the terra cotta firm last year after a six-year lease, was left covered with rubbish, broken terra cotta and other refuse.

This is probably the first damage suit ever filed here in which is involved the question of whether a tenant must surrender property in good condition upon leaving.

The suit was filed by Mark E. Gilkerson, Frank R. Cochran and Susan K. Homes, who leased the property to the terra cotta company in 1920 at an annual rental of $4000 plus payment of taxes. The petition states that the owners did not know the condition of the property when it was vacated and that it will cost fully $10,000 to remove debris from the grounds.

GEHRIG AND LAZZERI HIT HOMERS IN SIXTH; PENNOCK IN FORM

By George W Daley.

Of the New York World Sport Staff.

NEW YORK, July 27.—The Yankees defeated the Browns in the third game of the series here this afternoon.

The score was 4 to 1.

George Sisler and Harry Rice were forced to remain on the sideline because of leg injuries. Sisler was hurt when sliding into the plate on the scoring end of a double steal in the second game yesterday, and Rice also was injured when sliding for home.

Frank O'Rourke played first base.

Win Ballou and Herb Pennock were the pitchers.

The game:

FIRST INNING.

BROWNS—O'Rourke struck out. Bennett rolled to Gehrig. Williams went out the same way. NO RUNS.

YANKEES—Combs walked and died stealing, O'Neill to Gerber. Koenig grounded to O'Rourke, unassisted. Ruth walked. Gehrig flied to Williams. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING.

BROWNS—E. Miller tripled to left center. Melillo singled to right, scoring E. Miller. Adams forced Melillo, Lazzeri to Koenig. O'Neill lined to Koenig and Adams was doubled off first, Koenig to Gehrig. ONE RUN.

YANKEES—Adams threw out Meusel. Lazzeri popped to Gerber. Gazella beat out a hit towards third. Grabowski singled to center, Gazella stopping at second. Bennett made a fine running catch of Pennock's liner. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING.

BROWNS—At this stage it started to rain and the game was held. After a 10-minute delay play was resumed. Gerber flied to Ruth. Ballou grounded to Gehrig.

RHEM, FINED $2000, SAYS HE WILL QUIT CARDINALS

PENALTY FOR VIOLATING CLUB RULES

Pitcher Admits Drinking in Philadelphia but Objects to Punishment and Threatens to Go Home at Once.

By J. Roy Stockton.

Flint Rhem, Cardinal pitching ace, who was one of three National League hurlers to win as many as 20 victories last season, has been fined $2000 for misbehavior in Philadelphia.

This fact developed today when Rhem, in street clothes, announced to the Post-Dispatch that he expected to depart for Rhems, North Carolina, tonight, and that he was quitting the team for good.

Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals, when asked about the situation said that Rhem had violated training rules n Philadelpha and had been fined $2000 in accordance with a cluase in Rhem's contract.

"Rhem's agreement in writing with the club is to the effect that if he violates training rules he is to have his salary reduced $2500. As part of the season already has elapsed, the proportion of $2000 was taken from the amount due him."

When Breadon was informed that Rhem had said he intended to quit the team and return hime he merely shrugged his shoulders. It's all in a days' work with a baseball club owner.

Breadon did not reveal what the amount of Rhem's salary was, but it was known that Rhem was holding out for $15,000 a year, before the playing season began.

"I was drinking, all right," Rhem told the Post-Dispatch, "but I was not the only one. I didn't see why I should be the only one to be penalized for enjoying myself on the trip. There were others. They didn't fine Alexander.

"As a matter of fact, I was trying to help out Alexander at Philadelphia. Everybody wanted to entertain him and I knew he was trying to avoid too much entertainment. I took the stuff from him and drank it myself. Then I took care of him.

"After that fine I am out of baseball for good. I'm through."

Has Nine Victories, Six Defeats.

A reporter for the Post-Dispatch who accompanied the team on its tour said he saw no sign of the "good times" enjoyed by the other members of the club as depicted by Rhem.

Rhem is not dependent on baseball for a livelihood, as his family own a big tobacco plantation in North Carolina. Last spring, while holding out, he threatened to quit the game for good.

Rhem this year has a record of nine victories and six defeats.

Dreana Lee, under good handling and saving ground, came to outside of Domesticated after reaching the stretch and finishing fast, passed the latter to hold Hedemora safe. Latter worked her way up fast in first quarter, responded gamely and was getting to the winner. Sandrine raced forwardly throughout and held on gamely. Miss Fire finished fast. Netta Run tired after reaching the stretch. Domesticated quit.

$2 mutuels paid—Dreana Lee, win $116.14, place $42.82, show $24.60; Hedemora, place $25.62, show $9.92; Sandrine show $3.68.

Seventh race, $1200, claiming, 4-year-olds and upward, mile and a sixteenth. Start good; won easily; place driving. Went to post 5:12; at post one minute. J. A. MURPHY, RACING AUTHORITY, CONFERS WITH PROMOTERS HERE

Joseph A. Murphy, for the past 25 years one of the West's outstanding racing authorities, arrived in St. Louis from Chicago today, to confer with local racetrack promoters.

Morning and afternoon conferences were held. At the conclusion Judge Murphy said that their discussions had not reached a stage where announcements could be made. He said he would return to Chicago tonight.

DEMPSEY OFFERED $300,000 TO BATTLE SHARKEY IN RETURN BOUT

BOSTON MAN MAKES OFFER BY TELEGRAM

Promoter Feels Proposition Is Better Than Ex-Champion Can Make With Rickard to Box Tunney.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, July 27.—A flat guarantee of $300,000 or 40 per cent of the gate receipts has been offered Jack Dempsey for a return battle with Jack Sharkey by Tom Goodwin, matchmaker of the Suffolk A. A. of Boston.

Goodwin, who made his offer in a telegram to Dempsey, feels that his offer is substantially better than any terms the former champion can make with Rickard for a bout with Tunney and that the differences of opinion concerning the events leading up to the knockout of Sharkey in the seventh round leave plenty of room for another try.

Sharkey Ready to Accept.

By the Associated Press.

NEWTON, Mass., —uly 27.—Of course I would," was Jack's answer when asked today if he would meet Jack Dempsey again if Tom Goodwin should succeed in his efforts to arrange a return bout.

"I'm always in condition to fight," he said. "I am feeling fine now, although I was sick Saturday and Sunday. I am certain that I received no injury which would prevent my meeting Dempsey again."

Sharkey was busy again today cleaning up his affairs so that he can leave with his family in a day or two for their camp at Epping, N. H.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 27.—Jack Dempsey's home town today followed its unprecedented welcoming fete to the conqueror of Jack Sharkey yesterday with a demand that the former heavyweight champion stage his comeback battle with Gene Tunney here.

Dempsey hardly had fought his way through a milling throng of 50,000 persons which 300 policemen were unable to control, before a group of business men headed by Richard Ferris, proposed that he fight Tunney in Los Angeles.

Ferris said that although Tex Rickard was understood to "have the bout sewed up," he did not believe Dempsey had actually signed a contract to fight Tunney. Ferris told Dempsey the Los Angeles group would pay $100,000 more than Rickard was willing to pay. Dempsey promised Ferris he would see him and his committee today.

CHICAGO, July 27.—One of the customary accompaniments of heavyweight championship boxing matches, a ticket scandal, would be as novel to Chicago boxing fans as the championship fight, for neither has been on display here since boxing was legalized.

With the conference of Tex Rickard and Chicago officials set for tomorrow, much of the fight discussion here among those who assume that it is as good as settled, has raged around the ticket distribution.

SPORT SALAD

by L. C. Davis

They're Off at Kinloch

ACCORDING to the highest courts,
The sport of Kings and king of sports,
Is absolutely legal.
And it is just as fair in Mo.,
Upon a horse to bet your dough
As on a racing beagle.

Yes, kid, we know a beagle's not
A greyhound, but, it helps a lot
To call him one for rhyme's sake.
And if they build another track,
An bring the good old horses back,
We'll cheer them for old time's
sake.

To gather the elusive kale,
A betting system will prevail
That's known as "contribution."
And we've a feeling, like as not,
That we'll contribute to the pot
To help the institution.

QUITE SO.

Yes, sir, if they build a couple of tracks in or near St. Louis that will not conflict in dates with the East Side tracks, there will really be no excuse for not going to the races every day.

In order to give everybody a chance to see everything that is going on the dog races might be started an hour later moonlight-saving time.

By working morning and afternoon shifts business might be carried on as usual and not interfere with outdoor sport.

The newest wrinkle in baseball is Charley Root's wrinkle ball. Kind of a seersucker ball, we take it, that makes a sucker out of the batter.

Charley says he wore all the skin off his knuckles trying to perfect the wrinkle ball and now it has 'em all skinned.

The boy on the bank says to make a worm 100 per cent efficient for bait you got to spit on it. The boy has the right angle.

Tex Rickard says the radio keeps fight fans out of the cheaper seats. Tex suggests that the radio public donate anywhere from 25 cents to $1 for the privilege of listening in. Ain't that Tex the funny feller!

Of course, Tex could refuse to broadcast his stuff and make himself as popular as a K. K. K. at a K. C. convention.

Anyway, why worry about the "cheap" seats, when there ain't no such animal.

Furthermore, the broadcasters' union might boycott the show and make it look like a lot of static.

$40,000 Offered Dundee for Title Contest on Coast

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, July 27.

DICK DONALD, who promoted the fight in which Ace Hudkins of Nebraska, beat Sergeant Sammy Baker of New York here Monday night, announced today he had offered Joe Dundee $40,000 to defend his welterweight title against Hudkins here.

The gate for the Hudkins-Baker bout set a record for the Pacific Coast. More than 30,000 fans witnessed the fight. The gross receipts were $93,063.

A gate of $63,340 attended the championship heavyweight match between Jim Jefferies and Jim Corbett on Aug. 14, 1903, at San Francisco.

Hudkins, who won the decision, drew $22,096. Baker's share was $20,087.37.

CALLOW TO BE GIVEN RELEASE TOMORROW

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, July 27.—Russell S. Callow, crew coach of the University of Washington, will be given his release Thursday, Charles F. May, chairman of the faculty athletic committee, said today.

The university board of control will meet Aug. 5 to make a successor to Callow, who will become crew coach at the University of Pennsylvania.

Among the applicants for Callow's position are Al Ulbrickson, assistant coach at Washington; Mike Murphy, former Washington stroke and now Yale freshman coach; Bob Butler, one time assistant to Callow and former Navy coach, and Don Grant, coach of the 150 pounders at Yale. Of these, Ulbrickson, who was recommended by Callow, is regarded as having an "inside track" in the race for the position.

St. Charles Boy Favored to Win Junior Marathon

Schneider Has Twice Beaten Record in Practice—Benefit Program Tomorrow.

Athletes who will compete in the various athletic events to be held tomorrow in connection with the thirteenth annual observance of Tuberculosis day at Sportsman's Park, are ready for the events. The approximately 300 entrants for the Junior Marathon have finished practice. Runners for the playgrounds championship race for girls and the open championship race for women are also ready.

Chief among the attractions for the benefit will be the game between the world's champion Cardinals and Phillies. Athletic exhibitions, stunts and races will comprise the rest of the entertainment.

Participation of the world champion Cardinals in the fete has been a leading factor in the almost unprecedented ticket sales, according to Byron Moser, treasurer of the celebration. Tomorrow will mark the tenth appearance of the Cardinals as headliners on Tuberculosis day programs.

The number of entrants for the junior marathon which for 10 years has featured, surpasses that of last year, according to Joe Forshaw, chairman of the race. Runners, who for many weeks have been in training, must pass a physical test before they will be allowed to compete. Arthur Schneider of the St. Charles High School team, who for two consecutive Sundays has flashed across the finish line first in practice runs at Fairgrounds Park and has broken the record for preliminary runs, leads the field of entrants.

The playgrounds championship race for girls and an open championship race for women, both newcomers, will be run off during the program of athletic events starting at 12:30 o'clock.

Drills, fencing, athletic exhibitions and surprise events by stars of Dr. Hans Lehrmann's Sherman Park Gymnasium classes, will also be held before the game. The fencing exhibition by members of the classes will be followed by a special exhibition bout between Dr. Hans Lehrmann, physical director of Sherman Park Community Center, and Miss Bobbie Brewer, pupil, who was recently awarded a diamond medal for being the first feminine gymnast to walk the full length of the parallel bars with perfect start and finish.

Presentation of medals and loving cups to winners of athletic events will be made at the conclusion of this part of the program.

LANDIS OFFICIATES IN PENNANT RAISING OF SPRINGFIELD CLUB

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 27.—Judge K. M. Landis, high commissioner of big league baseball, looks to the day when the Czar of Baseball will make his rounds daily by airplane.

"The time isn't far off," he said, "when the big leagues will furnish their commissioner with an airplane to be used in traveling around the circuit. Then he will be able to do his office work in the morning and hop off after lunch for a ball game in a distant city."

Judge Landis is officiating today at the pennant raising ceremonies of the Springfield Senators, last year's champions of the Three-I League.

MRS. MALLORY IS ELIMINATED BY MISS JACOBS

18-Year-Old Girl Captures Eight Straight Games From National Women's Champion — Scores Are 6-0 ,10-8.

By the Associated Press.

MANCHESTER, Mass., July 27.—Uncovering a dashing brand of tennis which kept the gallery gasping, Miss Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Cal., today defeated Mrs. Molla Mallory, national champion in the quarter finals of the Essex County Club invitation tournament here, 6—0, 10—8.

The assault by the 18-year-old girl, who won six straight in the first set, took the spectators by surprise, for she is too newly arrived in the women's division to have attained a ranking.

Smashing strokes from all parts of the court which Mrs. Mallory was forced to return with her backhand again and again forced the champion into error. Miss Jacobs herself made but eight errors in the set and kept her fast service, working in perfect order. Five placements scored by Mrs. Mallory were scattered and, although there were several long rallies, she found no opportunity to break thhrough for a game.

Miss Jacobs continued her winning way into the second set and added the first two games to her string.

Miss Wills Advances.

By her defeat of Mrs. Mallory the California girl seems assured of meeting Helen Wills in the final of the tournament.

During Miss Jacobs' match against the National champion Miss Wills was meeting Mrs. B. E. Cole II, of North Andover on the adjoining court. Miss Wills won the first three games of her match and then apparently turned her attention to the Jacobs-Mallory match, losing the next three. She rallied to take the set, 6—3. Miss Wills easily ran through the second set, 6—1, giving her the match.

As a result of the matches played today, which cleaned up the fourth round, the semifinals will be played tomorrow with Miss Wills against Mrs. J. Dallas Corbiere of Boston and Miss Jacobs matched with Miss Margaret Blake of Lenox. Mrs. Corbiere defeated Miss Rosamund Newton of Brookline today, 6—2, 6—3, and Miss Blake defeated Miss Elizabeth Bright of Cambridge, 3—6, 6—4, 6—2.

Miss Jacobs' victory over Mrs. Mallory upset the predictions of tennis followers who had expected the elimination of the 18-year-old Western girl as a result of her showing at East Hampton, N. Y., last week when she was defeated by Miss Penelope Anderson of Richmond, Va. In the East Hampton Tournament, Miss Anderson was beaten by Miss Eleanor Goss who later lost to Mrs. Mallory.

EAST SIDE SPORT BRIEFS

East St. Louis' Municipal championship tennis tournament opens on the Jones Park courts tomorrow. Theodore "Ted" Eggmann, captain of the Cornell University net squad; Mac Neil Smith, champion of Southern Illinois, and Peter Shukest, defending champion, are expected to play in the tourney.

East Side Muny Race Close.

With four of the scheduled games now played the second half split season race of the East St. Louis Municipal Baseball League is proving a thriller. At this stage of the race the Polish National Alliance and Slack Furnitures are tied for the lead, each having won three games and lost one. The tie will be shattered Sunday when the two teams clash. The Slacks won the first half.

Fore Star, racing restrained but slighty wide, came to leaders fast on outside at stretch turn and, responding gamely, overhauled Infatuation to win with something in reserve. Infatuation saved much ground, taking the lead, and held on fairly well to the end. Francis Rock, a forward factor throughout, disposed of Attica at stretch turn, but tired thereafter. Sobrose had no mishap. Donna Santa lacked speed and ran a dull race. Casino was outrun.

$2 mutuels paid: Fore star, win, $7.20; place, $3.82; show, $3. Infatuation, place, $4.70; show, $4.06. Francis Rock, show, $3.90.

Moneague, hard hustled to take lead in first quarter, raced restrained, but showed most speed around the turns and came away slowly after reaching the stretch. Royal Manager, also urged hard from the break, raced in closest pursuit of pace throughout and held on well. Trojis began slowly, worked his way through field after a quarter and finished gamely Gene Oliver suffered much interference entire trip. Go Away tired after racing well to the stretch.

$2 mutuels paid: Moneague, win $10.02, place $4.74, show $3.88; Royal Manager, place $8.02, show $7.24; Trojis, show $4.70.

Meknes, racing greatly improved and strongly restrained, while following the pace on the outside, responded gamelywhen called on after reaching the stretch and, making a game finish, wore down Hot Time in final sixteenth. Latter showed dazzling speed from the start, saved ground, an dalthough finishing well, was not good enough. St. Valentine, prominent from start, tired in last furlong. Traveler finished with a rush. Superfrank lacked his usual strong finish. Flattery was never a serious factor, but suffered some light interference. Bright Shawl was taken completely out of it and finished fast. Baalbec quit badly after a good half mile.

$2 mutuels paid: Meknes, win $61.04, place $24.88, show $15.04; Hot Time, place $21.64, show $12.26; St. Valentine, show $20.16.

HANDBALL DOUBLES TOURNAMENT ENTERS SECOND ROUND

First round matches in the doubles division of the Western A. A. U. handball tournament at the Y. M. H. A. courts were played last night with L. Gast and L. Blocher providing the feature by defeating H. Reichel and A. C. Richter after three interesting games, 21-16, 9-21, and 21-16.

Milton Smith, Washington University titleholder and defeated finalist in the singles tournament, paired with Bob Larmore, defeated L. Friedman and M. Feld easily, 21-19, 21-7, Morganstern and Fleishman defeated C. Schucart and A. Gelber 21-3, 21-3, and J. Gallant and H. Gelber won from F. Schucart and H. Feldscher, 21-3, 18-21, and 21-5, in the other matches.

Tonight's program will be featured by the match between Dr. Rich, recently crowned the W. A. A. U. singles champion, who is paired with G. Moscowitz, and Mike Cunningham and Jack Screnco.

O'FARRELL'S ANSWERS

Did the Browns ever play any Tuberculosis day benefit games and if so, how many? RAY GOEBEL.

Yes, two games.

(1) In a run-up the runner gets safely back to third but is hit on the arm by the catcher's peg. Catcher claims interference and the umpire rules runner out. Is he right?

(2) Bases full. Batter hits a pop fly to third baseman, who muffs the ball but recovers in time to tag the man from third on the baseline. I claim it was a double play, batter being out under the infield fly rule. Am I right? SCOTT FIELD.

(1) If the runner deliberately interferes, he is out. Otherwise not. It is up to the judgment of the umpire.

(2) If one, or less, was out, it was a double play, as you claim. But if two were out, the batter was not automatically out, only the tagged runner being out.

ATLANTA PREPARES ELABORATE WELCOME FOR BOBBY JONES

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 27.—Atlanta officially again will pay homage to its illustrious golf champion, Bobby Jones, in his triumphal homecoming in New York Friday.

A large party of Atlantans at noon today will board a private car of the Crescent Limited for the journey northward to greet the youngster upon his arrival aboard the Acquitania, bearing with him his second consecutive British open golf championship crown. Mayor pro tem Guy Hobbs will go as official representative of the city of Atlanta.

Accustomed to each fresh honor of its famous son, culminating last year when he held the three most coveted golfing titles in the world, the city nevertheless has prepared to acclaim Bobby in a fashion rivaling past demonstration.

DAVIS CUP PLAYERS RANK AMERICAN TITLE AS SECONDARY

Lacoste, Preparing for Trip to United States, Announces He Will Retire After This Season.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 27.—"The Davis Cup first, the American championships second," is the motto of the French Davis Cup team, which is making ready for the American invasion. Rene Lacoste, Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon will sail on the Steamer Paris for New York tonight, but Jean Borotra is still engaged in selling American gasoline pumps in Germany and will not depart until next week.

"Please do not construe this as braggadocio, or meaning that we are certain to capture both events," said the Taciturn Lacoste. "I wish we were."

Cochet, "the five-set hero of Wimbledon," and conqueror of Tilden, Hunter and Borotra, remarked: "I will tell you all about it when we come back."

"Yes, I am going to quit tennis after this year," Lacoste said in confirmation of a previous statement to that effect. "Amateur tennis now takes up so much time, one has no leisure to do any work."

To Go Into Business.

Rene Lacoste is the son of a millionaire father, who once was champion singles sculler of France. The father only agreed that Rene should take up tennis when a youth in 1922 upon the promise that he would be champion of the world. The son now desires to follow in his father's footsteps in business and make money.

The cool, collected little Henri Cochet, whose revenue, close friends say, does not exceed $3000 a year, told of having declined attractive offers. "You know, I was offered half a million francs at Wimbledon to turn professional a few days before I beat Tilden," he said. "My victory over Tilden cost me two thousand francs (about $80) expenses; yet I would rather have defeated Tilden than made a million francs."

"It was somewhat of a surprise to me, this victory over Tilden," Cochet continued. When informed that it was a much greater surprise to the 15,000 or more spectators, the stout-hearted little Lyons player countered: "You know, I felt that if I won that third set I might win the match. But did I really look as bad as you scriveners said during the first two sets?"

Upon being informed that he appeared to be outclassed, Cochet responded with genuinely modest repartee, which is the secret of his success: "You know, I never really realized I was beaten."

"We will give them the best fight there is in us," declared Pierre Gillou, captain of the French team. "It is my idea now to play Lacoste and Cochet in the singles and Borotra and Brugnon in the doubles. I do wish Cochet has one of his inspired days—on one of his good days he is the best player in the world—for five sets."

Cochet is using a lighter racquet now; instead of the 15-ounce racquet he has adopted one of 14 ounces. "It enables me to meet the ball quicker on the rise," Little Henri explained. Inasmuch as Cochet's pickups are generally understood to be a few inches off the ground, it is a matter of wonderment how much lower he is going to meet the ball.

"Tear all that stuff up," Cochet suddenly said to The Associated Press correspondent. "It may be all wrong. We must defeat Japan first. Please consider I have said nothing."

WRAY'S COLUMN

The Browns' Housecleaning.

PHIL BALL is going to wreck his Browns. As told exclusively in late editions of yesterday's Post-Dispatch, the club is losing money, and, worse still, prestige, because it can't get back on a winning stride. It has gradually been slipping down the standing since 1922. In that year only hard fortune and weak hearts kept the club from attaining the goal of its owner—a pennant.

The Browns today have many of the elements that made the club of 1922 great, but they have aged; some of them have grown sour; one or two have not since attained the heights they reached in 1922. The combination has been lost. New elements added to the club have helped, but not enough. The skeleton on which the structure was built has warped. And so the handicaps must go.

Only four of the 25 players on the club's roster seem to have met the unanimous approval of the owner and advisers of the local club. Even Sisler may not be with the club next year. A complete housecleaning is in prospect.

Team Has Some Stars.

THERE are some pretty good ballplayers on the club. It is idle to suggest that there are only four players on the team who would fit into a winning combination. In this writer's opinion, the chief trouble with the Browns has been the pitching. With adequate correction of the mound situation, the team ought to take care of itself in first division company.

Howley has insisted that his pitching is all right. But the facts are against him. The Browns have a good punch. They have scored plenty of runs—they are third or fourth in the league in total runs scored on the season. Of the first 12 games of their late home stand, the Browns won only four out of 12 yet averaged 8¾ runs per game! per game!

If the Browns can get a couple of airtight pitchers, the first big step toward stabilizing the outfit will have been achieved.

Query: Where are the pitchers?

Red Ink Days.

MR. BALL says the club is close to $100,000 loser on the year. It lost $76,000 the year before. In the entire period since Ball bought into the American League the club has paid few dividends and has had only four or five winning years.

But its plant is now in the million-dollar class and the ball club is worth what you will.

Ball bought into the big league after losing $182,000 in the old Federal League. Probably his winning years have about counterbalanced his losing ones, as the team made $200,000 or so in 1922.

Still Ball has added to his investment, putting over half a million dollars into his plant—just in time for the Cardinals to profit by it last season.

Ball is really in tough luck. But for the trick fate played on him that day in the "little world's series" of 1922 when Dixie Davis was yanked out of a game with only two hits made his expense, the Browns would have gone over the top, the Browns would have won and Phil Ball would have sold out and been at peace with the world.

Start Right.

RACING, dead in Missouri for nearly a quarter of a century, will be revived at two or more St. Louis race tracks under the Supreme Court's recent favorable ruling on the status of certificate pari-mutuel betting.

Missouri legislators who have for years fought the return of betting on horse racing, find themselves unable to move a hand in the matter. At least one year of racing under the certificate plan will be possible before the Legislature can meet again to take action.

It would have been far better for the State, and perhaps for the public, had one of the many racing bills that have been thrown out in past legislative meetings been OK'd. In that case a commission would control the sport, the State would derive a big revenue and protection would be assured racegoers.

Missouri Commission Desirable.

UNDER the Illinois law, the State receives $2500 a day from each track near a city of 500,000 or more and smaller amounts according to population. The track's commission is limited to 6½ per cent, with no "breakage." And inspectors are sent to each track to see that the public's interest is safeguarded.

Under the certificate system, the very least commission taken out by promoters was 11½ per cent. Greedy courses took out more—what they pleased in fact. The State, having no control of the matter, received no revenue and had no right to interfere.

The next Missouri Legislature can help the game and the public by enacting a law legalizing PARI-MUTUEL machine betting, not certificate betting, and by compelling the employment of totalizators or machines which show the exact ticket transactions, as they progress, on each race. The law should also establish a racing commission and limit the number and character of the tracks allowed to operate in the State.

Under such conditions racing would be a real boon to the public and a guarantee of permanency to the promoters.

Forward Press in Backswing Is Key to Good Golf Drive

Bobby Jones Points Out That Body Must Be Put Into Proper Position to Get a Perfect Hit From the Tee.

By "Bobby Jones"
British Open and Southern Champion.

ONE of the most important movements in the golf swing is that which starts the club backward from the ball. The tendency generally is to regard the backswing as unimportant and to concentrate solely upon the hitting stroke. This view overlooks entirely the fact that in order to hit properly one must be in position to do so, and if the backswing is not good, the player will find himself at the top of his swing in such a position that it is impossible for him to direct a decent blow at the ball.

For many years there has been much said and written about the "forward press" but as much used as is the term, the actual meaning and purpose of the movement is very generally misunderstood. The "forward press" is apparently a forward motion of the hands just before the club is started back, followed by a perceptible drag which in effect brings the the club back with a sling.

BOBBY JONES.

I say it is apparently that, for it is attempted in that manner by a majority of players. A friend of mine who plays around the 80 mark told me a few days ago that he had only just found out what was meant by the "forward press" and I can vouch for the fact that he has driven extremely well since.

As a matter of fact, the forward motion, if properly done, has nothing whatever to do with the hands or arms; it is simply and solely a leg motion and its purpose is to set the legs and body into a hitting position. Watch closely any really expert player and pay attention to his knees. You will notice that practically every fine player, just an instant before he starts in his backswing, will give a queer little twitch with his knees. In some styles the motion is quite prononunced while in others it is so quick and slight that it is not easily detected. Johnny Farrell is very quick with it, Bill Melhorn is slower; but they all do it.

"Drag" in Backswing.

THE first movement after the waggle is completed should be a quick and very slight turn of the hips in the direction of the hole, the right knee flexing slightly toward the ball and the left leg straightening at the same time. The almost imperceptible motion is transmitted through the arms to the hands but it does not originate in them. The purpose of the press is to throw the hips and legs into position to start the swing.

The next movement is the real start of the backswing and here again the hips and legs supply the motive force, the hands for a time simply following the lead. This is the drag we hear so much about. The hips turn away from the ball and the hands and arms do not move until they are literally pulled away by the left side.

This "forward press" and "drag" are, of course, not exaggerated, and at times are very difficult to observe. The motion has been regarded as a mannerism and unimportant in the actual stroke. Yet it is the very Hallmark of excellence in golf. George Duncan says he can watch the start of the swing and foretell the result of the stroke. Without going so far, to watch a man start his club backward (within certain limits)) is an infallible indication of his worth as a golfer.

Two Faulty Tendencies.

STARTING the club in this monner obviates two glaring faults common among poorer players. The two general tendencies, I think, are either to pick the club straight up from the ball, or to turn it away abruptly around the right knee. Both, of course, are entirely wrong.

The first, that of lifting the club, is usually the result of taking hold with the right hand. It seems that this member wants immediately to take the club and place it directly upon the shoulder. Of course, with a start of that kind it is impossible to turn the hips and shoulders into anything like a decent position at the top.

Taking the club back too sharply around the knees is caused by a quick turn of the wrists, especially the left one, and is, of course, a thing to be avoided.

By starting the swing with the legs and hips, the most necessary part of the stroke, a correct position at the top is made possible. The body naturally takes a free turn into a comfortable position, and the arms quite as naturally follow. Remember that the forward press is a leg motion and that its function is to induce free hip and shoulder action.

Local Archers in Chicago Tourney

Midwestern Association to Be Formed at Meeting Next Month.

Five St. Louis archers will enter the tournament sponsored by the Chicago and Lincoln Park Archery clubs, Aug. 6 and 7. The tournament will be held on the Lincoln Park range in Chicago.

The St. Louis representatives will be: Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Curd, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Lambert Jr. and Mrs. D. Easterbrook. Entrants in the tournament also will assist in the formation of the Midwestern Archery Association which will include archers of Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio.

Arthur W. Lambert one of the St. Louis entrants, at present holds Weston Gold Cup won in last year's national meet. The cup is awarded for the greatest number of bullseyes scored during the tournament. Lambert, who is the favorite to take individual honors at Chicago next month, also is conceded a good chance of winning the national championship at Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 23 to 26 inclusive.

Frank O'Neill to Retire As Jockey

St. Louisan Asserts He Will Soon Take Up Duties as a Trainer.

(Copyright, 1927.)

PARIS, July 27.—Frank O'Neill of St. Louis, the American jockey and famous as a race rider in four countries, declared yesterday that he had decided to forego the pigskin and turn to training. He did not say just when he would take this step beyond adding that it would be soon.

For 20 years O'Neill has ranked among the leading jockeys of the world. He made a name for himself in the United States before coming to France with the late Fred Burlew in 1907 and it did not take long to establish himself here. One of his greatest triumphs in the United States came in 1903, when he rode Irish Lad to victory in the Brooklyn Handicap, beating Gunfire among others.

For 13 consecutive years O'Neill has headed the list of winning jockeys in France.

M'TIGUE MUST BOX LOUGHRAN FOR NEW TITLE

Veteran Is Given Light Heavy Honors, Vacated by Jack Delaney, by New York Commission.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Disposition of two world's boxing titles, so far as recognition goes in New York, was decided on yesterday when the State Athletic Commission transferred the light-heavyweight crown from Jack Delaney to the veteran, Mike McTigue, and authorized a match between Red Chapman of Boston and Benny Bass of Philadelphia to determine the possessor of the featherweight title vacated by Louis "Kid" Kaplan.

The commission elevated "Bould Michael" to the 175-pound peak after granting the request of Jack Delaney, titleholder for the past year, to be relieved of his championship burden. Delaney, declaring himself no longer able to make the 175-pound weight limit, in as much as he now scales 178 after several week's training, was granted permission to fight in the future as a full-fledged heavyweight. His first engagement will be a 15-round match with Paulino Uzcudun, the rugged Spanish woodchopper and conqueror of Harry Wills, at the Yankee Stadium, Aug. 11.

This was the date on which McTigue was to have fought Delaney for the light-heavyweight title. In view of Delaney's withdrawal, the commission decided it was justified in granting title recognition to the Irishman.

One string is attached to McTigue's title award. The commission stipulated that he must agree within 30 days to box Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, a challenger of long standing.

American Golf Stars Lead in Leeds Tourney

Mehlhorn Totals 140 and Nabholz 141 in Qualifying Round.

By the Associated Press.

LEEDS, Eng., July 27.—Two Americans, "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn and Larry Nabholtz, led the field of 32 qualifiers this afternoon in the Yorkshire Evening News £1000 golf tournament.

Nabholtz with a fine 69 today turned in an aggregate of 141 for the two qualifying rounds, and for a short time led the field, but Mehlhorn, following up his 68 of yesterday with a 72, took the lead with an aggregate of 140.

Nabholtz might have broken the course record but for bad luck on the seventh where he hooked into a bunker and took a 6.

P. H. Rodgers of Old St. Anne's, equalled Bill Mehlhorn's performance of yesterday, returning a 68, but had an aggregate of 145.

When the 32 qualifiers were in Melhorn and Nabholtz still held their leading positions.

British interest centered in the veteran George Duncan who, recovering his wizardry, equaled the course record with a 68 today, after taking a 75 yesterday.

MAGINN WINS GLEN ECHO CLUB GOLF TOURNEY

Jack Maginn won the Glen Echo Country Club golf championship yesterday in the long delayed finals of the tournament, defeating C. B. Spalsbury, 5 and 4 in the 36-hole match. Maginn won his semifinal match about a month ago but the lower bracket matches were completed only last week.

Ban Johnson, Now Ready to Retire, Recalls His Only Game in Big League Park

Tells of Catching in Game in Which Oberlin College Defeated the Cleveland Nationals in 1880 by a Score of 2-0—To Attend Marietta Dedication.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 27.—In the twilight of his baseball career, Ban Johnson today recalled the only major league game in which he ever participated as a player, 47 years ago.

Johnson was a catcher, and his team, representing Oberlin College, defeated the Cleveland Nationals in 1880, 2 to 0.

"We had a strapping big Negro named Davis pitching," Johnson said, "and I caught him, with no mask, chest protector or shin guards. Davis surely had a wicked inshoot and after the game I soaked my catching hand in hot salt water for hours.

"That was before the days of the modern catcher's glove and I padded up my fingerless mitt for the game, but not enough, it seemed. Davis was six feet tall, and a blacksmith from St. Louis."

Ban was then in his fifteenth year and a freshman at Oberlin. Two years later he entered Marietta College, the alma mater of Vice President Dawes.

To Attend Dedication.

It was there that his real affection for the diamond developed and he said today that he had promised to go there for the dedication of the new athletic field this fall.

"I played at second, besides catching, at Marietta, but I remember best the dormitory windows I used to kuock out with home runs.

"My mother objected strenuously to my playing so I could never take my suit home to wash it. I remember one game when I got razzed for being the only Marietta player in a dirty suit, but after I got a couple of long drives, they forgot about the soiled uniform."

Johnson's first efforts at building up ball parks, he said, was at Marietta, where he headed the student organization which raised funds to build Marietta College's first diamond and grandstand.

Johnson laughed as he recalled a story told him by the Vice President about that first ball park.

"You are the only man who was ever able to talk my father out of such a donation," Mr. Dawes told Johnson. "My father subscribed $150, and no one else was ever able to win him over like that."

CALL BOY, ENGLISH DERBY VICTOR, IS SOLD FOR $300,000

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 27. — Call Boy, winner of this year's derby says the Westminster Gazette has been sold for £60,000 (Approximately $300,000) to Sir Harry Mallaby-Deeley. Sir Harry purchased Call Boy from the executors of his brother, the late Frank Curzon to prevent the horse from leaving the country.

DEMPSEY INVITED TO TRAIN AT URBANA

URBANA, Ill., July 27.—Jack Dempsey has been invited to make Urbana his training headquarters for his fight with Gene Tunney in September if the bout is held in Chicago. Dempsey was offered the use of the Urbana Country Club for his training headquarters by the Urbana Association of Commerce. An official invitation also was extended by the Urbana City Council.

KINSEY'S STATUS TO BE DECIDED HERE TOMORROW

Joseph W. Ivy, Official Arbiter, to Determine if Star Is Eligible for Mexican Davis Cup Play.

The question of the eligibility of Robert Kinsey as a member of the Mexican Davis Cup tennis team, which is under scrutiny as a result of a protest lodged by Japan, will probably be settled definitely tomorrow with the arrival here of Joseph W. Ivy of Kansas City, official referee of the Mexican-Japanese series. The matches will be played at Triple A courts in Forest Park Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Ivy's decision will be final, as he has been appointed special arbiter by Julian S. Myrick, chairman of the United States Davis Cup Committee.

Captain Shimizu has protested the playing of Kinsey on the Mexican team on the following grounds: First—That he is not a naturalized citizen of Mexico. Second—That he has not been a permanent resident of Mexico for a period of two years prior to July 28, 1927. The protest sent to Ivy also states that the Japanese players were in Mexico City for a match against Mexico in June, 1926, and at that time there was no indication that Kinsey was a resident of Mexico.

The first section of Rule 21 of the Davic Cup regulations reads as follows: "Any amateur shall be qualified to represent a nation if he shall have been born in, be a citizen of, or become a naturalized citizen of that country or shall have resided therein for at least two years immediately preceding the match" * * *

Kinsey does not claim to qualify as a naturalized citizen of Mexico but as having resided there for more than two years. Affidavits have been filed by President Eduardo Mestre of the Mexican Tennis Association setting forth that Kinsey has been a resident for more than two years. Mestre is here as captain of the Mexican team.

EVANS TO UMPIRE AT JOHNSON CELEBRATION

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 27—Billy Evans, who umpired the first major league ball game which Walter Johnson pitched, was chosen yesterday to umpire the game Aug. 2 at Washington when the capital and the American League will formally observe the twentieth anniversary of Johnson's debut in the big leagues.

The league will present Johnson a medal in the shape of a maltese cross studded with twenty diamonds, President B. B. Johnson said.

"There never has been a player who reflected greater credit on baseball than Walter Johnson," President Johnson said. "In his 20 years in major league baseball, he never has had an argument with an umpire and has never been put out of a ball game."

COURT DECISION WILL NOT AFFECT RACING AT SEDALIA FAIR

By the Associated Press.

SEDALIA, Mo., July 27. — The Supreme Court decision legalizing "contribution" betting, will make no particular difference this year with racing at the Missouri State Fair, W. D. Smith, secretary said. There is not time to make a change in the racing program this year, he said, but added that he believed the new plan could be used next year, and would result in greatly increased interest in the races at the fair.

A PRODUCTION record and a value record! 150,000 yards of fine woolens cut, trimmed, and tailored to produce the 29,000 record breaking suits here described. We bought the surplus yardage of 3 famous woolen mills; quantities that would stagger a clothing plant of average size. For more than four weeks, our factories concentrated their entire production facilities on this one feature; establishing new value records as well as new production records. Now, Bond's customers in 22 great stores will get the benefit!

29,000 SUITS

ST. LOUIS REASSERTS RIGHT TO REGULATE BUS LINE RATES

Petitions Question Authority of State Commission Over Part of Routes Within City.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 27.—The claim of the City of St. Louis that it has full authority over the rates and service of motor busses on that part of their routes within the city, under the new State motor bus law, is reasserted in petitions filed today with the Public Service Commission to intervene in applications of the Brown Bus Co. and Yelloway, Inc., for permits to operate.

A similar intervening petition was filed recently by the city in the application of the Purple Swan Safety Coach Lines, and now is pending before the commission.

The question of whether the commission has full jurisdiction over bus lines operating within cities, as it does over lines operating outside municipalities, now is pending before it in a test case from Springfield. Attorneys for several motor bus companies intervened in this case and advanced arguments in a hearing last week that the commission did have such powers within the cities.

While regulation of motor busses is placed under the commission by the new bus law passed by the 1927 Legislature, the provisions of the law on bus lines within cities seemingly are in conflict. One provision apparently gives the cities full control over bus lines operating within the cities, but another provision apparently limits this to control of use of the streets and gives the commission power over rates and service.

YOUTH UNDER PAROLE SAID TO CONFESS MURDERING GIRL

Tied Victim in Potato Sack and Pinioned Her Under Boards, He Tells Coroner.

By the Associated Press.

WINSTED, Conn., July 27.—Coroner Herman announced today that John Billadella, paroled reform school youth, had confessed to keeping 10-year-old Rose Bordino imprisoned in a deserted factory, tied up in a potato sack and pinioned with heavy boards, for more than two days, at the end of which time she died.

Billadella was quoted as saying that he enticed the girl into the abandoned factory of the New England Pin Co. on the morning of July 16, binding her hand and feet, tying a bag over her head and heaping boards on her in a coal bin.

The next two days Billadella visited the girl and found her still alive, the Coroner said the prisoner told him, but on the third day she was dead. Billadella said he took the body in an automobile to Highland Lake swamp and threw it in. After the body was found he was arrested on information of persons who had seen him hide a bundle in the grass.

LEAVES ESTATE FOR HOSPITAL FOR WHICH SHE DONATED SITE

Mrs. Anna Cook Bequeathed Small Sums to Relatives in Collinsville.

Provision for a city hospital for Collinsville is made in the will of Mrs. Anna Cook of that city who died July 15 at the age of 82 years. Her will, filed for probate at Edwardsville, leaves cash bequests of $400 to $600 to nieces, nephews and other relatives, and a farm of 160 acres to another nephew, and states that the rest of the estate should be used for erection of a hospital on a site which she donated to the city two years ago.

The value of her estate has not been estimated. Two years ago Mrs. Cook gave a tract to the city with the provision that construction of a hospital must be started on the site before her death or the property would revert back to her estate. However, the terms of her will changed that provision.
